Obituary

Tommie E. Wardrip
 On September 29th Tommie E. Wardrip of Medford, Oregon, lost his life in the burning of his truck on the Pacific highway north of San Francisco. Mr. Wardrip was employed by an interstate trucking company and, after driving most of the night, he surrendered the wheel to another driver and lay down to rest in the back of the truck. In some unaccountable way the car caught fire, and he lost his life in the flames.
 Mr. Wardrip was born at Lamoni, Iowa on February 12th, 1908. For some time he was a resident of Portland where he made many friends. On June 27th, 1928, he married Miss Maxine Deputy. At the time of his death they resided in Medford. Besides his wife he is survived by his mother, Mrs. Sarah Smith of Blytheville, Missouri; a brother, W. H. Wardrip of Portland, Oregon; and a sister, Mrs. Mary Marab of Mt. Airy, Iowa. Four half brothers, Stille and Claude Stagner and Clarence and Charles Wardrip, and a half sister, Mrs. May Goldsburg, are also living.
 The funeral service was held at the Gable parlors, Montevilla, and interment was at the Portland Crematorium.

NOTICE—After this date I will not be responsible for any bill contracted by anyone but myself.—BEN FURCH, Klamath Falls, Ore.

MEDFORD CLIMATE ATTRACTS DOCTOR

When Dr. George S. Jennings and Mrs. Jennings decided that because of climatic conditions, life in Kansas left much to be desired, they thought of the Pacific coast as a place in which to establish a new home. The question then arose where on the Pacific coast? Being of a methodical turn of mind and trained to diagnose situations by authentic evidence, the doctor sent to chambers of commerce up and down the coast asking for data on weather conditions over a period of years. The Medford chamber, along with others, submitted statistics, and as a result Dr. and Mrs. Jennings and three children are now residents of this city.
 Asked Saturday as to what opinion his family had formed of Medford and the Rogue river valley since their arrival three weeks ago, Dr. Jennings said:
 "It seems like a paradise after the terrible heat and dry weather experienced in Kansas. We have found conditions here ideal for living and for rearing a family. Two of our children have started in school and we are looking forward to enjoyment of the recreational opportunities offered in the woods and on the lakes and streams here.
 Dr. Jennings, who has opened an office in the Medford Central building is an osteopathic physician and surgeon, and optometrist. He recently completed a year and a half of special work in the Chicago College of Osteopathy and the College of Optometry there, and specializes in eye, ear, nose and throat.
 The newcomers are making their home at 27 Glenn Oak court.

Art Association Invites Public To Monday Lecture

The Southern Oregon Art association extends a cordial invitation to everyone to attend the free lecture on "Modern American Painting" to be given by Miss Marion Ady at the First Methodist church parlors Monday at 7:45 p. m.
 Miss Ady, after receiving her B.A. degree at the University of Oregon and her M.A. at Columbia, has studied at the California School of Fine Arts and with Steinhilber at the Carnegie Foundation. She has been with the art department at the Southern Oregon Normal school for ten years and has many friends in Medford.
 In her lecture she will trace back briefly to the first drawings we know and bring the background up to the time of Gauguin and from there take up American painters, showing the influence of all schools. Illustrating her talk in color with the works of twenty-five modern American painters.
 She will also tell something of the future of American painting and some of the things that have influenced it in the last ten years, such as photography and the three dimensional movie camera. Those who are interested in photography will find her lecture interesting and educational, as well as all artists and those who are interested in art from an educational or cultural standpoint.

