

NEUTRAL RIGHTS ADHERENCE HELD NEED OF AMERICA

Despite his recent cold and sore throat and three hours spent out-of-doors—20 minutes in an open car riding in a parade in his honor and two hours reviewing it from a hotel balcony—Landon's voice did not sound hoarse.

While out in the bright autumn afternoon the Kansan kept his throat well muffled. He wore an overcoat and occasionally puffed a pipe as he waved his hat in response to the cheers of a parade crowd estimated by Michael Morrissey, police chief as aggregating 75,000 in the Indianapolis mile square.

Landon's speech, the first both on foreign affairs and of five major addresses with which he will close his presidential campaign in populous midwestern and eastern voting districts, represented his final personal bid for Indiana's 14 electoral votes.

Although Landon reported improvement in a cold and slightly sore throat which have hung on for three days, his public appearances in Indianapolis were restricted.

Emphasizing "war will never be the father of peace," Landon told his Coliseum audience the use of stronger armies to halt a conflict once begun "will always be a delusion to crush the hope and break the hearts of those who seek to wipe out war."

"I shall do everything in my power to prevent the tragedy of war from ever touching our country," he said. "I shall encourage with all my power the cause of peace. I shall not merely talk about my hatred of war."

World Outlook.

Asserting "the time has come to face foreign conditions realistically," the nominee viewed the world outlook:

"Nations are suspicious of one another and fearful of one another. Economic nationalism is rampant. Dictatorship is crowding out democratic governments. Certain nations live under fascist dictatorship, others under communist dictatorship.

"We recognize that every people has the right to choose its own form of government. But we in our country will have nothing to do with either of these alien philosophies. We believe in government by and for the people."

"We are determined in this restless world to keep our own nation an oasis of peace. We want this western hemisphere to be a lesson to all mankind that men and races can live together in harmony."

RED CROSS GIVES TO BANDON NEEDY

PORTLAND, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Red Cross relief awards to victims of the Bandon fire now total about 100, Jane V. Doyle, head of the Multnomah chapter, said today.

The awards were made on a basis of need, not on the actual losses suffered, Miss Doyle stated. She estimated the subscriptions had reached $40,000 with $130,000 needed to meet the emergency.

The difference probably will be taken care of by the national organization, she said.
