

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

From Agness—Leut. Henry A. Baris, junior officer at Camp Agness conferred with executives at Medford CCC headquarters today.

Visitor to Leave—Mrs. E. E. Waterhouse, who has been visiting friends and relatives here for the past two months, will leave on the evening train today to return to her home at Joplin, Mo.

Guests for Day—Mrs. Earl Liniger and son of Ashland, Mrs. Hugh Harrison of Rogue River and Mrs. Charles Robinson and three daughters of Ashland visited here Tuesday with Mrs. Janet Gould Childreth.

Returns from Lake—H. C. Obye, assistant supervisor of the Rogue river national forest, was back at his office in federal building today after spending three days at Lake of the Woods where he organized an augmented ERA crew.

Patient Improved—Mrs. E. J. White of 623 South Central avenue, who underwent a major operation at Sacred Heart hospital last week, is gradually improving, according to attendants, and will be able to return to her home within the next week.

Garlocks at Meet—Mr. and Mrs. Lee Garlock left yesterday for Roseburg to attend the annual American Legion state convention which opened today. Mr. Garlock, who the past year was grand chief of train of the 40 et 8 society, was today elected grand chief de gare of that organization for the coming year.

No Board Meet—The usual Friday luncheon-meeting of the board of directors of the Jackson County Chamber of Commerce will be omitted this week, it was announced today by Glen Arnsperger, president. The next regular meeting will be held on Friday, August 21, in the Hotel Medford.

Orchardist Here—Max Lueddemann, head of the Portland real estate and insurance company bearing his name, is spending a few days in Medford on business relating to his property holdings. He is part owner of the Medford Pear company and the Frink and Edgevale orchards. Mr. Lueddemann is registered at the Hotel Medford.

Going to Meeting—Capt. Carl Y. Tengwald, past commander of Medford post of the American Legion, was to leave by automobile this afternoon for Roseburg to participate in the 40 et 8 initiation ceremonies scheduled for tonight as part of the legion's state convention. Capt. Tengwald is on the initiation committee, southern Oregon vulture being in charge of the "wreck."

Hay Put Up—An ERA crew at the Pelican ranger station has just completed putting up 80 tons of meadow hay, the U. S. forest service office here stated today. A barn was filled with 60 tons of the hay and the remainder was stacked outside. The hay, it was said, provides more than enough feed for the forest service stock, 22 head of which will be concentrated in the Pelican area during the winter.

Guest Preacher—The Rev. Dr. George H. Trull of New York City, secretary of foreign missions board of the Presbyterian church, will be in Medford tomorrow night and will address the midweek service at Dr. Sherman L. Dwyne's guest speaker at Ashland, Phoenix, Jacksonville and Central Point will join in giving a welcome to Dr. and Mrs. Trull. The guests will leave Saturday morning for Crater lake. The public is invited to attend the service at the First Presbyterian church.

Returns Home—Mrs. Clara Bailey left this morning by train for her home in Myrtle Creek after visiting for a few days with her sister, Mrs. W. H. Dyer. She was accompanied by her small grandson of Springfield, Ore., who also has been visiting here.

Undergoes Operation—Mrs. Ivan H. Jones of College Station, Texas, underwent a minor operation at the Osteopathic hospital this morning.

Arrives for Prisoner—Deputy Sheriff Agnew Shea of Santa Clara county, California, arrived today to return Cameron Johnson to California. The man was arrested by state police August 4 on a fugitive warrant from Santa Clara county. He was wanted on a grand theft charge.

Overnight Guest—Ralph Schieler, general manager of the Schieler-Schumacher Produce company of Los Angeles, and Mrs. Schieler arrived yesterday from Portland in their Stinson plane. After landing at municipal airport they left for the Gilhouseen Rogue River lodge near Trail to spend the night.

Pilots Here—Harry Ashe, chief pilot, and Deane Severn, co-pilot for Maj. Mar Fleischmann, are enjoying fishing on the upper Rogue. They arrived here Tuesday night after piloting Maj. Fleischmann, chairman of the finance committee of Standard Brands, and Mrs. Fleischmann and party to Roseburg whence the group left to fish in the Umpqua. The pilots will be here about a week, having stored the major's Lockheed Electra plane in the hangar at Medford municipal airport.