RED CROSS SPEEDS REHABILITATION OF BANDON CITIZENS

Information sent to the local office of the Red Cross from the Pacific branch office in San Francisco states that progress is being made in emergency relief and plans for the permanent rehabilitation of the fire sufferers at Bandon. The relief fund now approximately $45,000, of which the national Red Cross contributed $23,000, according to the report made Tuesday of this week. Final reports have yet to be received from a large number of chapters.
 The San Francisco office announces that 680 refugee families have thus far registered with the Red Cross and that this number is expected to be considerably greater before the relief project is closed. A re-check by Red Cross workers shows 425 residences, 75 business houses and seven churches were destroyed. The grade school burned but the high school escaped the flames.
 Forty-three fire sufferers were so seriously burned that they required hospitalization in Coquille, Marshfield and Myrtle Point. Nine persons were killed and two still reported missing. The total number of persons in 80 tents. Streets have been laid out, walks are down, electric lights are on and sanitary facilities have been provided. The central mess hall serves 425 persons at each meal.
 As a Junior Red Cross project, $200 has been voted from the national children's fund with which to purchase recreation equipment for the children of Bandon. The Red Cross has made available to the municipal government of Bandon $3000 for emergency assistance in health and sanitation measures.
 Permits have been granted for 10 small business houses to open temporarily until the emergency phase of the disaster can be terminated and permanent rehabilitation begun. National guard and state police units have been withdrawn from the scene. Labor unions of Coos county, with headquarters at Marshfield, donated free all labor by carpenters, painters and other skilled artisans, in constructing the tent colony, insurance has been paid promptly, enabling those with resources to make their own plans to cooperate with the state planning commission in rebuilding a greater and more substantial Bandon-by-the-Sea.

George Prey, chairman of the local Red Cross branch and Lillian Roberts, secretary, joined in expressing their great appreciation of the splendid response by Medford and county residents to the plea for contributions to aid Bandon residents. Having already subscribed almost 86 percent over the county quota of $480, Prey announced a total of $618.50 was sent to the San Francisco office from this county early this week.

GARDEN CLUB TO IMPORT TACHINID FLY FOR EARWIGS

Official declaration of war on Medford's earwig population was issued yesterday by the Medford Garden club following receipt of a definite order from "soldiers" from the city of Portland. The tachinid flies, which will be used in the offensive, will be furnished by the Portland authorities at a cost of $2000 for 100,000 flies. L. O. Gentner of the Southern Oregon experiment station was informed yesterday.
 Medford had expected to obtain the speckled army of 100,000 for $1,030, but passage of a Portland ordinance prevents the sale of the parasites at reduced prices to other cities, so the cost will be $2000.
 Miss Jane Sudler, president of the Garden club, announced yesterday that she would call an early meeting of the club council and heads of service clubs to determine the method of raising the required money. Shipping expenses will be paid by Portland, so $2000 will cover all expenses involved.

Medford need not order the flies before November, Mr. Gentner stated yesterday, adding that they will not be liberated until July, which is the ideal month for their operations on the earwig front. As the fly lives on earwigs only, citizens need not fear the introduction of a new pest through admission of this parasite, as is sometimes the case in fighting bugs with other bugs. The parasites are always more plentiful than the earwigs as they produce two broods a year, while the earwig produces just one and the fly lays many more eggs.
 In this manner the flies keep the earwig population at a minimum.
 The flies have proved successful wherever tried. Mr. Gentner stated yesterday, adding that two years ago he experimented with them near the experiment farm. He liberated 300 flies and there are practically no earwigs at the Nye orchard this year.
 The urgent need for eradication of earwigs in Medford has been voiced by residents of all localities and the pest has now moved into country districts. Mr. Gentner said yesterday that packing houses during the current fruit season, have found them hiding by thousands in logs. These logs, distributed into orchards, scattered the earwigs there. They are also found in great numbers in lumber and wood piles and in houses, where they hide in food and clothing.

 While for actual feeding they seem to prefer flowers and vegetables, they do enjoy invading the household. They are particularly damaging to ripening fruit, peaches being their favorite. In the Ashland locality, Mr. Gentner remarked, trees were stripped of entire crops by the pest this year, this having been the biggest year for earwigs this locality has known.
 The winter does not destroy the earwig, which seeks an underground cell for the cold weather. All the bugs are now mature, Mr. Gentner explained, and will soon be burrowing a few inches underground, where they will winter and lay their eggs in cells. Some wait until spring to lay their eggs, but all hatch at approximately the same time, usually in April. Some prefer entering houses to burrowing into the soil and they are now planning these excursions, according to complaints of housewives in all sections.

A Trust A Monopoly— A Public Gauge!
 The group of dentists that lobbied through a bill to prohibit truthful advertising is an outright trust, and their every action smacks of monopoly. Their attitude has always been, "Do as we say—or else!" They want to keep themselves shrouded in super-natural nonsense, with a sort of "God-almighty" halo around their dental office—their office that sets them apart from other men—THE MOST RIDICULOUS THING IN AMERICAN LIFE TODAY. If you want reasonable priced dentistry, by some of the best educated and experienced dentists in the profession, see that the constitution of Oregon is amended in November to permit truthful advertising—and destroy the sinister power of this dental trust and monopoly.
