WORLD WONDER CAR, A TRAVELING MUSEUM, WILL VISIT MEDEORD

The largest traveling museum in the country, the World Wonder Car will appear in Medford Tuesday and Wednesday under auspices of Medford post of the American Legion. The car has a strange cargo of over 1000 exhibits of visual education. Arrangements for bringing the unique motorized exhibition to this city were completed today by the Legion.

Since leaving Washington, D. C., December 7, 1933, the Wonder Car has visited many states and has been officially greeted by governors of states visited. Christened by Dr. Chas. G. Abbott of the national museum before leaving the nation's capital, it has been visited by hundreds of thousands of persons along its route. The exhibition will be open while here from 9 a. m. to 10 p. m. each of the two days.

Varied exhibits included in the Wonder Car include war relics, rare coins and stamps, dressed fleas from Mexico, cavern exhibits, patent models, authentic Lincoln relics of considerable value, the story of silk explained, a Jivaro Indian's shrunken head from South America, marine displays, Edison's first electric lamp and many other rare items from several strange lands.

The Wonder Car carries the endorsement of the federal bureau of education and school children are especially invited to see it. All exhibits are carefully labeled. The museum, which already has traveled over 300,000 miles is insured for $225,000. The Abraham Lincoln exhibit, which is now seen outside of Washington for the first time should be of special interest.

BEND, Ore., April 10.—(AP)—F. T. Fairchild, 22, world war hero and manager of the Brook-Seaton lumber company of Bend, died here today from a heart attack.

QUINTUPLETS Please In Craterian Film
The much-heralded and long-awaited Dionne Quintuplets picture, "The Country Doctor," arrived on the screen of the Craterian theater yesterday. Net result: Capacity crowds that set new opening day records for the theater.

Due to the tremendous interest being shown in the picture, it was announced today that the Holly theater will be opened for tomorrow (Saturday), to give everyone a chance without the necessity of waiting long hours in line.

Although essentially a story of a country doctor, just as the title implies, the film plot naturally is woven about the birth of the "quints." And he is said to be the credit of the five healthy, happy little girls, they make their screen appearance thoroughly delightful. It is easy to predict that many will return a second time just to see the young ladies in this, their first feature-length appearance.

The picture itself is a gesture toward the hearty acclaim the entire world holds for Dr. Allan Roy Dafeo, especially after viewing the youngsters in their perfectly normal moments. And in so honoring the country doctor, the supporting cast, particularly Jean Hersholt, who plays Dr. Dafeo on the screen, was chosen with exceptional care. Each member makes his own part, large or small as the case may be, natural and believable. To go further, one might add that even without the famous babies, "The Country Doctor" would still be a motion picture that would hold enough entertainment of the human, down-to-earth type to satisfy anyone.

"Petrified Forest" Opening Sunday

One of the most dramatic moments in "The Petrified Forest" opening Sunday at the Craterian theater, occurs in the above scene showing Leslie Howard, Bette Davis, Humphrey Bogart and Dick Foran at tense at the moment when the hour they have all dreaded finally arrives.

Howard is shown as the would-be author suddenly coming to a realization of his complete failure in life, wandering through the petrified forest of the Arizona desert. In a way-side eating house, he is thrown together with other misfits.

On the same program, the Craterian will show "Audioscopiks," the novelty short subject that has created so much fun for audiences.
