

APPLEGATE FAIR IS BIG SUCCESS; PRIZES AWARDED

Home Extension Unit Has First Prize Exhibit — Grange Booth Second — Coddling, Coe Speakers

BIG APPLAGATE, Oct. 29.—(Spl.)—As an outcome of the varied exhibits and the general interest shown in the Applegate Grange fair Saturday evening, the Grange will make a community fair an annual event. A large crowd enjoyed the hospitality of the Grange on fair night, and the decorative autumn leaves and harvest symbols, combined with the excitement of auctioneering and the fun-makers procured in the fish pond supplied a festive atmosphere.

Individuals winning honors in displays are as follows: Charley Offenbacher, first, corn; Ben Ellis, second, Edwin Taylor, first, squash; Anderson Mees, second, Stanley Smith, first, pop corn; S. L. Johnson, second, The following placed first in their respective exhibits: C. U. Thomas, broom corn; Mrs. Edwin Taylor, tomatoes; Edwin Taylor, onions; S. P. Johnson, stock bees; Raymond Bentley, pumpkin; S. L. Johnson, milk; Beverly Mees, dog.

Extension Unit Wins Applegate home extension unit placed first among the booths. Patrons of Husbandry booth, placing second for Applegate Grange. Several schools of the valley were represented. Applegate winning first, Beaver Creek second, Thompson Creek third. Judges of exhibits were Henry Conger of Jacksonville and Mrs. L. Miller and Otto Fuhrman of Gold Hill. Attractive prizes were awarded.

A puppet show portraying the tale of Little Red Riding Hood was given by pupils of Mrs. Ethel Ludwig of Missouri Flat school, and the fine needlework of Mrs. L. J. Parker drew much attention.

Speakers introduced by Edwin Taylor, Grange master, were District Attorney George Coddling and M. E. Coe, principal of the Jacksonville schools. Mr. Coddling gave a resume of his average year's work with juveniles, explaining the handling and disposal of their cases. He pointed to the leniency extended young offenders through paroling and other methods whenever possible, and said that in the final analysis of the juvenile cases each individual demands different treatment, owing to the causes of the offense.

Home Life at Fault In many instances the fault lies within the home, Mr. Coddling said, adding that liquor and late hours also are contributing factors. He mentioned the need of parole officers and said that of the young people brought before him, very few had been required to attend Sunday school during their early lives, and he stated he had handled only one case involving a Boy Scout. ing, he said that there is no need for alarm in regard to the juvenile situation in Jackson county because the high class of homes here is the best guard for young people.

Mr. Coe spoke of the advantages offered in the Jacksonville school, which is attended by students from the Applegate. He pointed to the numerous activities, including band, orchestra, glee club, athletics, etc. He also mentioned the progressive attitude of the school board, the good condition of equipment, the increase in library books. He mentioned the handicap under which the school exists, owing to taxes on both town and farm property in the district.

Several numbers were given by the Jacksonville high school glee club, directed by Mrs. Florence Hunsaker. Dancing followed the program.

FREE RIDE TO POLLS IS OFFER TO WOMEN

Any Medford woman lacking means to get to the polls for Tuesday's election may call 168 or 82 and arrangements will be made for a car to call and take her to the polling place, according to announcement made by officers of the Zonta club and the Business and Professional Women's club. Members of both organizations will work together in volunteering time and cars for this community service.

The arrangement is absolutely non-partisan, those in charge emphasized, and no charge whatsoever will be made to those calling. Any woman to whom the service applies is urged to take advantage of the offer.

WHITE PINE AREA BEING APPRAISED FOR TIMBER SALE

Purchase Offer is Received From Klamath Falls and Bend Lumber Enterprises — Best Stand On Rogue

Appraisal was being made today of the white pine timber in the Rogue river national forest area above Union creek on the Diamond lake highway as the result of purchase applications received from lumber interests in Bend and Klamath Falls. The appraisal is being made by Newell Wright, United States regional inspector from Portland, and H. C. Obye, assistant supervisor of the Rogue.

The appraisal will require about ten days, Mr. Wright and Mr. Obye being assisted by a few CCC men. A cruise will also be made for marking the trees for sale under competitive bidding, it was explained by Karl L. Janouch, supervisor of the Rogue river national forest.

The projected timber sale is an experiment to determine whether it is practical and profitable to log in the area, difficulty of getting the logs out and the distance from markets being factors, Mr. Janouch said.

Largest Stand Here The sale also would determine whether cutting under a selective system would improve the timber stand by providing more room for the growth and development of young trees, Mr. Janouch related. It would also establish whether the removal of old, mature trees would improve the general condition of the stand as a whole, he added, pointing out that disease and insects make the greatest inroads upon old trees.

The largest stand of white pine in Oregon is contained in the Rogue river national forest, there being 385,000 board feet in the area now under appraisal, Mr. Janouch stated. Under white pine is equal in quality, if not superior, to Idaho white pine which is considered the world's best, he declared.

