On Roxy Screen

Versatile in her screen characterizations, Barbara Stanwyck is starred in the title role of "Annie Oakley," dramatization of the famous markswoman's career as Buffalo Bill's star performer in his arena spectacle, at the Roxy theater today and Friday.

Preston Foster, Melvyn Douglas, Moomal Olan, Andy Clyde and Pert Kelton have important roles with Miss Stanwyck in this good old-fashioned melodrama of the roaring twenties.

Band Box Marks 8th Anniversary With Gift Sale

Millinery was featured exclusively by the Band Box when it was opened eight years ago by Mr. and Mrs. U. J. Carpenter at 223 East Sixth street. This week they are celebrating another anniversary which finds their store occupying three times its original space and the stock now including shoes and women's ready-to-wear apparel.

As a special anniversary gift the Band Box will present a free boutonniere to each woman who purchases a hat priced at $1.95 or more for the duration of this sales event. Speaking of millinery styles for 1936, Mr. Carpenter described them as reverting to the more frivolous types of former years favoring flower, veil and feather trimmings. A new shipment of Easter bonnets has been received at the Band Box for the anniversary sale.

In 1929 a shoe department was added to the Band Box and in 1932 the store was substantially enlarged to include wearing apparel for women. The Carpenters report that 1936 will be a very successful year if sales for the past two months are an indication.

Stars in Rialto's Double Bill

All the action, excitement, thrill and romance of the old time western are included in "Moonlight on the Prairie," drama of the old west which will play on the same program with the personal appearance of the internationally famous mentalist, Jay Clarke, at the Rialto theater tomorrow and Saturday. Mr. Clarke concludes his engagement at the Rialto Saturday night, but for the benefit of those ladies that have more personal questions that seem unaskable in a mixed audience, he will conduct a special ladies' matinee on Friday afternoon.

"Moonlight on the Prairie" features the screen's new western singing star, Dick Foran, with Sheila Mannors and George E. Stone in support.

Famous Mentalist Entertains Crowd In Rialto Showing

Jay Clarke, world famous mentalist, who has been creating much comment during his engagement at the Rialto theater the past few days, will give a special Ladies' Matinee tomorrow afternoon from 2:00 to 3:00 p. m. Doors will be opened at 1:30. No men or children will be admitted to the Rialto during that hour, in order that women patrons may feel free to ask questions of a more personal nature than would be the case with a mixed audience. Clarke will answer all questions asked of him, offering unquestionably one of his greatest performances.
