'SHOOT TO KILL' IS ORDER GIVEN PURSUING POSSE

Baker said John Britte Sheriff arrested and that Deputy Sheriff Lange hit him.

Coke Britte shot Constable Clark as he went to join Lange, Baker said. In the fight which followed, Lange was struck down by the clubbed rifle, the broken stock of which lay near his body, and shot through the face and head.

Records of the state bureau of criminal identification at Sacramento showed the Britte brothers served terms in the Arizona state prison for burglary in 1926 and 30 days in the county jail at Medford, Ore., in 1934, for disturbing the peace.

YREKA, Calif., Aug. 31.—(AP)—Lynch-mob posse tracked two brothers and posse tracked two brothers with bloodhounds through the wild mountain country of the California-Oregon border today in a relentless hunt for the killers of two law officers and a marine pilot.

Lynching or a gun fight to the death when the posse corners the fugitives was freely predicted in this aroused community where only a year ago angry citizens dragged a killer from the county jail and hanged him from a tree.

The fugitives, John H. Britte, 35, and his brother, Coke T. Britte, 30, sought as the men who shot and clubbed the three victims to death at the remote mining settlement of Horse Creek yesterday, vanished into the rugged Siakiyou mountains.

Left behind by the slayers were the bullet-riddled bodies of Deputy Sheriff Martin Lange, 48, and Constable Joseph Clark, 45, of Yreka, and Captain Fred Seaborn, 50, former navy officer and now pilot at Vallejo and Mare Island navy yard.

The shooting occurred when the officers sought to arrest the brothers at their mining claim, 35 miles north of Yreka, on an assault charge brought by Captain Seaborn and his friends and vacation companion, Charles Baker.

Sheriff W. B. Chandler, directing the man-hunt over one of the most rugged regions in the United States, received reports the fugitives were heading for Mount Sterling on the California-Oregon line.

Roads blocked—Possemen, who were warned the offenders carried rifles, flung lines across the seven roads leading to the high peak. Oregon state police aided in encircling the region from their side of the state line.

Deputy Sheriff Lange, whose skull was crushed by a rifle butt and body pierced by four bullets, played the leading role in attempting to block last year's lynching.

Alone at the jail, he was overpowered by the mob which seized Clyde L. Trotzky, the Russian exile, in isolation under special guard.

Without disclosing where Trotzky and his wife will be interned, the government officially announced passage of an order-in-council, establishing special rules "regulating Trotzky's movements and his intercourse with other persons."

Earlier, officials indicated they might keep Trotzky permanently in Norway, despite Moscow protests.

YREKA COMES TO RIALTO—The Jones Family, funnier than the folks next door with their squabbles and joys, are featured in the new hit comedy, "Educating Father", coming tomorrow to the Rialto theater.

Proudly (left to right) are two of the Joneses, Shirley Deane and Jed Prouty, who have featured leads with a cast including Spring Byington, Dixie Dunbar, George Ernest and Juniper Carlson.

Hunter and scrapper than ever, the Jones family depicts the average American family and their efforts to modernize poor old dad.

Many fine love stories have had expression on the screen, but none has been finer than "To Mary with Love", which opens yesterday at Hunt's Craterian theater, with Warner Baxter and Myrna Loy co-starring in the leading roles, and Ian Hunter, Claire Trevor and Joan Dixon also appearing in featured parts.

Dramatic romance, yet with pleasing comedy contrast, "To Mary with Love" is a well conceived, topical study of modern life and marital romance.

Essentially, the play is a quadrangular romance. The locale is New York and the decade of 1920-30. The mood and spirit of those years have been carefully preserved. Mary and Jack, (Miss Loy and Baxter), are married. A definite bond of friendship and affection exists between them and Bill Hallam (Ian Hunter).

Struggling for business success, Jack forgoes Mary, who seeks comfort in the companionship of Bill, and relaxation in a mad round of social and sporting diversion. Wise Bill, seeing the romance going on the rocks, suggests the couple have a child. Death of the baby, a tragedy to Jack, sends him off on a hectic career of money making and reckless diversion with Kitty Grant (Claire Trevor). Faithfully and patiently, Mary waits for him to come to his senses. Great business success is followed by the crash, an event which widens the gap between husband and wife. Building to its climax, as Mary contemplates divorce, Bill, in a sequence expertly handled by Hunter, forestalls her attempt and by talking good common sense into the ears of both, shows them the error of their ways and points out the manner in which they can find happiness.

Throughout, the atmosphere of the show is always humanly real. While the theme may be of serious vein, it is not somber, but times playing in the most sentimental, emotional comedy contrast sparkles with dialogue and action humor which accounts for more smiles than tears. All of which means a fine piece of film entertainment.
