

CCC WORK VALUE TO ROGUE FOREST CITED IN REPORT

Projects Done for Public Benefit by Corps Told by Supervisor Janouch — Civic Worth is Stressed

The work accomplished by the Civilian Conservation Corps in the Rogue river national forest is evaluated in the following report issued by Karl L. Janouch, forest supervisor:

"A review of the accomplishments of the CCC on the Rogue river national forest as of March 31, the third anniversary of this organization, shows a development of this forest, which, under the old system of limited appropriations, could not have been realized for a period of at least 10 years.

"A wide variety of work has been performed, all of which is in accordance with the national forest improvement program which provides for the development, protection and conservation of the natural resources, with the ultimate objective of securing the greatest possible use by the public. All work on the Rogue river forest has been planned and supervised by local forest service personnel.

"The CCC program has not only meant unemployment relief and large cash expenditures locally for commodities at a time when business conditions were at a low ebb, but it has made feasible the development of the forest for protection and utilization which will, though in a less apparent manner, affect the wealth of the community for many years to come.

Road System Finished.
"The completion of 300 miles of the forest road system and the construction of 348 miles of telephone lines, and of 14 lookout houses and towers constitute a great step forward in the protection of both public and privately owned timber resources of this locality.

"This protection is essential to the welfare of the community, not only for timber values, but equally so for the protection of watershed, recreational and forage values. The domestic water supply of the cities of Ashland and Medford depends directly on the preservation of the respective watersheds which are the sources of these systems.

"One of the most interesting projects in road construction was the completion of the so-called Ashland mountain loop drive. This road extends from Ashland to the mouth of Beaver creek, going into Little Applegate and following for some distance the divide between the Klamath and Applegate river drainages, thus giving one of the most picturesque mountain views that can be found anywhere in Oregon. A branch road extends to the top of Mt. Ashland which overlooks a large portion of southern Oregon. From this point the rim of Crater lake, Mt. Thielsen, Mt. Jefferson, Mt. McLaughlin and Shaasta mountain can be seen. Also a very rugged mountainous area in northern California can be viewed from this point.

Rustic Design Used.
"An interesting feature of the building construction is the new rustic design adopted by the forest service. Examples of this design may be observed at the Medford warehouse and at Butte Falls ranger station. Those who are interested in the construction of new small homes are invited to view and inspect the new small buildings at Butte Falls, where rustic construction is particularly emphasized.

"Recreational development has received special consideration in the work program to meet the fast growing demands of the public who are turning to the forested areas of the Pacific coast for summer outings and vacations. About 136 acres of public camp grounds have been cleared and improvements consisting of community shelters, individual camp stoves and tables and sanitation facilities have been installed. The most extensive improvements of this nature have been made at Lake of the Woods and Union Creek camp grounds, each of which is capable of accommodating several hundred persons at a time.

"Those interested in picnicking and camping in the woods are invited to investigate the facilities offered by the forest service at Union creek and Dead Indian soda springs. Both these areas provide community kitchens, tables, shelters and other facilities for large picnic groups. Small one-family camp grounds are also offered for public enjoyment at both these places. Rustic design is emphasized in all the construction of these recreational areas. It is planned to make similar facilities available at Lake of the Woods during the coming summer.

Winter Sports Aided.
"Winter sports also have been given a prominent place in the forest development plan. A ski run and a shelter equipped with a large fireplace were constructed last year near Union creek ranger station along the Crater lake highway, and during the winter months proved to be a very popular place for snow sports enthusiasts.

"Exactly 21,608 CCC man days have been utilized on fire fighting work during the past three fire seasons. Although the boys were almost without exception inexperienced in fire-fighting methods and technique, they have, after receiving intensive training, proved to be the most effective fire fighting force the forest service has ever known. Comparisons have been made from local forest fire records as between the last 3-year period and the 10-year period 1923-1933 which show that for the past 3-year period there was an average of 1444 acres burned over each year while for the previous 10-year period this amounted to 3074 acres per year. The records also show that there was an average

"We are starting on the fourth consecutive year of the CCC program and with two camps on the Rogue river forest manned with capable and experienced supervisory personnel, expect to add materially to past accomplishments during the present work season.
"The value of CCC work on the Rogue river national forest since the establishment of the corps, is estimated to be $1,242,600."