Convention Bound—A general exodus of American Legion and Auxiliary members from this city was noted yesterday and today, the objective being Roseburg where the 1936 state convention opened officially this morning. Today's program, in addition to the important convention business sessions, included the first game of the interstate championship series of the Legion's junior baseball league. Tonight thousands will witness the official convention parade, after which the annual 40 et 8 "wreck" will be staged by southern Oregon vulture No. 163. A number of local voyagers and candidates will participate in the initiation. A large number of local people plan to drive to Roseburg tomorrow to see the second game of the junior baseball series in the afternoon and the colorful drum corps contest in the evening. The convention will come to a close Saturday.

News travels fast—particularly when it's newsworthy. At the Craterian theater today, starting a three-day run on the same program with "Dancing Lady" and "The Big House," special newsworthy scenes of the opening exercises at the Olympic Games, also Jesse Owens, the three-time winner, flashing to victory in the 100-meter race, will be shown at each performance. It was no steamship that brought this news scoop to Medford from Berlin. The films, immediately upon being "shot" at the games, were rushed by plane to Friedrichshafen and placed aboard the airship Von Hindenburg, arriving in New York Saturday evening. There they were developed and prints shipped via air mail to various parts of the country, proving once again that when the "wreck" boys really want to work fast, they're "top" for speed. The return showing of the two features—both of which are admittedly among the best to have ever reached the screen—was prompted by public response to a recent movie poll, in which millions of showgoers evidenced their desire of once again viewing the attractions which made boxoffice history at the time of their first release.

Two Famous Screen Hits Returning On Craterian Program

Among the many stars to be seen in the two pictures are Joan Crawford, Clark Gable, Fred Astaire, Nelson Eddy, Franchot Tone, Ted Healy and his three original stooges, May Robson, Winnie Lightner and Art Jarrett in "Dancing Lady," while Wallace Beery, Robert Montgomery, Chester Morris, Lewis Stone and Leila Hyams have top parts in "The Big House."

Dramatic Picture Coming Sunday

With an unique romantic situation, as the storm center around which whirls a marital cyclone, "The Bride Walks Out" comes to the Craterian theater Sunday, featuring Barbara Stanwyck, Robert Young and Gene Raymond in the leading roles and Ned Sparks, sour-faced comedian, and Helen Broderick also featured. Concocted for laughing purposes only, the plot of "The Bride Walks Out" deals with the matrimonial theory of a young civil engineer who is convinced that two can live as cheaply as one on $35 a week—and who will fight anybody who disagrees with him, including his rebellious fiancée, a mannequin in a fashionable dress shop.

Undismayed by the example of perpetual warfare furnished by a henpecked co-worker and his acid-tongued spouse, the engineer talks the girl into a hurried city hall marriage and they begin fighting before they get out of the license bureau. From this point on, the complications get wilder and funnier, with unnecessary fuel being added to the flames by the interest a young playboy shows in the new bride.

On Roxy Bill

Victor Hugo's immortal classic, "Les Miserables," co-starring Frederic March and Charles Laughton, plays at the Roxy Theater today and tomorrow. In the cast of this great masterpiece are such fine players as Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Rochelle Hudson, Frances Drake and John Beal.

Rialto Today

A startling drama based on the extraordinary complications of a mercy killing, plays at the Rialto theater today and tomorrow in "The Crime of Doctor Forbes." Gloria Stuart and Robert Kent have the leading roles. The story concerns Kent, as Doctor Forbes, and Miss Stuart as the wife of Kent's colleague, who are thrown together by strange circumstances. They find themselves falling in love. At about this stage of the film, Miss Stuart's husband is critically injured and Kent is called upon to perform a mercy killing to relieve him of his pain.

Others in the cast are Henry Armatta, J. Edward Bromberg, Sara Haden and Alan Dinehart.

To Oklahoma—Mrs. Jennie Taylor was among those leaving on a north-bound train last night, her destination being Goodwell, Okla.
