Dr. Ernest De Alton Partridge, national director of research, Boy Scouts of America, will accompany J. W. Wilson and R. A. Frost of England on their visit to the Crater Lake area council on Sunday. He will take an active part in the two sessions to be conducted for the scouts of the council.

The first session will be held during the afternoon at the Hotel Medford from 3:00 to 4:30 p. m. for all the scoutmasters, assistant scoutmasters and district commissioners of the Crater Lake area council.

The second session will be open to all scouters, parents, friends and scouts. The meeting will also be held in the Medford Hotel from 5:00 to 7:00 p. m.

An invitation is extended by scout headquarters to everyone who is interested in hearing these distinguished scouts to attend the early evening meeting.

Dr. Partridge is a native of Provo, Utah. He attended grade school, high school and Brigham Young University at Provo. In the latter institution he specialized in education, completing the course for the degree of bachelor of science.

Dr. Partridge became a scout in 1918 on his twelfth birthday, and has been actively enrolled since. He completed his requirements for the Eagle Scout award in 1924, and two years later became president of the Older Scouts conference in Utah. In 1928, he received a Harmon Foundation scholarship award for Eagle Scouts. His professional experience in scouting began in 1927 when he became field executive in Provo, Utah, and in addition, served as assistant director, and later camp director. In June 1928, he joined the staff of the national office as assistant to George W. Euler, then in charge of the statistical and registration work of the national office in which capacity he served until November 1934, when he became national director of research.

He is the author of "Leadership Among Adolescent Boys," a monograph published by Columbia University and several articles on adolescent psychology.

Dr. Partridge is married and has two sons. His work at the national office consists of program development and research.

He has been active in the development of the Older Boy Program of the Boy Scouts of America.

GOVERNOR SILENT AS FATEFUL HOUR NEARS FOR BRUNO

should decide to issue a reprieve, the warden would be obliged, under the Wilentz interpretation of the law, to postpone the execution, as directed.

Three Roads Open.

The attorney general said the only means by which Hauptmann newly shaved today in preparation for the electric chair—could be saved, were:

1. Reprieve.
2. Commutation of sentence by the court of pardons.
3. A stay of execution by the court.

As to a reprieve, the attorney-

NEW ELKS RULER APPOINTS AIDES FOR YEAR'S WORK

A crowd of approximately 200 Elks last night attended the installation ceremonies at the lodge temple when Walter Olmscheid was ushered into his new duties as exalted ruler. Others who assumed new positions in the big installation were Joseph A. Burroughs as esteemed leading knight, Arthur Heas as esteemed loyal knight, and Robert A. Duff as esteemed lecturing knight.

Ernest L. Scott retained his position as secretary, as did George Fry as treasurer and N. S. Young as sayer. The dinner prepared by P. C. Bigham was declared one of the most excellent ever served by him, and the program, including music by the lodge band, a piano solo by Sebastian Apollo, talks by Larry Schade and C. E. Gates, and a comic song by E. C. (Jerry) Jerome, was voted highly entertaining.

Following the regular lodge session, the new exalted ruler, Olmscheid, made the following committee appointments for the new year:

Exquisite, Frank Husong; chaplain, B. L. Sanderson; inner guard, C. H. Marine; organist, Sebastian Apollo.

Finance: Larry Schade, chairman; Carl Tengwald, E. M. Wilson.

Relief: Joe Burroughs, chairman; Arthur Heas, Robert Duff, Ernest Scott, George Fry.

Sickness and Visiting: Nick Young, chairman; L. G. Morthland, C. R. Fry.

House: Dr. Lantis, chairman; Diamond Flynn, Walter Olmscheid.

Social and Community Welfare: E. W. Winkie, chairman; T. E. Daniels, O. O. Alenderfer, E. C. Jerome.

Membership and Lapsation: Stan Sherwood, chairman; Cole Holmes, Leon Haskins, A. O. Tollefson, Dan Watson.

Lodge Activities and Entertainment: F. Wilson, chairman; Otto Frohnmayer, Sam Carey, Verne Shangle, Dr. Shockey, B. C. McKenna.

