

Belcastro and Moore Foresake Grips For Gloves In Arena Tonight

GRAPPLERS AGREE TO SETTLE GRUDGE IN FISTIC BATTLE

Boxing Commission Will Name Judge for Main Event Brawl—Rest of Bill to Be Wrestling Dish

Medford boxing commission announced today it would appoint two judges to work with the referee in deciding the winner of tonight's grudge fight between Pete Belcastro and Gene Moore at the armory.

The judges will be selected from the ring-side just prior to the bout which brings together two of the coast's outstanding wrestlers in a 10-round boxing bout. In their two wrestling entanglements here Moore and Belcastro divided honors, Gene taking the first struggle with deadly droppicks and Pete the second with a nicely timed knock to the knox.

It was the knockout crack to the cranium that so enraged Moore that he suggested a real bout under the Marquis of Queensbury rules. He declared that since Belcastro seemed to prefer slugfests to wrestling he would meet him in a slugfest with boxing gloves. The bout is to go 10 rounds unless it is terminated sooner by a knockout or its equivalent.

Whether a bit of wrestling would be mixed with the fighting, neither gladiator would say, but some cynical fans were of the belief that once the boys don boxing gloves perhaps they would do some nifty wrestling. At any rate Promoter Mack Lillard declared today that the affair will be worth going miles to see.

Both men have had boxing experience, but whether they are as adept at swapping blows now as they were once no one can say until they mix tonight. It is believed, however, that fitness will give way to a real back-alley fight, in which case the audience will see a wild encounter.

Wrestling will not be neglected on tonight's armory card. Les Wolfe one-time Medford idol, who recently turned boxer, will meet Jimmy Goodrich in the middle west. Goodrich, a newcomer here, is described as a tough and rough, but clean wrestler, who depends upon a pair of flying legs to finish off an opponent when his wide assortment of other tactics fails to produce the desired results.

The new-found bad man, Billy Burns, will meet Joe Hubka in the opener. Burns has developed a reputation as an ace amateur, but it is expected that the clever former football star of the University of Wisconsin will be well able to take care of himself.

Both wrestling events will be under the Australian system of six 10-minute rounds, two falls out of three.

Mr. Lillard said today that there will be a ground-floor all-out for the eighth consecutive week. Tickets for tonight's card have sold faster than for any previous program, he stated.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Santa Clara's football Broncos rang 15 to 7 on the score sheet over the University of San Francisco Dons today.

The Broncos scored first in the opening quarter on a San Francisco safety after Don Ray Peterson's punt was knocked down behind his own goal line.

Another blocked punt figured in a Santa Clara touchdown in the third quarter. The Broncos recovered the ball on San Francisco's 10-yard line and Gomez passed to Re Ross for a touchdown.

FOUR UNDEFEATED COAST SQUADS TO FACE TOUGH FOES

Southern Cal. Meets W. S. C.—Bears Face U. C. L. A.—Washington Favored to Wallop Oregon Staters

By RUSS NEWLAND
SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Football's main scramble this week end will find the four undefeated members of the Pacific Coast conference risking their championship standings, three of them participants in tough games.

The engagements, part of the round robin series which will determine the 1936 title, match Southern California with Washington State college; the University of California Bears with the University of California at Los Angeles Bruins and Washington with Oregon State.

Powerful Washington, conqueror of U. C. L. A. by a 14-0 count last Saturday, draws the easier of the assignments. It will be an overwhelming favorite to down Oregon State, defeated 7 to 0 last week by the California Bears.

Cougar Record Clear

Southern California return from its 24-to-6 intercollegiate triumph over Illinois, to find waiting a Washington State eleven which won 14 to 0 from Idaho Saturday and has a clear record in the conference championship fight through a 14-to-18 setback of Stanford two weeks ago.

On showings to date, the past-thriving Southern California team figures to outscore W. S. C. with comparatively little trouble. The Trojans walloped Oregon State, 38 to 7, and Oregon, 26 to 0, in their first two games.

California's Bears face the sternest test of the day. After their weak efforts against Oregon State it will not be highly surprising if they lose to their southern cousins this Saturday. The U. C. L. A. Bruins looked stronger in defeat by Washington than the Bears did in winning on the same day.

GAELS TRIUMPH IN FURIOUS QUARTER

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 12.—(AP)—St. Mary's Gaels, striking fast and furiously for 15 minutes, downed Loyola University's stubborn Lions, 19 to 7, here Sunday before 50,000 spectators in Memorial Coliseum.

Edward P. ("Slip") Madigan's Mo-ragans, pointing toward their inter-sectional game with Fordham in New York October 24, chased over three touchdowns in the second quarter and coasted scoreless from then on.

Loyola offered a stronger battle than expected, and scored in the final period with a flashy running and passing game that swept the St. Mary's variety off its feet.

Both teams made eight first downs apiece, but St. Mary's pounded off 119 yards rushing, 45 yards on forward passes and 83 on two laterals. Loyola counted 81 yards rushing, and 139 yards through 11 passes completed out of 31 attempts.

Oregon Tax Limitation Situation Explained

(Editor's Note: This is the first of a series of articles on the tax situation in Oregon, written for this newspaper by Dr. James H. Gilbert, dean of the college of social science at the University of Oregon. Dr. Gilbert, who is also professor of economics at the University is regarded as an authority on the tax situation in the state of Oregon and is frequently consulted by state officials and others.)

By JAMES H. GILBERT
Economists and tax experts would be the first to admit that real estate is bearing more than its just share of taxation. Recognition of this fact has lent support to tax limitation measures now in force in eight American states with pending proposals in others.

It is interesting to note that in all of these states having over-all tax limitation laws, a sales tax has been adopted to repair, in part, the damage to state and local governments. The burden of the replacement taxes have fallen, therefore, on persons of small incomes. Farmers and small home owners have lost more through interest than they can possibly save through reduction of taxes on real estate.

Tax limitation has not proved satisfactory in any state. Either governmental services have been dismantled or crippled, or have been kept intact only by excessive borrowing. Says Carl H. Chatters (Western City, April, 1936, p. 13): "Local government in most of these states is in a turmoil and public services have either been eliminated or greatly curtailed."

In Ohio where tax limitation has been long in force, local debts increased from $188,000,000 in 1910, to $974,000,000 in 1930. Even in 1917 the auditor reported that there were eighty cities in Ohio in which the aggregate tax levies were insufficient to pay the debt service. These cities were, of course, operating entirely on borrowed funds.

Despite the disasters attending tax limitation in other states, a drastic twenty mill limitation was submitted in Oregon in 1934. It soon became apparent that the effect of this measure would be detrimental to all governmental units and would jeopardize the efficiency and even the existence of educational institutions in Oregon. It was defeated by a majority of sixty thousand.

Sponsors of the twenty mill limitation believed its rejection was due to the drastic nature of the measure. Their aim was to present a "milder and more gradual" reduction in the form of the pending amendment (Article XI-B) to be passed upon in November.

Next installment will show that the pending amendment is neither mild nor gradual but very drastic and abrupt in the reductions it proposes.

SKUNK HUNTER KILLED BY ACCIDENTAL SHOT
PORTLAND, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Fritz Erickson, 43, was dead today from a 22-caliber rifle bullet wound in his head. Investigators believed the gun had been discharged as Erickson crawled through a barbed-wire fence. The accident occurred yesterday near Linneman junction when Erickson, a cement worker, was out hunting skunks he believed were taking his chickens. He is survived by his widow and three children.
