

Pete Seeks Revenge For Drop Kicks In Tonight's Mat Feature

RE-MATCH GIVES ITALIAN CHANCE TO EVEN SCORE

Wolfe Tangles With Hubka in Semi-Final Match — Arab and Burns in Re-match for Opening Bout

In view of the fact that last week's battle of drop-kicks between Pete Belcastro and Gene Moore was fought mainly in the first two ring-side rows of chairs, gentlemen with false teeth are warned to sit further back in the bleachers tonight, or else flash their own bicuspidas out of their throats. Moore and the Italian are re-matched in a grudge battle on the top spot tonight, winner-take-all and the devil take the hindmost.

Moore, in kicking the coast champion out of the arena three times, turned in a beautifully arranged attack, but he overlooked one thing—that is the undying enemy the Lethal Latin holds for any man who defeats him at his own game, and the drop-kick has long been Pete's game. While the new kicking flash asks and gives no favors, it is believed that he will have to contend with more than the Belcastro's lashing feet tonight. The Italian, by frequently going dirty in his former match with Moore, indicated what attack he will unfurl tonight. Whether Moore will be able to tag him with a flying foot remains the key to the outcome.

REFeree COACHED COUGARS IS CLAIM

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Published charges the referee "coached" Washington State college's quarterback between plays in the Cougars' 14-to-13 victory over Stanford Saturday stirred a tempest in the Pacific coast conference today.

Herb Dana, conference football commissioner, expressed indignation that "the criticism should come in this manner."

YOUNG LONDON LASS WORLD GOLF CHAMP

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Pam Barton, 19-year-old freckle-faced London lass, is the world's women's golf champion—the first player to gain distinction in 27 years.

Winning the British championship last May after finishing second the previous two years, Pam scored the first "double" since 1907 when she beat Maureen Gregg, 36-year-old American veteran, 4 and 3, Saturday over the Canoe Brook Country club links at Summit, N. J.

After this date I will not be responsible for any bill contracted by anyone but myself.

His Feet Carry Knockout

Above is the slight, almost delicate-looking Gene Moore, bronco-branded drop-kicker who last week defeated Pete Belcastro in a foot battle at the Armory, stealing the Lethal Latin's thunder by landing the first kick. Moore kicked Belcastro from the arena three times despite the Italian's efforts to blind him with eye gouging, and although made himself a popular favorite here, the re-match between the two will be a winner-take-all grudge match, and if it is any better than last week's whirlwind battle, will be one of the best seen here.

There seem to be a lot of people who thought Eureka got a raw deal when those dazzling lateral passes of theirs were called back, with a 15 yard penalty. The laterals, as a matter of fact, were alright. There was no kick there. But the forward passes were of the "screened" type and consequently illegal.

BOWLING

The Rogue Valley Golfing team of the City Bowling league stoked the furnace to a high heat Friday evening and turned in some of the most remarkable performances of the current league schedule to trounce the Studebaker's 3 points to 1. The golfers' match scores were all over 500.

CRATER VISITORS SET NEW RECORD; LODGE IS CLOSED

By entrance the travel was as follows: West, 21,556 cars, 69,396 people; south, 19,208 cars, 53,354 people; north, 19,914 cars, 50,798 people; east, 5679 cars, 16,934 people.

Of this total, 27,340 people arrived in September, 56,781 in August and 54,010 in July. These figures broke all monthly travel records.

No accommodations are now available at Crater Lake, these services having been discontinued September 20 for the fall and winter season.

However, travel to the lake will be possible throughout the year through the use of additional snowplow equipment during the stormy season. All entrances, the east, north, south and west, are now open. The first heavy autumn snow will close the north entrance, leading to The Dalles-California highway by way of the Beaver Marsh road.

The west entrance from Medford and the Pacific highway and the south from Klamath Falls and The Dalles-California highway will be open to the rim of the lake regardless of snow conditions, with the possible exceptions of heavy storms which may block the road for two or three days.

Visitors now arriving can obtain food, lodging and gasoline on the west road at Union Creek, 20 miles distant; Prospect, 30 miles, and at other resorts on road to Medford, 80 miles distant. Food can be obtained at Fort Klamath, 20 miles, on the south road, but due to all auto cabins and hotel rooms having been rented to loggers now engaged in extensive operations in that section, lodging is unavailable.

Alumni and former students of the University of California will hold their annual re-union dinner and alumni meeting at the Portland Hotel in Portland, Friday, October 9, on the eve of the California-Oregon State football game which will open the Pacific Coast conference in Portland.

