One Hundred Are Guests Thursday At Colorful Affair

Medford society donned calico and overalls Thursday evening in response to bids to a barn dance whose hosts were Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Briggs, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Harper, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Hathaway and Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Bolger.

The hundred guests entering the Knights of Pythias hall at the appointed hour found a decorated hall featured by an authentic atmosphere.

Halloween, harvest and rural motifs were combined by the hosts to create a colorful background for the affair.

A spotlighted floor piece presented a vignette of rural life marked off by a genuine rail fence. Similar pieces lined the walls, life-sized paper caricatures of barnyard animals goggled at the dancers and tall sheaves of corn and lighted pumpkins added accent to the scene. Special sound effects increased reality of the atmosphere.

The affair was one of the largest of the fall social seasons which is rapidly filling up the calendars of Medford residents, with numerous and varied events being planned for the next few months.

Guests danced to the music of Steve Whipple's orchestra and refreshments were particularly appropriate.

Playlet Presented By Valley Pupils At Studio Friday

In observance of the Halloween holiday, students of the Rogue River Valley school presented to a large audience Friday morning a playlet, "Halloween Scare," written by Susan Vilas, young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ned Vilas. The presentation was made in the school studio on Skak-you Heights. Miss Vilas is a pupil of the sixth grade at the school.

The miniature drama was directed by Miss Louise Foster, assisted by Miss Florence Mason. Musical accompaniment was by Ray Lewis.

The little play opened in a dark forest where ghosts, goblins and witches gathered to discuss Halloween activities. The meeting was presided over by an absent-minded Mr. Owl and his messenger Mr. Crow. The atmosphere was one of grim foreboding until the final curtain when a chorus of four quelled fears by singing a jolly, "Thora Canlett, Harriet Hart, Susan Vilas and Donaki Graves made up the chorus."

Scenery for the play was designed and constructed by the students as an art project under the supervision of Miss Foster. A large group of parents and friends attended the performance.
