

Belcastro To Pit Drop Kicks Against Chick's Lariat Spin Tonight

LILLARD OFFERS STRONGEST CARD IN ARMORY RING

Semi-Final Match Between Arab and Wolfe Shares Lighthouse—Newcomer to Grapple O'Brien in Opener

Raincoats to protect ringsters from splattering gore at the Armory tonight will again be in vogue, when Promoter Mack Lillard throws into the arena what he describes as his strongest card in his 10 years of promoting. Duke Chick, with the helicopter hold that has made him the greatest winner of all time here, will pitch the autogyro flop against Pete Belcastro's drop-kicks, flying mares and tackles in the main event, and Prince Sikki Mihalakia will attempt to avenge himself on Les Wolfe.

A survey yesterday and Saturday showed that the middle event is stealing much of the thunder from the strong main event go, with Wolfe and the Arabian mixing in a grudge battle. There are still a few who think Wolfe will take the match despite the fact that they saw Wolfe's one weapon, a hook scissor, turn to putty last week under Mihalakia's torturing dragon scissors.

For the main event, Chick has not taken his assignment complacently. The week has been spent in vigorous work outs, and he expects to be in prime condition for the battle. There is only one weapon that Chick fears in the ring, and that weapon is a drop-kick, of which Belcastro is past master.

The opening struggle brings a new face to Medford. Gene Moore, the Max Bar of wrestling, meets leathery but clever old Pat O'Brien in an Australian system match. Moore has one of the best physiques in the game, is big, fast and aggressive. Advance ticket sales show the pastebards going faster than peanuts at an elephant convention with the promise that all attendance records here will be shattered.

Lethal Latin

Pete Belcastro, the Lethal Latin whose deadly dropkicks have left a wave of conquered wrestlers behind him, will tonight pit his football prowess and all around skill against the major test of his career—Duke Chick's brain frothing airplane spin in the main event at the Armory.

HUNTERS THROUGH DEER HANGOUTS; FEW BUCKS SHOT

Five Slain in Brush Between Butte Falls and Eagle Point—Three Mule Deer Are Taken in Vicinity Bly

Deer hunters were straggling back into the city today, some reporting excellent luck and others having found the animals conspicuous by their absence.

One party of six bagged three 175-pound mule deer in Gearhart mountain beyond Bly in a matter of a very few hours Sunday morning.

Campbell hot-footed it in pursuit, trailed the buck uphill and down through brush and over fallen logs, and finally lost himself while bushwhacking on the trail.

H. C. Obye, W. L. Jones and Roland Smith hunted all day yesterday on Little Chinquapin mountain north of Pinehurst without seeing a buck.

E. D. Scripser of 60 Rose avenue, Medford mail carrier, brought down a 175-pound mule buck in the Lakeview country. His 15-year-old son, Kenneth, did him one better by putting the fatal finger on a 200-pounder, using a 30-40 box magazine rifle.

Ladies reported varying luck in their barrage. Mrs. George Rowden, 1140 West Eighth street, bowled over a four-pronged blacktail in the Moon Prairie country at 9 o'clock yesterday morning.

Mrs. William Coy, hunting with her husband in the Prospect district, scoured the use of a rifle and went armed with a Luger pistol. She flushed a buck and took three cracks at it with the aidarm, but the buck is still traveling, as far as could be determined.

Several humorous events occurred during the opening day. Vern Campbell, former baseball star on the high school team here, and Charles Overmeyer, hunting in the Wagner Gap country, scared out a nice buck.

Seven-year-old Frank Marconi of Canonburg, Pa., had 230 serum "shots" in various parts of his body over a period of 20 days to halt lockjaw.

Portland's Intercollegiate season will start Friday night when the city's eight teams meet at Multnomah stadium. It will not be determined which two teams will get the call for the night's contest until just before game time.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Training chores complete, Philadelphia's blond Al Ettore loafed in his nearby Clementon (N. J.) camp today confidently predicting that he'll finish Joe Louis by a knockout Tuesday night.

Louis, at Pompton Lakes, N. J., issued his customary forecast of victory, and he had with him the wise money, quoted currently at about 3 to 1 in his favor.

Regardless of the outcome, co-promoter Herman Taylor was confident of a victory at the box office. He forecast a 50,000 crowd, which would be the largest fight attendance in Philadelphia since that same Dempsey-Tunney "battle in the rain" in 1926.