Special By-Laws: Otto Frohnmayer, chairman; O. H. Bengtson, Stanley Boggs.

Master of Initiatory Work for Purpose of Organizing Degree Team: Ramson Webster, chairman.

Banquet and Picnic Grounds: P.

general has expressed the opinion that the governor has no further power to grant one. He told the warden he had heretofore advised Hoffman "at his request" that the governor was without such authority, as to the action by the pardons court, that court has already twice refused clemency.

As to the courts, Hauptmann's lawyers have been beaten in every attempt for escape through the courts.

Preparations Made.

Col. Kimberling said that he would abide by the ruling; that preparations were going ahead for the execution; and that unless one of the attorneys specified, Bruno Hauptmann would die tonight.

The attorney-general's action placed the matter squarely up to Governor Hoffman.

The governor was promptly advised of the ruling, but gave no indication what he might do. Less than a week ago he said there would be "no second reprieve."

The condemned man, who was conferring in the death house with his spiritual adviser, the Rev. John Mathiesen, at the time, was "more cheerful than ever today," the minister said when he emerged from the prison at 3:50 p. m. So far as was known, Hauptmann had not then heard of the attorney general's ruling.

TRENTON, N. J., April 3.—(AP)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann, who three times has escaped the electric chair, awakened earlier than usual today, started immediately to read the Bible and told his guards he was "confident and not worrying."

The office of Col. Mark O. Kimberling, prison warden, announced that Hauptmann—in marked contrast to the restless night he spent Monday before his previous date with death—seemed well last night.

However, soon after arising at 9 a. m., he again went through the ordeal of being "prepared" for the chair. He was given clean clothes and transferred from his old cell, number nine, next to the death chamber, to the adjacent number eight.

His transfer on Tuesday, the usual death day routine, unerved Hauptmann and made him realize how near he was to death. C. Lloyd Fisher, his attorney said.

Has Big Breakfast.

The stoical and confident Bronx carpenter, who usually arises too late for breakfast, ate a big one today and ate it heartily. He had two eggs, cereal, bread and coffee.

Stunned by the news that no further request for a stay in Hauptmann's execution would be made by the grand jury, the condemned man's wife, Anna, hoped valiantly today for another reprieve from Gov. Harold G. Hoffman.

Despite Governor Hoffman's announcement less than a week ago, "there will be no second reprieve," Mrs. Hauptmann wanted to plead with him for her husband's life.

Hauptmann's wife burst into tears when she was informed of the grand jury's failure to indict Paul H. Wendel on a charge of slaying the Lindbergh baby.

She wept again when she heard that from the grand jury would come no further request to prolong Hauptmann's life.

Belief that the grand jury would indict Wendel had been Mrs. Hauptmann's strongest hope for her husband's salvation.

"My husband will not die in the electric chair. I will see him again," she said confidently yesterday after her "last visit" to Hauptmann permitted under prison rules.

A three repeated situation confronted Mrs. Hauptmann today—the task of watching the clock hands move around toward his death hour.

of Lamar, Mo., was found in the bathtub of the couple's campus home on the morning of May 30, 1933.

Claimed Fall Responsible.

Lamson was arrested immediately, but contended Mrs. Lamson received fatal head injuries from an accidental fall in her bathtub.

Authorities found a short piece of iron pipe in a bonfire Lamson was tending and sought to prove he had beaten his wife over the head with it as the result of an unhappy married life.

There were several fractures on the back of Mrs. Lamson's head. Both the prosecution, directed by Deputy District Attorney A. P. Lindsay, and the defense, headed by Attorney Leo Friedman, brought forth experts whose testimony disagreed.

Some testified the injuries could have been caused by a fall, while others contended the fractures resulted from a severe force, probably the iron pipe.

Ballots of the three juries showed 30 for conviction and six for acquittal.

TOWNSEND CLUB NO. 2 REFORMED

A Townsend club to take the place of the disbanded club No. 2, which voted to disolve about two weeks ago, was organized at the council chambers of the Townsend headquarters here, 21 South Riverside, last night.
