Martin Questions Young Prisoners Before Transfer

Governor Adopts Policy of Personal Interview—Are Impressed With Necessity of Good Conduct

SALEM, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Governor Martin adopted a new policy here today of personally interviewing all youthful offenders transferred from the Oregon state penitentiary to the state training school for boys.

Three boys, all under 19 years of age, serving one year terms in the penitentiary from Wheeler county, were before the governor today. All were products of broken homes, and their names were not divulged.

Each youth was questioned closely by the governor as to the nature of his crime, the length of his service, and whether he was satisfied with conditions in the prison.

All Dissatisfied. To the last question all three replied no.

"We want to give you boys a chance in the world," the governor said, "and it is up to you to make good."

"If I take you out of the penitentiary and send you to the boys' training school will you obey the rules, work hard and be good boys?" the executive asked.

Each in turn replied that he would. Governor Martin impressed upon the boys that the transfer of youthful offenders from the penitentiary to the boys' school was an experiment and that much depended upon their conduct.

All three were convicted of larceny involving the theft of automobile tires and other accessories.

Must Make Good. "We want to break down the opposition to these transfers," the governor continued, "and there is but one way in which it can be done. That is by you boys making good."

The youths appeared separately before Governor Martin with Warden Lewis of the penitentiary, Sam Laughlin, superintendent of the boys' school, and State Parole Officer Duffey sitting on the sidelines.

A number of youthful prisoners in the prison already have been transferred to the school. Superintendent Laughlin reported that results had been satisfactory and that he had no trouble with them.

TRAVELING SHOWROOM OF HOME APPLIANCES IN MEDFORD THURSDAY

A traveling "Showroom on Wheels," displaying the latest in modern home appliances, arrives in Medford tomorrow. The novel idea is sponsored by a leading San Francisco concern, Thompson & Holmes, Ltd.

The exhibit is visiting various communities of southern Oregon and California as a means of introducing the newest appliances for home use. The car will be stationed on the Southern Pacific tracks near sixth street.

Arranged along the interior of the car, against modernistic backgrounds, the newest offerings in radios, washing machines, ranges, electric irons, vacuum cleaners, heaters, refrigerators and hot water storage heaters are effectively displayed. The car, which is of the combined observation and club car type, was partially remodeled and elaborately decorated to serve as a background for the exhibit.

Officials of the Thompson & Holmes organization in charge of the unique display car will be welcomed here by representatives of the Southern Oregon Gas company, Leonard Electric company and W. H. Klatt. Members of the Medford Chamber of Commerce and other civic leaders are scheduled to visit the car during its sojourn here.

showroom are Lonegan circulating oil heaters, Chambers ranges, Weibach gas water heaters, Electrolux refrigerators, Bolay vacuum cleaners, ABC washers and irons, Royal Culinaire and Zenith radio.

AUTO DEALERS TO MEET THURSDAY

A meeting to discuss conditions prevailing in this section among automobile dealers and to consider methods of improving the sales and services which automobile dealers render the public, will be held at 8 o'clock Thursday night in the basement of the Hotel Medford, under the auspices of the Oregon Automobile Dealers association.

J. L. Miller, official representative of the National Automobile Dealers association, will conduct the meeting which is one of a series arranged throughout this state. He will discuss the problems that have developed in the automotive industry in recent years, and particularly, those that are the result of mass selling and handling of used cars.

He will outline a selling procedure designed to meet the needs that exist today in automobile selling and which has proved its value in other sections through building greater confidence between dealers and the public whom they serve. As the recognized leaders in the movement towards business recovery, the efforts of automobile dealers have resulted in the re-employment of thousands of workers during the past two years. One out of six workers is now employed directly or indirectly in the automotive and allied industries, it is estimated.

LOW TAX ADVOCATE IS OUT FOR COUNCIL JOB

Sam S. Davies, Ashland barber who advocates elimination of all city taxes today announced he would be a candidate for the Lithia city council.

Mr. Davies said he would run for the office on a platform of reductions in city taxes and electric and water rates. He also announced that Ray Minkler, retired merchant, would be a candidate on the same platform for one of the three vacancies on the council and that a third contestant would be put into the field to make a full slate.

CCC MEN PREPARE TO ENTER SCHOOL ON SCHOLARSHIPS

The Medford CCC district will shortly lose about 30 of its most outstanding men when 12 Pacific coast trade schools, colleges and universities open their doors to the enrollees who recently gained scholarships in competitive examinations. Some have already accepted discharges to enter school, others will leave later.

The schools granting scholarships to the CCC members are Heald's college, San Francisco; Oakland Polytechnic, Oakland, Calif.; School of Fine Arts, San Francisco; College of Arts and Crafts, Oakland, Calif.; Oregon Institute of Technology, Portland; Reed College, Portland; L. L. Adcox Trade School, Portland; University of Portland; Willamette University, Salem; Pacific University, Forest Grove; Albany College, Albany, and Linfield College, McMinnville. Some of these schools are giving as many as five scholarships to Medford district men.

Members of the fairgrounds detachment company granted scholarships are John Townsend, former radio operator, Oakland Polytechnic; Albert Gaddis, former infantry assistant, Heald's college, and Maurice Baird, QM clerk, Heald's college.

The selection of the men for scholarships was no small problem. First they appear on the merit list three months to be eligible for examination.

Every camp in Medford district has a merit list published each month containing the names of the best 25 men in the company judged by their accomplishment. Three department heads make the selections. The members are judged by their performance in camp; by the project superintendent for their performance on the job; and by the educational adviser for what they are doing to improve themselves. Averages taken of the three grades determine the comparative standing of the members.

Some sixty men were eligible to take the competitive examinations which resulted in the grants of scholarships. From these the district commander, Major George R. Owens, recommended 40 for the consideration of the colleges. Thus the colleges were permitted some choice in selecting from the best men recommended.

The scholarships, in some cases, amounted to free tuition for a two-year period, some were subject to renewal if the record made by the student was good during the first year. In some cases, notably that of Reed college, arrangement was made in advance for the CCC men to secure employment which would supplement his grant of a scholarship. Most of the men selected will receive some NYA aid so that their chances of remaining in school are very good, so far as finances are concerned.

If the students make a good record,

STATE CREWS MOP UP 40-ACRE FIRE CAUSED BY CARELESS AUTOIST

A 70-man crew today mopped up a fire that burned 40 acres of brush and timber in the Flourice Rock section. The fire started about noon yesterday near Crater Lake highway and was attributed to a passing motorist who tossed a lighted cigarette stub from his car.

Fighting desperately to check the fire before it reached heavy timber, state and CCC patrols brought the blaze under control at 5 p.m. yesterday. CCC crews were called from Camp Prescott and Wimer.

The state district fire warden's office today issued another warning against throwing burning matches, cigars and cigarettes from automobiles. Such carelessness, it was emphasized, might cause a fire that would destroy thousands of acres of valuable timber and scenic trees. Fifty men from the Bonanza CCC camp today were mopping up a fire that started Saturday in Yocum Valley while 70 men from Camp Bonanza and 25 from Camp Klamath were aiding in fighting a fire that broke out this morning in Pole Valley.
