FRESH PORK COST DIPS IN OCTOBER
CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Declines in wholesale fresh pork prices ranging from 20 to 25 percent and slight changes in wholesale quotations of most cured pork items were features of the livestock and meat trade in October, the Institute of American Meat Packers reported today.
 Increased marketing of hogs especially in lighter weights, influenced the price decline, the institute pointed out. Prices of most weights of hogs dropped 5 to 10 per cent.
 Wholesale beef prices registered slight declines early in the month but prices at the end of October were somewhat higher on highly finished grades than a month ago, but were somewhat lower on less finished grades.
 Production of all meat was estimated in 1936 to 20 per cent larger than in 1935, 1933.