In 54 bouts, Ettore has knocked out 18 opponents and won decisions over 37. Twice he had been held to draws, six times outpointed, and once knocked out by Charley Retzlaff in January of last year.

Opposed to that was Louis' amazing record of 24 knockouts, four decisions and one defeat—a knockout—in 29 professional appearances.

OREGON FOOTBALL GETS UNDER WAY COMING SATURDAY

(By the Associated Press)
The eyes of the nation focused outside of Oregon today—on the first great inter-sectional grid battle of the year at Seattle Saturday—but the six collegiate clashes in the state this week left the home folk little to be desired in the way of first-hand entertainment.

Leading in national interest, if not in import, is the Minnesota-Washington challenge, and one of the major runners-up is the Oregon State-Southern California conference opener in Los Angeles Saturday.

Oregon's own sports calendar, footballistically speaking, looks as follows:
University of Oregon vs. University of Portland at Eugene Friday night.
Willamette university vs. Albany college at Salem the same evening.

Southern Oregon Normal vs. Albany at Ashland Saturday.
Linfield college vs. College of Idaho at McMinnville Saturday night.
Oregon Normal vs. Vancouver Barracks at Monmouth Friday.

Eastern Oregon Normal vs. Oregon Institute of Technology at La Grande Saturday.
High schools, some of them already well started in the 1936 season, also will provide their share of thrills, with at least two inter-state battles already scheduled.

La Grande, after holding the strong Walla Walla team to a scoreless tie last week, will meet Boise Saturday at La Grande. Hood River, conquerors of the Chemawa Indians, will meet Camas Friday.

Portland's Intercollegiate season will start Friday night when the city's eight teams meet at Multnomah stadium. It will not be determined which two teams will get the call for the night's contest until just before game time.

CROP INSURANCE DRAFTERS NAMED TO SPEED PLANS

of the treasury, and Ernest G. Draper, assistant secretary of commerce—the president said:

"The government's long-time drought and land use program should be completed and put into operation at the earliest possible moment and immediate steps are to be taken with this objective . . .

"The time has come to work out permanent measures guarding farmers against disasters of both kinds (price collapses resulting from surpluses and disappearance of foreign markets, and failure of crops due to drought.) Crop insurance and a system of storage reserves should operate so that the surpluses of fat years could be carried over for use in the lean years."

May Limit Early Plan.
The president suggested it "may be found wise" to limit the application of the plan the first year to one or two major crops.

"There should be no question," he said, "that the welfare of the entire nation would be served by including, as keystones of our agricultural policy, crop insurance and storage of reserves along with conservation of soil and water, better land use, and increased farm income."

It appeared today that crop insurance plans first would be worked out for wheat, cotton and corn—in that order. Roy M. Green, official at the agriculture department, said nearly 100 persons had been assembling data for several months as a possible basis for crop insurance.

A possibility that several crop insurance plans may be offered congress was seen. Senator Capper, Kansas Republican and backer of Governor Alf M. Landon, announced several weeks ago that he would introduce a crop insurance measure.

4 KILLED WHEN HAVANA NEWSPAPER BLASTED

HAVANA, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Hundreds of prisoners jammed Havana's city jail today as police, aided by cabinet officials, pushed investigation of a dynamite blast which killed four persons and wrecked two buildings.

Informed authorities expressed belief the explosion was planned by Spanish residents who became angry over publication of Spanish civil war news in two Havana newspapers.

The blast wrecked the plant of the newspaper El Pais.

They've found rail fares at 2¢ A MILE AND LESS mighty low cost transportation. With reduced Pullman charges, tray food service for 5¢ and 10¢, low priced dining car meals and other new train economies—'tis no wonder Sandy's song is so popular—a "hit tune" of the travel parade.

Any Old RAGS?
Any Old SHOES?

YOU remember the man who said he owned a suit for every day in the week—the one he had on. All of us, these past years, have had to make our old shoes and hats and dresses and suits do double duty—we've worn them months longer than usual simply to save money.

Now that things are brighter, it's a good idea to take stock and stock up. While fall's still young, invest, if you feel able, in a new suit, a new hat, a new rug for the living-room, perhaps a new refrigerator, or a vacuum cleaner! Prices are likely to be lower than you expect—and after all, don't you deserve a change of scenery, personal and household?

One word—watch the advertising in this paper carefully before you buy. Real money can be saved by judicious buying — and judicious buying is often a matter of first reading the advertising columns! Read them today and reap . . . more for your money!
