

LEGISLATURE HAD RIGHT TO BOOST RATE IS OPINION

yet, because of the importance of the question," it was decreed necessary. Both opinions covered 35 legislative pages.

The prevailing opinion cited two proposed amendments to the original constitution made during the time it was framed on August 17, 1857. One proposal would limit the salary of the governor to $2000 a year, and the other would add "nor shall the pay of any officer in this state be diminished or increased" except by amendment. Both were rejected, the journal showed.

Small State Then.

The opinion further pointed out that the state had a population of 53,000 at the time of its admission February 14, 1859. "It must be remembered that the framers of the constitution were far-seeing men who must have visioned that there would be a great future increase in the population of this state and that the time would soon come when these salaries would be wholly inefficient."

"It must also be remembered that some of the ablest lawyers of the convention were members of the convention and knew the importance and necessity of limiting the power of the legislature by use of the negative words" which were eliminated in this case. "Plenary power in the legislature, for all purposes of civil government is the rule, and a prohibition to exercise a particular power is an exception," the opinion held.

Expenses Eliminated.

Earlier legislature allowed mileage and expenses for the state officers, which later were eliminated when the salary increases were voted. The state treasurer had also been permitted certain percentage of fees from his office. The last increase voted the governor was in 1927. Justice Rand added that "if plaintiff's contentions could be sustained, it would not be for the public interest."

Justice Kelly, in his dissenting opinion, states that while the salaries set out in the constitution were not commensurate with the value of services now being performed, he quoted "the inadequacy of compensation is a political, and not a judicial question," and added "the argument from inconvenience is entitled to no consideration."

Other opinions handed down today included:

Petition for rehearing denied in California Joint Stock Land Bank vs. Gore. Motion to dismiss appeal denied in Averill vs. Holman and others.

HOYLMAN CLUES PROVE FRUITLESS

The sheriff's office this morning ran down two false clues on the whereabouts of Raleigh H. Hoylman, habitual criminal facing life imprisonment, who slashed and slugged his way from the county jail last Friday night. Hoylman attacked Jailer Harry Ingling with a pair of scissors and a vinegar bottle, obtaining possession of the front door key, and fled after locking Ingling in a cell tier.

Hoylman, a resourceful and elusive criminal, is still thought by authorities to be hiding in this vicinity. Before his last arrest, Hoylman hid in the rear seat of a stored automobile, without food. Hoylman is ex-

MAHONEY USING NEW VOTE LURE

PORTLAND, April 14.—(AP)—Mayor Willis Mahoney of Klamath Falls, candidate for U. S. senator, drew a charge today that his plan for creation of a public utility district here was a "politician's device" to get votes.

The assertion was made by F. H. Young, investment figure, who claimed Mahoney had turned to the utility plan "when he finds that the Townsend plan isn't the sure-fire vehicle he thought it was."

Young claimed there was not sufficient time to get a utility proposal on the November ballot and that federal funds are not available for purchase of existing utilities or construction of competing systems.

Mahoney endorsed the Townsend pension plan.

VOTER REGISTRATION WILL WIND UP TODAY

This is the final day of registration for the May 15 primary, and up to noon today, there was no rush of citizens to the county clerk's office. A fairly steady stream of people visited the clerk's office, however, and this afternoon is expected to see somewhat of a rush.

Registrations to date have been from all sections of the county, with moving to another precinct the main motive.

STATE MEDICINE PROVED FAILURE, SWEENEY SAYS

State medicine has proved to be a failure wherever it has been tried and it would meet with no more success in this country than in Europe, Dr. Charles T. Sweeney told the Kiwanis club at its weekly luncheon-meeting in the Hotel Medford yesterday.

In Germany, Russia and the other countries that now have state medicine, the medical profession has deteriorated and the incentive to research has been destroyed, Dr. Sweeney stated. Because of that, the United States has supplanted Europe as the research center of the world, he added.

State medicine, the doctor declared, is an offshoot of socialism. It eradicates the personal touch and eliminates the family doctor, he asserted.

Club visitors yesterday included David P. Stearns of Portland and Dr. G. A. Massey, E. S. Veatch, T. M. Medford and George A. Cuning of Klamath Falls.

The men from Klamath Falls spoke of the district conference of Kiwanian officers and the banquet and dance for the Kiwanis club of Klamath Falls, Medford and Bend to be held in their city this afternoon and evening.

About a dozen Medford Kiwanians and their wives left today to attend the get-together in Klamath Falls.

Club visitors yesterday included David P. Stearns of Portland and Dr. G. A. Massey, E. S. Veatch, T. M. Medford and George A. Cuning of Klamath Falls.

TOWNSEND AIDE IS REBUFFED BY PORTLAND CLUB

serted his speeches were "too strong" and had brought complaints. Weir said he would fill Egertsen's speaking dates, one of which was before No. 7 last night.

Wigton promptly ignored Weir and Logan, inviting Egertsen to speak. Egertsen added that he might organize a new Oregon Townsend group.

Weir sent Ralph W. Anderson, district organizer, to the meeting of No. 7 but Wigton refused to let him speak, saying the club was "democratic" and would listen to anyone it chose. Egertsen was introduced.

After Egertsen spoke, William Hooley, attorney for Jack N. Brade, Portland business man who recently was ousted as a plan speaker, spoke and after relating that he was refused the opportunity to speak at a state rally here last Friday, he assailed Charles L. Paine, Eugene, state campaign manager, and asserted the faction in control at state headquarters was exploiting the membership.

A Way To Stop It

"There's a way to stop this monkey business," said Hooley. "They're making fools and jackasses out of you people. It's terrible the way the people have persecuted Jack Brade. And why?"

"My idea is to clean out headquarters from top to bottom."

Egertsen said he was removed because he had planned, independently of headquarters, to hold a forum next Friday night at a meeting here. He offered to "step out of the picture completely" if the state leaders would discuss the problems now withheld from the clubs and prove they are "sincere" rather than being engaged in the movement "for just the dollars there are in it."

Weir stated later today that he had not been able to get the executive board of No. 7 together immediately and that the meeting might have to go over until tomorrow.

Callison To Have Youngest Eleven

EUGENE, April 14.—(AP)—Coach Frank Callison, looking ahead to the hardest schedule in the history of University of Oregon football teams, will put the youngest eleven of school history on the field next fall.

Of 48 men working out, 34 are sophomores, nine are juniors and only five are seniors. Fourteen of the candidates are letter men. Callison said weak spots appear at both ends and in the backfield at quarter and full.