THE GRANGE

Phoenix Grange.
Home Economics club met at the home of Mrs. Sarah Walker last Wednesday with covered dish dinner at noon. Mrs. Frances Knudsen was co-hostess.
Seventeen members and one visitor were present. Business meeting was presided over by the president, Ada Bell. One of the main items of business was decision to hold a picnic Sunday, April 26, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Marshall in the Meadows. All Grangers and their families are to meet at the Grange hall at 10:30 and go in a body.
Fancy work committee reported having distributed work to be completed, and that work would soon be well under way on the quilt top which they won with subscriptions to the Household magazine.
Next meeting of the club will be at the home of Mrs. Cora Chandler May 20 with Mrs. Mildred Ward assisting in entertaining.

Central Point Grange.
Central Point Grange met Friday evening with a very large attendance. Team number one put on a basket dinner at 6:30 for team number two, winners in the attendance contest for the first quarter.
About 120 grangers were served. A very enjoyable lecture hour was put on by the Central Point school, consisting of numbers by the Girls Glee club, the orchestra, two skits and a chorus by the grade school.
The program was held before Grange opened and the public was invited. Much praise was given the pupils and teachers in charge for this fine program.
Twenty-five members from other granges were present. Mrs. Denton was a visitor from Fort Klamath Grange. Visiting masters were W. W. Robison, Talent Grange; George E. Dunn, Bellview Grange; Perry L. Walt, Live Oak Grange; E. C. Piene, Gold Hill Grange.
First and second degree practice will be held April 24.
The box social, planned for April 21, has been postponed.
The next meeting of the Grange will be held Friday, May 1 at 8:00 o'clock sharp.

WINDOW GLASS.—We sell window glass and will replace your broken windows reasonably. Trowbridge Cabinet Works.
More than 6,000 air-conditioned cars are now in use in the United States and it is estimated that railroads have ordered about 1,000 more.
New arrivals at the Chicago zoo include two "long horned" antelopes which will not grow horns until next year.
Fifteen thousand acres will be replanted in trees in South Carolina during 1936-37.

BISHOP DAGWELL CONDUCTS RITES OF CONFIRMATION

The members of Medford Episcopal parish turned out en masse yesterday at St. Mark's 11 o'clock service to witness the confirmation services and to hear the address of their new bishop, the Rt. Rev. Benjamin D. Dagwell, who was paying his first official visit to Medford.

Of the three most important annual services at St. Mark's—Christmas, Easter and confirmation—it is probably that the confirmation service is the most outstanding, as it is one that brings the bishop to town, because it cannot be conducted without his presiding at the altar.
Long before the professional, consisting of choir, confirmation class and vestrymen, had been formed at the parish hall, the church edifice was packed to its extreme capacity with an audience that had come to witness the ceremony and hear the bishop.

The class confirmed consisted of twenty-nine persons and is believed to be the largest class in the history of the local church.
The bishop in his address to the new communicants delivered an exceedingly interesting and pointed sermon, using as his theme, "Stir Up the Gift," emphasizing the fact that a spiritual gift was bestowed upon each of them at their confirmation, and that in all their future actions they should be mindful of that gift and conform to an upright Christian life. At the conclusion of the service Bishop Dagwell greeted each member of the audience personally and received their congratulations for the wonderful helpful sermon he delivered.

Everywhere the bishop goes he is many times asked the question "How do you like Oregon?" to which he replies:
"Oregon is a thrillingly beautiful state. Its fertility delights me. The rivers and small streams are refreshing after fifteen years in a dry and thirsty land. But more than the scenery am I delighted with the inhabitants. I have been given a cordial welcome wherever I have gone. I feel at home everywhere. The clergy have been so genuinely cordial, the laity have followed the example of the clergy. The young people are great. This climate with the co-operation of home and church is producing its best crop in the boys and girls, young men and women I have met here."

You need good digestion to face the nervous strain of modern living!

Smoking Camels Assists Digestion and Promotes Well-Being

When people are tired, worried, or nervous, the flow of digestive fluids slows up.

Science now recognizes that smoking Camels has a favorable influence in increasing the flow of these digestive fluids. Thus, there are sound, definite reasons why Camels add to the enjoyment of your meals.

Camels are supremely mild—never get on the nerves or tire your taste. Enjoy Camels as much as you like... for their good cheer and "lift"... for their rare flavor! Camels set you right!

COSTLIER TOBACCOS

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand.
