

BARBARA'S BABY TAKES THE AIR

This radiograph from London shows little Count Haugwitz-Reventlow as he took his first trip in his new perambulator. Two nurses accompanied the son of the former Barbara Hutton, heiress to the Woolworth millions, on his tour of the private grounds. (Associated Press Photo)

Survives Landing

Lieut. Newton Crumley Jr., 25, army reserve flier and manager of a hotel at Elko, Nev., shown in front of his plane, saved the lives of himself and two companions when he made a skillful emergency "dead stick" landing in the rugged mountain country of northeastern Nevada. They were flying from Reno to Elko. (Associated Press Photo)

NOT A SCRATCH FOR WINNER

This is Freddie Steele, hard-punching Tacoma, Wash., fighter, wearing a wide grin just after he slugged his way to a decision over Eddie "Babe" Risko, world's midweight champion, in a 10-round, non-title bout at Seattle. Steele was unmarked, but Risko was battered about the face. The Tacoma youth now is gunning for a shot at the title. (Associated Press Photo)

Old Soldier 100

Pictured on the porch of his home at Winkelman, Ariz., Major Charles Louis Scott, one-time aide-camp to Gen. Robert E. Lee and a cavalry officer under Gen. J. E. B. Stuart, has just celebrated his 100th birthday. He was one of the Confederate officers who sailed for Europe immediately after the surrender at Appomattox. (Associated Press Photo)

KING EDWARD MAY FAVOR GREEK PRINCESS

Of the five royal young princesses eligible to become queen of England, Princess Katherine of Greece is regarded in London as the most likely to be chosen by King Edward VIII. She is shown above in these recent photographs. The large photo at top was taken in America, as was the one below, showing her with Joan Blondell inspecting a camera at Hollywood. At right, as a bridesmaid in the wedding of the Duke of Kent and Princess Marina of Greece. (Associated Press Photos)

SPEEDY HOOF GETS A MANICURE

Here is one of the four feet that won $100,000 at the Santa Anita handicap getting a manicure in preparation for a $10,000 handicap race at the Tanforan track. It belongs to Top Row, the "little Napoleon" who captured the Santa Anita race. (Associated Press Photo)

WAR, PEACE IN BALANCE

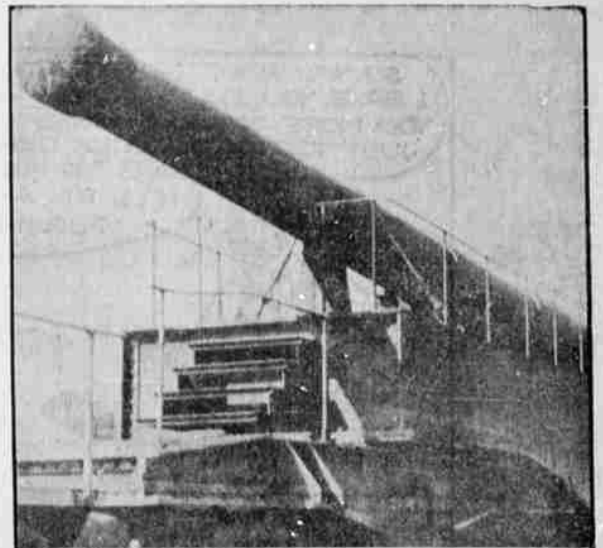

These two men may determine the balance for war or peace in the Far East as a result of the strained relations between Manchoukuo, sponsored by Japan, and Outer Mongolia, advised by Soviet Russia, following border fighting. Koki Hirota (left), new Japanese premier, is shown talking with General Kenkichi Ueda, commander-in-chief of Japan's armies in Manchoukuo and ambassador to that nation before he left for his new post at Hanking. (Associated Press Photo)

