most of the interesting birds of the Pacific slope. Of particular interest to the crowd was his assertion that the meadowlark, Oregon's state bird, eats a diet of approximately 75 per cent harmful insects, only a small portion (10 per cent of the diet) being seeds. Dr. Cookman stated that at one time it had been urged that the meadowlark be exterminated as a ravager of grain crops.

Good Points Stressed. The habits and interesting features of the various birds were stressed with an eye toward the fascinating and unusual. He displayed the body of a tiny humming bird and of a giant horned owl, and pointed out the good points of each.

Dr. Cookman is a member of the International Adventurer's association, and put on display the flag which symbolizes such membership. The particular bit of bunting has been carried by only four other men—Admiral Byrd, on his flight over the South Pole; Sir Kingsford-Smith on his daring flying expedition; Dr. Arthur Torrence on his trip to the Belgian Congo from where he brought the first pygmies, and by Col. E. P. Bailey whose trips into the heart of the Australian bush set the world agog a few years ago. Dr. Cookman is the last man to carry the flag, which will be placed in the Archive of Flags in Washington, D. C., as a permanent trophy.

Other speakers on the program included Fred B. Crummett, chief of the division of wild life and range management, U. S. forest service, San Francisco; Theodore Simpson, CCC boy, who won a recent conservation essay contest in the Ninth Corps area; M. L. Kimmel, president of the Oregon Wild Life council; B. K. Snider, president of the Shasta-Cascade Wonderland; Tom Stanley, secretary-manager-founder of the association, and William Gates of Medford, who acted in the capacity of master of ceremonies.

Other officers of the association were introduced, as were Karl Janouch, supervisor of the Rogue River National forest service; J. Carlisle Crouch, chief ranger of the Crater Lake national park; A. H. Baywell, manager of the Jackson County Chamber of Commerce, and Judge and Mrs. Earl B. Day.

Officials of the Shasta-Cascade Wonderland declared that the wild life tour has netted remarkable results, and that interest in promoting the territory as one of the nation's playgrounds is increasing rapidly.

News Behind The News

Bankers will not believe it, but trustworthy sources say gold hoarding has become so acute in France that gold bars are being cut up and sold in thin slices. The peasants are putting their savings into these pieces of metallic jelly roll and hiding them out in the barnyards.

This explains the peculiar French situation on devaluation as well as anything could. No French government has dared to devalue so far because of political fear of the peasantry. Furthermore, France can gain nothing by devaluation, except the bookkeeping profit on the gold she already has.

At the same time, French economists must have informed their government that the franc is out of line with other world currencies. They also must know that their costly fight will be fruitless in the end. Everyone else does.

The hardest thing to find out in Washington is what the treasury is doing with the stabilization fund. It is not an inviting detective problem anyway, because you will go to jail if you are successful.

Budget Director Bell, however, will not be prosecuted for informing the house tax committee that no more than $200,000,000 of the fund has been used so far. At least he explained that the reason this amount was carried on the books as the stabilization fund was because it was the working capital. The other $1,800,000,000 is listed as reserve.

Consequently, if Mr. Morgenthau joined again recently in repelling the last attack on the franc, he did not spend very much.

Some students of the French situation are proclaiming that a military dictatorship will be established within a year. They do not see how France can combat two adjoining dictatorships without one. The trouble is nobody worth while has applied for the job. If France had a living Napoleon or a young Clemencau she would have a dictatorship now.

TOWNSENDITES TO HEAR CANDIDATES AT MEET TONIGHT

Townsend board, the managers are selected by the national leaders.

New Manager to Talk

Weir will be the principal speaker at the meeting, Paine said, who added that the newly-arrived manager will discuss "Townsendism and Organization." Paine said he did not know whether Weir would touch upon recent upheavals within the Oregon party. These include:

Reputation of the state board's endorsement of primary candidates by the national board as contrary to policy.

Disapproval by the national board of Paine's plan to raise a campaign fund by collecting a nickel a week for six weeks from the claimed membership of 130,000 in Oregon.

Incorporation of "O. A. R. P. Ltd." to take over the previously established state organization.

Resignation of Charles Hansen as state manager, succeeded by the appointment of James Logan and in turn followed yesterday by the arrival of Weir as Logan's successor, at least temporarily.

State Board to Meet

Paine revealed that the state area board would meet here tomorrow morning but said he did not know what it would discuss.

Asked whether any of the Oregon officers who are also candidates for political office, including himself, had resigned in accordance with the national board's declaration that a Townsend officer cannot retain his post and still be a candidate for office, Paine said:

"That is to be determined. I do not know whether the state board will take that up tomorrow, but I presume it will go into the whole matter of organization with Mr. Weir. I have not withdrawn my candidacy for national committeeman."

"I was employed by the board as campaign manager and until it instructs me further, I shall remain as campaign manager."

Two Fatalities In Industry Week

SALEM, April 10. — (AP) — Albert Hodge, Enterprise laborer, and Adrian Kato, Portland supply man, died during the past week as the result of industrial accidents, the state industrial accident commission reported today.

Hodge was injured at Enterprise March 23, and Kato at Bonneville April 1.

Accidents last week totaled 596.