White pine is the most valuable timber in the forest, the supervisor related. It is used especially for patterns, to which it is particularly adapted, he said. It is also used extensively in American warships because of its lightness and durability, he stated.

The Ball family of Eagle Point today expressed their appreciation of the help received by friends and neighbors following the fire that three weeks ago destroyed their home and all its contents. "People have donated all sorts of useful things and we want to thank them most sincerely," said Mrs. H. Ball. "We have received donations from not only friends and neighbors in Eagle Point, but sympathizers in several other communities. In many cases the identity of the donor was not revealed and the only way we have of thanking these charitable folks is through The Mail Tribune. We are all very grateful for the splendid help we have received."

Only the Ball garage was saved from the fire and the family moved into its friends and neighbors supplying beds, bedding, clothes and other necessities. The family hopes to build a new home soon, Mrs. Ball said.

The public is invited to listen to the county, state and national returns which will be announced continuously over the loud speaker in front of the office.

TEACHERS TO AID BANDON SCHOOLS

At a recent conference of school officials in Salem, it was suggested that all school systems in the state contribute sums to schools in the Bandon area, crippled by the recent catastrophic fire there. Contributions from all over the state are being sent to C. A. Howard, state superintendent of public instruction, from whom they will be turned over to the Coos county superintendent to be used by officials there in the most advantageous way.

C. R. Bowman, county superintendent, announced yesterday that all teachers in Jackson county will be given an opportunity to contribute to this cause at the institute to be held in Ashland this week-end. It was decided that the matter could be better handled at such a gathering than individually in towns or districts.

STATE POWER BILL CLAIMS INTEREST AMONG MEASURES

Far-Reaching Statute Would Provide for Creation of Body to Set Up State Owned Power System

By CLAYTON V. BERNHARD SALEM, Ore., Oct. 29.—(AP)—The bill with the purpose of putting the state of Oregon into the power business, proposed for adoption by the people November 3, has received more attention in the press and on the platform over the state than perhaps any other measure to be voted upon. The far-reaching statute covers all sections and provides generally for the creation of a commission with authority to provide electric energy for all sections under a publicly owned system.

Gifts Wide Power Among the major provisions of the bill, after election of a commission of three men to replace the present hydro-electric commission, would be giving the commission the right to "do all things" including, but not limited to:

Purchase electric energy from Bonneville dam or other sources; to obtain building of transmission lines from the United States or to build them; acquire and develop water power and hydro-electric energy separately or with the federal government or other states; distribute, sell or dispose of it at cost; to obtain property by purchase, lease, or by right of eminent domain; to fix rates and charges; to develop a super-power district in Oregon; to place upon the ballot authorization for sale of bonds up to 2 per cent of the total assessed valuation and to borrow from the federal government.

The measure is supported by the State Grange and the State Federation of Labor to "assure reduced rates for power," and to "bring industries into the state under a law giving the best legislation for public use and ownership of water power of any state in the union." Proponents contend that if the federal government does not build transmission lines from Bonneville dam the act would make it possible for the state to take advantage of the energy developed.

Utilities oppose The measure is being bitterly fought by the Oregon Business & Investors, Inc., of Portland and the private utility companies. Those opposed contend the bill is another "attempt to put the home owners and taxpayers in the power business at their own expense under a political board." They hold the bill permits, by a vote of the people, issuance of 18,000,000 bonds, and by amendment to the law could raise the bond issue proposal to $54,000,000. A negative vote is urged by them because "Oregon's bonded indebtedness is one of the highest per capita in the nation," and by taking away private utility companies the tax burden of the rest of the state would be raised by $2,200,000, the amount now being paid by these companies and taxpayers in the power business. A similar measure was defeated by the voters in 1934.

Supreme Court Returns. SALEM, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Members of the state supreme court who have been at Pendleton for the past several days returned here last night. There were 11 cases on the eastern Oregon docket. Opinions in a number of these cases probably will be handed down within the next two weeks.

Why not Enjoy CONTINUOUS HOT WATER all the year 'round?

Do you enjoy the luxury of hot water all the day through and all the year 'round? Hot water whenever you need it? Without ever thinking of turning off heat, or the possibility of forgetting to turn it off again? Continuous hot water, when furnace fires are out? We say "luxury", but it's the wrong word. Continuous hot water is no longer a luxury, it's a necessity, and the cost of having it is no longer on the luxury level.

Unless you have looked into it, you will be surprised to learn how low the special heating rates and the modern heat conserving water heaters make the monthly cost of continuous hot water—much less than you had imagined. These modern heaters surround the actual water tank with a thick layer of insulation, so that the application of only a small amount of heat keeps the water piping hot for hours at a time, as in a Thermos bottle. The cost of the heater can be distributed over your monthly bills. Let us tell you the exact monthly cost of this continuous hot water in your home!