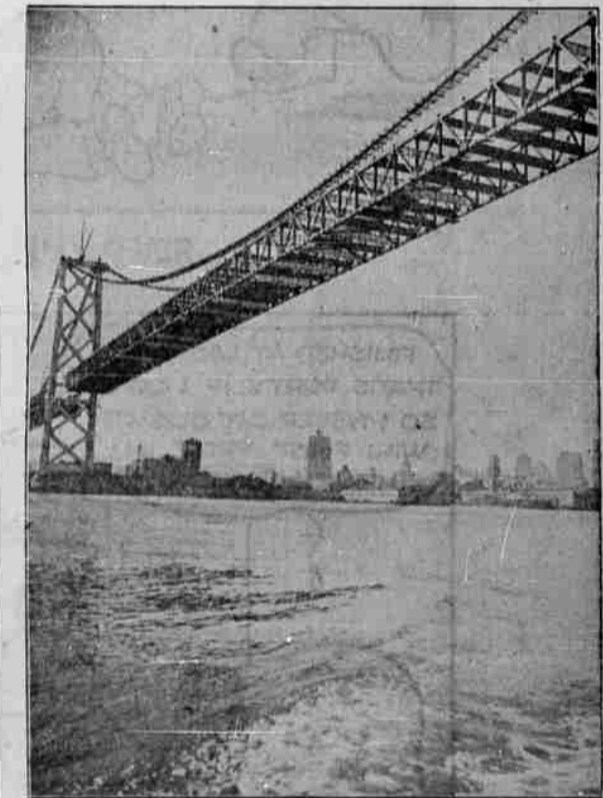

These two men have two of the biggest political jobs of 1936, the tasks of directing the publicity campaigns of the Democratic and Republican parties in the coming presidential race. Top: Charles Michelson, veteran newspaperman who keeps the Democratic pot boiling. Bottom: Theodore A. Huntley, newly appointed drum-beater for the G. O. P., who promises something different in the way of attractions. (Associated Press Photos)

GUNS OVER EUROPE AGAIN

France moved her legions to the German border swiftly on the heels of Hitler's sudden military reoccupation of the forbidden Rhineland zone. Here are two pictures of some of France's newest war equipment: top, a heavy calibre railway gun; below, a camouflaged fieldpiece. (Associated Press Photos)

WESTERN SKYLINE UNDER BRIDGE

The jutting skyline of San Francisco is picturesquely framed by one of the suspension spans of the giant San Francisco-Oakland bay bridge in this photograph, taken from a boat in midbay. It shows the construction progress on the double-deck floor of the bridge being hung from the suspension cables. (Associated Press Photo)

LANDON CAMPAIGN IN HIGH

Here is John Hamilton, red-headed Kansan who is directing the campaign of Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas for the Republican presidential nomination, in action at his headquarters at Washington, D. C. (Associated Press Photo)

Exonerates Mother

Young Jesse Livermore, Jr., son of the Wall street operator, as he took the witness stand in court at Santa Barbara, Calif., to testify that he, not his mother, Mrs. Dorthea Longcope, was responsible for a shooting in which he was critically wounded. Mrs. Longcope was exonerated of charges in connection with the shooting. (Associated Press Photo)

ONE OF BOSWELL SISTERS MARRIES

Martha Boswell, of the singing Boswell sisters, married Major George Lloyd of the British Royal Air Force at New York. Pictured after the ceremony (left to right) are Vet Boswell, sister of the bride; Martha, the bride; Major Lloyd and Harold Warner, best man. (Associated Press Photos)

FLOWERS MAKE EASTER HAIRDRESS

A tiara of dainty, Watsonias was advanced by Betty Burgess, young film actress, as a new hairdress for Easter. (Associated Press Photo)

Prosecuted Mooney

Charles M. Fickert, the San Francisco district attorney who convicted Thomas J. Mooney of the 1916 Preparedness Day bombing at San Francisco, is pictured as he testified at Mooney's habeas corpus hearing before a state supreme court referee in which he asks his freedom on allegations that he was convicted by perjured testimony. Fickert denied any cases of perjury. (Associated Press Photo)

GREENBERG GETS DOWN TO WORK

Last of the major league holdouts to capitulate, Hank Greenberg (right) of the Detroit Tigers is shown examining his war clubs with Manager Mickey Cochrane when he donned a bengal uniform for the first time this year at training camp at Lakeland, Fla. Greenberg's powerful bat played a big part in the Detroit drive to the title flag last year. (Associated Press Photo)