death toll is as low as it has been."

Two infantry companies and five doctors of the Georgia national guard were dispatched to Cordele by orders of Governor Eugene Talmadge to provide for the refugees and aid the injured.

C. A. Pound of the Cordele Dispatch, after a tour of the finest residential section, said 25 of the the best homes were "splintered by the wind, just as if a big charge of dyanmite had been exploded in them."

Hundreds Injured

City Manager Brown estimated the injured at "between 300 and 400 persons."

"Both the senior and junior high school buildings were practically destroyed," he said, "but luckily the blow struck before the hour for school to start.

"The twister hit the southwestern part of town, populated mostly by negroes, and ripped through the town toward the northeast. There was practically little damage in the business section, the tragedy having taken its major toll in the residential areas."

The tornadoes came with heavy rains which raised southeastern rivers to threatening proportions.

AUTOMOBILES HIT NEAR KUBLI PLACE

MISSOURI FLAT, April 2.—(Spl.) Two cars were wrecked Monday evening when Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Lippert and two children of Jacksonville and Mrs. Lippert's mother, Mrs. M. Combs of Weiser, Idaho, were on their way to visit Mrs. Combs' sister, Mrs. C. J. Hopper, of Murphy. When near Vance Kubli's place they met Ben Ellis and D. Leabo of Applegate. The road was narrow. Mr. Lippert applied his brakes to slow down.

The brake on the front wheel locked. He released the brake and righted his car when he saw the second car coming. He applied his brakes again and that time his car shot across the road, striking the Ellis car. Mr. Leabo struck the mirror, breaking it and cutting a cash on his forehead requiring three stitches. Both cars were going slow. Both machines were damaged and had to be towed home.

SCIENCE ADVANCE IS HELD AS HOPE FOR 'INCURABLES'

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — (UP) — The medical profession and the public should give more serious attention to suicides due to ill health, believes Dr. Sidney Robby, arthritis specialist.

He classifies the "self-mercy" suicide as the act of a diseased mind and hence never justified. Dr. Robby, who is medical director of the Robby arthritis and asthma clinic here, is convinced that hundreds of lives could be saved each year if the public was informed more thoroughly of the progress of medical science in the field of chronic and "incurable" diseases.

"The so-called mercy suicide," said Dr. Robby, "is due to a state of mind—it is auto-suggestion, a repetition of the thought that the struggle against a supposedly incurable illness is hardly worth while. The truth is that the man who is sick in body is always sick in mind as well. He is in such a state that even if there were some ray of hope he would reject it and at the first unlooked-for opportunity—a convenient gas jet or a loaded gun—his mind would mechanically do what it had been taught by suggestion. To prevent such a temporary lapse or fit of insanity, the person with an 'incurable' disease must never be left alone to brood over his illness, and must be continually buoyed up with hope of a cure.

"In cases of arthritis and allied ailments—of which there are 5,000,000 sufferers in this country—the individual has a definitely hopeless outlook. Many are confined to wheel chairs with constant pain and disuse of hands and legs. They see themselves growing worse and worse each year, suffering more intensely, and when expedients resorted to lose the power to relieve, the patients become desperate. With nothing to look forward to, the average patient usually resigns himself to what he believes to be an impossible situation. Inevitably the thought of suicide enters his mind, and too often the thought is translated to action.

"Yet in arthritis as in other diseases which are thought to be incurable, suicide is not justified because medical science is marching forward and each day adding to our knowledge. In rheumatism scientifically minded doctors are perfecting new means of combatting it, and today the progress of the disease definitely can be stopped and the pain relieved."

GAS DEVELOPED TO PULL DRUNKS OUT OF STUPOR

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—(UP) It isn't necessary to sleep off a jag any more, thanks to science.

Dr. Yandell Henderson, Yale physiologist, has perfected a "gas" lung that will sober a person in less than an hour; at least it has proved that effective in laboratory experiments.

His treatment is a mixture of carbon dioxide and oxygen, administered by fitting a mask over the patient's nose and mouth and forcing him to "take the gas."

It is virtually odorless and, according to Dr. Henderson, "persons deep in coma from too much alcohol have been restored to consciousness, with no subsequent nausea, in from 30 minutes to an hour."

The treatment increases the rate of breathing four or five times, "the most effective and rapid method of eliminating volatile poison from the body," said Dr. Henderson.

The "gas" comes in a small cylinder, about four inches in diameter and 18 inches tall. Each tank, costing $4, will restore from 50 to 100 intoxicated persons to complete sobriety, "according to how badly off they are," the Yale scientist says.

Dr. Henderson believes the treatment is ideal for hospital use.

"Intoxicated persons cost the hospitals money," he explained, "and they want to get rid of them as quickly as possible."

The treatment also can be used in cases of gas poisoning, drowning and to hasten consciousness after administration of anesthesia.

Probably, at some future time, there will be regular "service stations" where a person can drop in on his way home from a party and be "de-alcoholized" for a nominal fee. But Dr. Henderson doesn't promise that convenience.

35 FACING TRIAL IN SEASIDE RIOT

ASTORIA, Ore., April 2.—(AP)—Thirty-five men faced separate trials today on charges of participating in the fatal labor riot at Seaside, March 7.

The group pleaded innocent when arraigned yesterday and pleas for individual trials were granted. The defense reserved 10 days in which to file motions for a change of venue. Date for the first trial was set tentatively for April 27.

Bail for 34 was reduced from $2,500 to $1,000. Bail for Ray Gillispie, president of the Seaside local of the Sawmill and Timber Workers' union, was continued at $5,000.

CONVICT RANGE MAN OF MANSLAUGHTER

BURNS, April 2.—(AP)—The jury which heard the murder trial of Tobe Skeins, range figure, convicted him of manslaughter today for the shooting of his brother-in-law, Ed McDonald, last Stptember.

The jury was out 13 hours. Judge C. H. Ellis will sentence Skeins next week.

Skeins, taking the witness stand yesterday, pleaded self-defense.

UNDERPASS CONTRACT LARGEST ON BID LIST

SALEM, April 2.—(AP)—Construction of the highway undercrossing to permit the Southern Pacific tracks to cross the Pacific highway at Oregon City will be the largest project for which bids will be called by the state highway commission the second day of its session in Portland, April 17. The estimated cost was in excess of $300,000.

The project will replace the narrow undercrossing on a turn at the southern entrance to Oregon City, and will be constructed of steel and concrete.
