

COLD BLASTS END FINE WEATHER IN EASTERN STATES

Snow Flurries and Cold Rain Accompanies Wind to Bring Discomfort On Upper Atlantic Seaboard

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 27.—(AP)—Dry October passed another day in Oregon without rain and the weather bureau again forecast "Fair tonight and Wednesday." Rain has fallen twice this month, making it the driest October since 1925.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—(AP)—Windy winds whipping over eastern and New England states sent the mercury tumbling to sub-freezing depths today, bringing to an abrupt end the balmy temperatures of Indian summer.

Blasts of near-gale force with accompanying snow flurries and cold rain brought discomfort to upper Atlantic seaboard residents who witnessed temperature drops of 20 to 32 degrees within 16 hours.

The weather forecast of generally fair and continued cold offered little hope of moderation before Wednesday.

Mt. Washington in New Hampshire, where an 80-mile-an-hour wind blew, recorded the lowest temperature in the east—two degrees above zero.

Scattered points in every eastern state reported snow flurries late yesterday and cold rain fell rather generally to usher in the foretaste of winter.

Northfield, Vt., reported a 26-degree reading while Burlington had 24.

At Portland, Me., the mercury topped 23 degrees in eight hours to 31 and it was 28 in Boston.

New York's reading of 31 at midnight set a new low record for October 27 and approached the all-time low October mark of 29 degrees.

Frigid blasts from the Great Lakes, where storm warnings were hoisted, tumbled the mercury from 68 to 31 degrees at Erie, Pa., with accompanying snow. Pittsburgh had a 33-degree reading.

The ballots are sealed and placed in the ballot box for the precinct in which the absentee would vote, if he were home on election day. ## High School News by STUDENT REPORTERS

By Merlin Dow.
In accordance with the Grants Pass-Medford game the French club sponsored a pep dance immediately following the game Saturday afternoon, at which Grants Pass players were honored guests.

The dance lasted an hour and a half, breaking up near 6:00. Music was furnished by Whipple's orchestra, engaged for the function by a dance committee composed of French club members and headed by Virginia Martin and Dorothy Buchter. Small red and black souvenir toothpicks were sold for 10 cents each, which enabled the owner to attend the dance. Sale of these tickets was begun October 22, extended up until the time of the dance and was continued at the door. The attending crowd was a large one and found the dance an interesting and unusual affair.

Not only was the dance for the gathering of funds for the French club, but for advertisement of the Grants Pass-Medford game. It was found to be a big success for both the club and the school.

By Barbara Hampson.
A noise parade publicizing the Medford-Grants Pass game was held at 3 o'clock October 23. Every club in school was requested to participate and the student court assessed a fine of $2 on any organization not taking part in the parade.

Twenty-one societies participated in the march and as the floats passed the Chamber of Commerce building they were judged and prizes awarded. Two dollars for making the most noise was awarded to the junior class, $2 was also given to the Crater for most cleverly advertising the game and second prizes of $1 were given in each section also. These were won by the Future Craftsmen, O. A. A. and Latin club.

The drum corps and the high school band played in the line of march preceding the floats. The junior, senior, and sophomore classes marched also.

The noise parade was orderly and the students participating were cooperative. It was believed that the parade excited much interest in the football game at the high school Saturday.

Debate tournament, under direction of Mr. Wood was brought to a close October 22, when the Torch honor society triumphed over the Girls' league teams with a majority of two points. Lela Henderson and Rose Ellen Blomcker of the Girls' league affirmative debated Louise Keesee and Jeanette Thatcher of the Torch honor to a close decision of two votes to one in favor of the affirmative, while Ruth Garlock and Barbara Hampson of the Girls' league negative lost three votes to Burton Daugherty and Kenneth Raymond of the Torch honor affirmative. This gave Torch honor four points to the Girls' league two.

The cup offered by the Kiwanis club, will be engraved with the winning club's name and will be presented in the near future.

The debate was held between the different clubs and societies in the school, the finals being between the Torch honor, the French club and the Girls' league. Each club had two teams, one affirmative and one negative, and the debates were held in the different classes, the teachers acting as judges, except in the finals, when two judges and the class vote made up the decision.

Mr. Wood announced his satisfaction with the fine co-operation between the teams and hopes to continue these interesting inter-club debates next year.

The question discussed this season was: Resolved, that all electric utilities be governmentally owned and operated.
