

ON A BICYCLE BUILT FOR TWO

Princess Juliana of Holland and Prince Bernhard Zur Lippe Biesterfeld, whose engagement was recently announced, are shown enjoying the popular Dutch pastime of cycling in the park of the royal palace at The Hague. (Associated Press Photo)

RECEIVES TEMPORARY PROMOTION

Appointed by President Roosevelt to fill, temporarily, the vacancy left by the death of George H. Dern, Harry H. Woodring, new secretary of war, is shown with his wife at their Alexandria, Va., home receiving telephoned congratulations. (Associated Press Photo)

INSURGENTS MOP UP ON LOYALISTS TO FREE ALCAZAR DEFENDERS

This picture, one of the most remarkable to come out of war-torn Spain, shows Fascist insurgents advancing stealthily through the ruins of the outer courtyard of the Alcazar at Toledo to drive out the last of the loyalist troops before freeing the heroic defenders of the old fortress-palace, who had withstood a ten-weeks siege. Some of the soldiers are crouching behind barricades. The dead mule in the foreground tells another grim tale of war. (Associated Press-Paramount News Photo)

BLONDE GOLFER CHARGES ASSAULT

Bea Gottlieb, the blonde golfer who beat King Edward VIII of England when he was Prince of Wales, accused Carey Phelan, 44, New York cabaret owner, of criminally assaulting her. Miss Gottlieb, shown in her hospital bed, said she withheld charges for two weeks lest the king be embarrassed. (Associated Press Photo)

LATEST IN SISTER ACTS TAKES TO STAGE

That first look at an audience of 7,600 persons scarcely dimmed the smiles of the 6-year-old Morlock quadruplets of Lansing, Mich., when they made their professional stage debut at Lowell, Mich. G. H. Runciman introduces (left to right) Edna A., Sarah C., Wilma B. and Helen D. Those initials do not conceal names, but indicate the order of their birth. (Associated Press Photo)

LINDBERGH'S "MECHANICAL HEART"

This is a close-up of the "mechanical heart" developed by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh in collaboration with Rockefeller scientists and demonstrated by the flyer at the International Cytology conference in Copenhagen. (Associated Press Photo)

Hats Replace Fans

Fan dancing and bubble dancing are too old-fashioned for Rosita Delva, 19-year-old Los Angeles dancer, who was born in Mexico, where hats are hats. So she has developed the "sombrero dance" and shows here how it goes. (Associated Press Photo)

RUTH, RUPPERT AGAIN FRIENDS

Babe Ruth, the former Yankee hero, and his one-time boss, Jacob Ruppert, who hadn't been on very friendly terms since the Babe left the Yanks, forgot all about it when they both attended a victory dinner celebrating the Yanks' triumphs over the Giants in the World Series at New York. (Associated Press Photo)

JOHN GILBERT'S BED AUCTIONED

This bed on which John Gilbert, the film actor, died was put up for auction at Hollywood with the rest of his household furnishings. Two attendants at the auction inspect the bed, which was described as one of the largest ever made. (Associated Press Photo)

VICTORIOUS SPANISH REBEL COLUMN ADVANCES

This picture shows a column of Spanish rebel troops marching on San Sebastian after conquering the nearby town of Irun. The Fascist forces have completed the occupation of San Sebastian and have set up a civil administration to govern the city. (Associated Press Photo)

NYE DISCUSSES FOKKER AFFIDAVIT

U. S. Senator Gerald P. Nye (right) is pictured with reporters at Washington as he discussed the Fokker affidavit before the Senate Munitions Committee in which Elliott Roosevelt, son of the President, was named as a party to a contract to sell planes to Russia. (Associated Press Photo)

INDICTED FOR SHIP KILLING

Earl King (left), San Francisco district secretary of the Marine Firemen, Oilers, Wipers and Watertenders Association, and George Wallace (right), a member of the union, were indicted by the grand jury at Oakland, Cal., for the five-month-old slaying of Chief Engineer George W. Alberts on the freighter Point Lobos. District Attorney Earl Warren charged that King had "employed the assassins" and that Wallace was one of two killers. He said Wallace had made a confession. (Associated Press Photo)

49 HURT WHEN TRUCK AND TROLLEY COLLIDE

A seven-ton truck and a trolley car collided in the Bronx at New York with this result. Forty-nine of the 79 passengers aboard the trolley were slightly injured. (Associated Press Photo)

AP Men In Spain

Dramatic stories of Spain's Civil War are being brought to American readers by these three Associated Press correspondents: Alexander P. Uhl (top), bureau chief at Madrid; Richard G. Massock (left), who told tales of the survivors of the Alcazar, and Elmer W. Peterson (right), reporter on Spain's southern war front. (Associated Press Photos)