"Stub" Allison, head coach of the Golden Bears, will be the main speaker. Kenneth Priestly, graduate manager at Berkeley, will also speak. There will be a special program and a showing of recent motion pictures made on the California campus of campus and athletic events.

A section of the grandstand has been set aside for California graduates. Several from Medford are expected to attend the meeting and game.

CANZONERI MEETS M'LARNIN TONIGHT

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Two great little fighters, both of them nearing the end of the flistic trail, meet in a 10-round bout in Madison Square Garden tonight to see which will quit and which will seek further laurels.

They are Tony Canzoneri, twice winner and loser of the world light-weight championship, and Jimmy McLarnin of Vancouver, who once ruled the welterweights.

There's no proof that the loser will retire but both Sammy Goldman, Canzoneri's manager, and Pop Foster, who pilots McLarnin, are ready to admit their charges have been fighting long enough. Neither has financial worries to force him to keep on. The victor will be offered a tithe-bout with Tony Ross, the welter-weight king.

The Vancouver Irishman is a slight favorite but the odds have dwindled to 6 to 5.

PORTLAND GROUP DUE HERE OCT. 14

A delegation of business executives from Portland will be in Medford Wednesday, October 14. It was announced this morning by Olen Arnsperger, president of the Jackson County Chamber of Commerce, The Portland group is conducting a goodwill tour throughout southern Oregon and will remain in Medford overnight on the 14th and leave for Klamath Falls the next day.

C. D. Bean, chairman of the retail merchants committee of the Chamber of Commerce has called a meeting of the retail merchants committee for Wednesday at three p. m. when plans will be perfected for a forum luncheon in honor of the up-state visitors. The complete program and list of speakers will be announced later, officials of the Chamber of Commerce stated this morning.

CASEY STENGEL OUT; DODGERS CLUB SALE BELIEVED COMING UP

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(AP)—There was no joy in Mudville and, for that matter, not much in Brooklyn today. The mighty Casey has been let out. And the whole ball club may be sold.

The sudden release of Charles Dillon (Casey) Stengel, for three seasons manager of the outfit known far and wide as the "Daffy Dodgers," was believed by smart baseball men to be the forerunner of negotiations for the disposal of the Brooklyn Nationals.

A syndicate for which the veteran Col. T. L. Houston, former half owner of the New York Yankees, is a representative, is understood to be dickering for a controlling interest in the club.

Stengel's release came suddenly last night, in the midst of the Yankees' celebration of their third straight world series victory. He was told that the four club directors had agreed to let him go and pay off the contract under which he had one more season.

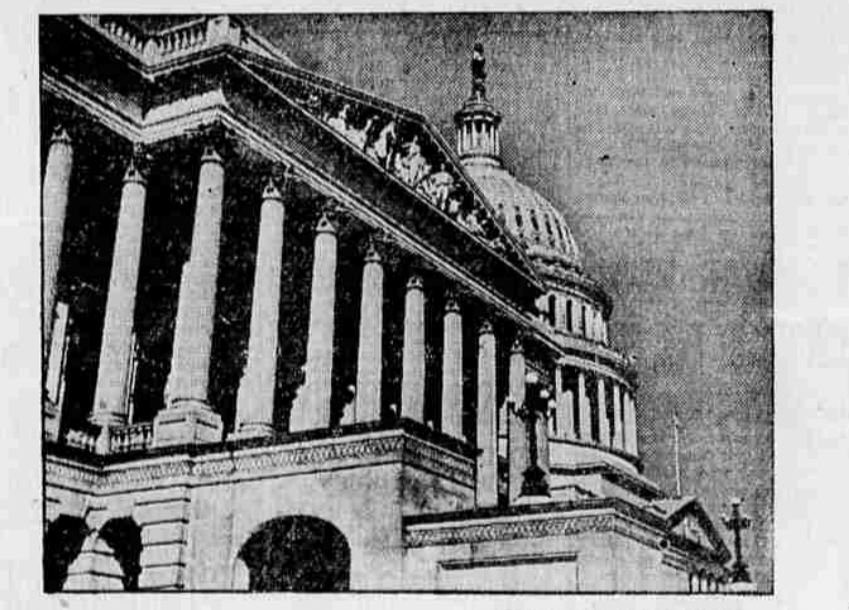

Under this arrangement, to which Stengel agreed, he will receive more for not managing the Dodgers in 1937 than he did for piloting them to seventh place this year. He signed a new contract last year on a sliding scale, which called for his salary to be raised from about $18,000 to $15,000 for next season.
