

ROOSEVELT, SMITH FACE TO FACE IN OPPOSITION

Al Smith, the "happy warrior" who was formerly the close political associate of President Roosevelt, bolted the Democratic party and announced his support of Gov. Alf M. Landon for the presidency in an address at New York in which he attacked the New Deal. The President (left) and Smith (right) are pictured as they appeared in almost simultaneous speeches, Mr. Roosevelt as he spoke at Pittsburgh, and Smith before a large New York audience. (Associated Press Photos)

BREECHES BUOY LINK TO SHIP

Coast guardsmen shot a breeches buoy line in the fog to the stricken freighter Ohlson, which ran aground near the Golden Gate while trying to enter San Francisco harbor. The guardsmen are shown preparing to send Capt. Tom McFarland, American-Hawaiian company pilot, who had been brought ashore earlier, back to the craft to inspect damage to the ship from the rocks when it hit. (Associated Press Photo)

Wounded In Spain

Arthur Menken (above), American news reel photographer and son of S. Stanwood Menken, socially prominent New Yorker, was wounded in the fighting at Adrara in Spain's civil war. He is a graduate of Harvard. (Associated Press Photo)

DESOLATE LANDFALL FROM STORM

This picture shows Armand Gicquel, 30-year-old fisherman, and the dory in which he and Axel Olson, another member of the San Francisco cod-fishing schooner Louise, drifted and battled Bering sea storms for three weeks before making this desolate landfall on Akutan Island. Olson died from the exposure, but Gicquel survived and found shelter. Quartermaster H. J. Bourg of the coast guard cutter Cheilan, which brought Gicquel to Seattle, made this picture. (Associated Press Photo)

HOOVER VISITS 1936 CANDIDATE

New Italian Envoy

This is a candid camera picture of Fulvio Suvich, new Italian ambassador to the United States, upon his arrival at New York to assume his duties. (Associated Press Photo)

Former President Herbert Hoover paid a visit to the 1936 Republican presidential nominee, Gov. Alf M. Landon, at Topeka, Kas. Here are two as they sat down for a chicken dinner at the Landon home. (Associated Press Photo)

NEW GIANT BOMBING PLANE PREPARED FOR TESTS

This is the newest edition of bombing plane for the United States army. It is a 16-ton Boeing ship, built at Seattle, being towed on a barge to the airport where it was to be assembled for first test flights. It has a 105-foot wingspread and four 1,000-horsepower motors and is designed for a 3,000-mile cruise. The big craft is the first of 13 such for the army. (Associated Press Photo)

NAZI WOMEN READY FOR AIR RAIDS

Equipped with steel helmets and pick-axes, these Nazi women are shown wearing gas masks, training prescribed by the air defense league, an organization of volunteers to be trained against possible air raids on Germany. (Associated Press Photo)

HOW DIVERSION OF MIGHTY COLUMBIA WILL LOOK

This combination photograph and artist's sketch shows how the Columbia river will look when the builders of Grand Coulee Dam in Washington force the stream from its regular channel. On the aerial picture the artist drew the diversion dam as it will appear when completed in February, 1937. The letters "A" and "B" indicate the upper and lower crib cofferdams which will join the sheet steel, west side coffer, "C" and "D." "E" indicates Block 40 on the west side of the dam, built to its full height. "F" is the east shore cofferdam, behind which concrete pouring will soon start. (Associated Press Photo)

'Oldest Legionnaire'

Frank A. Walton (above) entered an objection when he read of an Oregonian of 74 who claimed to be the oldest American Legion member in the nation. He brought out family records to show he soon will be 77. A great-grandfather, Walton is a member of the legion post at Portland, Ore. (Associated Press Photo)

WATCH THE BABY 'BIRDIE'

Celebrating their third birthday anniversary, Florence McInnis perched on the arm of a chair to get a nice picture of her twin sister, Margery. They're the favorite "experiment" of New York's Medical Center Child Development Clinic. Florence is taught these things; Margery doesn't care. (Associated Press Photo)

VETERANS GET ACQUAINTED

Men who followed the flag in many lands mingled at Denver as the Veterans of Foreign Wars held their 37th encampment. Bewhiskered D. W. Allender (left), 69, of Springfield, W. Va., fought in Cuba in 1898. Jacob S. Roby (right) of Ponca City, Okla., was with Byrd at the South Pole. (Associated Press Photo)

LANDON AS FOOTBALL FAN

Gov. Alf M. Landon was well pleased with the way his alma mater, Kansas University, defeated the Washburn College eleven in a game at Lawrence, Kas. Seated beyond the Republican presidential candidate, who is leaning forward, are Chancellor Ernest Lindley of K. U., Peggy Anne Landon and Mrs. Landon. (Associated Press Photo)

Farm Girl Champion

Gertie Ter Maaten, 15, dairy farm girl from Norwalk, Calif., won the farm girl championship at the Los Angeles county fair over ten others competing in milking, churning, hay-raking and corn husking. She is shown with the cow she milked, filling the pail in three minutes. (Associated Press Photo)

HAT BACK FROM GLOBE TOUR

The much-decorated, globe-trotting hat of Albert E. Wickey, retired St. Louis express company employe, was stowed into an air liner at Seattle by Pilot Albert Ball en route east after 75,000 miles of travel that last took it to Nome, Alaska. Wickey's famous hat was started on its tour by friends because he could not take a long-planned world tour. The hat is shown with an anonymous "friend." (Associated Press Photo)

Looks Like Will

James L. McGinnis, 39, railroad brakeman of St. Paul, who looks like the late Will Rogers, will pose for a memorial to the actor-humorist at Glendale, Calif. (Associated Press Photo)

CANDIDATES' BARBERS DISPUTE VOTE

George Westfall (left) and Joe Harris work side by side in the same barber shop at Boise, Idaho, and their two most distinguished customers are Gov. C. Ben Ross, Democratic candidate for the United State senate, and William E. Borah, the senator from Idaho for 30 years, who are rivals in the November election. But friendship ends when it comes to picking the probable winner. Westfall is backing Ross while Harris likes the chances of the veteran Borah. (Associated Press Photo)