

TURK MARKETING ADVICE IS ISSUED BY CHAMBER HERE

Care Is Urged In Selecting Selling Mediums — Ban To Be Asked On Inferior Produce Of Other States.

Velled warning to Rogue valley turkey raisers to be wary of their selling arrangements this year was issued yesterday by the Jackson County Chamber of Commerce. The warning recalled that last autumn several local farmers encountered difficulty in collecting from some out-of-state buyers after marketing had been completed.

The turkey marketing situation was brought before Friday's meeting of the board of directors by H. A. Thierolf, chairman of the chamber's poultry committee whose report contained advice and recommendations intended to guide turkey raisers. The report stated that the Oregon Turkey Cooperative was a strong organization that could be depended upon as a safe medium through which to market.

Responsibility Emphasized

Turkey producers not belonging to the cooperative were advised by the committee to deal only with substantial buyers capable of fulfilling their contracts and with buyers who transact their business as near the consumers as possible and to insist that prospective buyers reveal their financial responsibility. The report said that the committee did not believe a bond was always a sufficient guarantee of financial stability and asserted that it would be advantageous to the growers if the prospective buyers established credit at local banks.

In general the committee advised against consignment shipments. A quotation of this year's turkey prices was not expected until November 20, the report said, and growers were urged to be careful of making commitments until then.

Meeting Authorized

The chamber board authorized a meeting of the agricultural committee of the Jackson County, Lakeview, Klamath Falls, Ashland, Grants Pass, Roseburg and Marshfield chambers of commerce to take steps through the proper authorities for the prohibition of Oregon farmers by prohibiting the entrance of inferior produce from neighboring states. The meeting was set for Medford on December 7 by W. E. Morris, chairman of the inter-state relations committee.

the move against the entry into this state of inferior produce and its action was immediately given the support of the Portland chamber and other chambers of commerce throughout Oregon, it was recalled.

Ready For Dollar Days

C. D. Bean, chairman of the retail merchants committee, reported that everything was in readiness for the Dollar Days to be celebrated at all stores here next week-end. He said this would be the biggest selling event Medford has seen in years, asserting that 33 1-3 percent more business would be transacted this year than during last year's Dollar Days. The public, he declared, would be offered greater bargains next Thursday and Friday than ever before.

A new chamber program was inaugurated when the board authorized Olen Arnsperger, president, to appoint a junior activity committee to work in close cooperation with E. H. Hedrick, superintendent of city schools, and the school faculties for the encouragement of all physical and cultural activities. To the committee Mr. Arnsperger appointed W. A. Gates, J. Verne Shangle, Dr. Edwin R. Duro, Robert A. Duff and Harry McMath.

Disenfranchisement

Lieut. H. A. Stanley, chairman of the aviation and military affairs committee, announced that on November 20 a forum luncheon would be held here at which Dr. Raymond R. Staub of Portland would be the principal speaker. Dr. Staub is chairman of the state board of aeronautics and regional director of the National Air Defense League.

Business County Dump

At the request of many citizens the board discussed the feasibility of establishing a county dump and authorized Mr. Arnsperger to appoint a committee to consider the matter. The question was brought up, it was explained, because of the promiscuous dumping of rubbish, tin cans and garbage on private land in many parts of the county. The committee Mr. Arnsperger said, would be appointed later.

DISABLED VETERANS FORGET-ME-NOT SALE SET FOR NOV. 6, 7, 11

"Wear a forget-me-not," will be the plea of many volunteer workers on the streets and in the business houses here November 6, 7 and 11 when the annual forget-me-not flower sale of Jackson county chapter No. 8, Disabled American Veterans of the World war opens. It will be an urge for citizens who have not forgotten their wartime promises, to wear the daisy little boutonniere, the blue flower of remembrance. The campaign is being conducted by the local chapter under the chairmanship of Frank Holbrook, to raise funds to take care of the emergency relief problems among the war-time disabled and to aid the work of rehabilitation including maintaining full time rehabilitation officers to serve as a special advocate or attorney in fact for disabled veterans.

"The veterans organization is a congressionally chartered spokesman, of by and for the disabled ex-soldier," said Harvey Caseman, commander of the Jackson county chapter. Our purpose is to render a distinctive service to the war-time disabled comrades through the local chapter and the national organization. We take care of the immediate needs of the incapacitated veteran and his dependents and we try to put him on his feet once more, or render him and his family a service that may make of him a civic asset instead of a public liability by securing for him the relief he is entitled to through governmental compensation. We ask the general public to buy a flower on forget-me-not days and help a disabled veteran to help himself."

PLAN BIG PARADE ON ARMISTICE DAY

One of the finest patriotic parades in many years is looked for when the annual Armistice Day procession moves through the local business district Wednesday, November 11. Under the able direction of Col. W. H. Paine arrangements are rapidly rounding into final form and many organizations have already made plans for participation with not only marching bodies but for floats as well. Invitations have been extended to all patriotic orders, lodges, schools, service clubs, granges and community clubs as well as local business firms and a whole-hearted spirit of co-operation has been received by the Legion parade committee. Several outside communities in Jackson county are planning entries including Ashland, which will be represented by the Legion Klites drum corps and a large delegation of World War veterans.

Medford post No. 15 of the American Legion has just been presented with a new charter for Troop 7 of the Boy Scouts, the Legion sponsored troop which made such an excellent showing during the past year. The presentation was made at last week's Legion meeting by Scout Executive Irving Beesley, who gave the most interesting address in which he explained the many points of scouting to the large group of veterans present. Troop 7 made an outstanding record during the last season, according to the executive, who complimented highly the efforts of Scoutmaster R. J. Bills and Assistant Scoutmaster Robert Gale and the boys of the troop as well as the personnel of the Legion committee who have displayed

COUNTY DRAMATIC COMMITTEE PLAN

The county dramatics committee met at the home demonstration agent's office Friday to prepare rules for the Jackson County Rural Dramatics contest and to make preliminary plans for this project. This committee is composed of chairman, J. W. Fish, Gold Hill Grange; Henry Niedermeyer, Jacksonville Grange; and Ray Ward, of Phoenix Grange. Mrs. O. C. Maust, county project leader in recreation and Mrs. Mabel C. Mack, home demonstration agent.

The rural dramatics contest is open to any rural community groups who are interested in producing a play, provided the director attends the dramatics training institute which is to be held at the Central Point Grange hall each evening at 8:00 p. m. from November 2nd to 4th, inclusive. The dramatics committee announces the following plans: The plays to be entered in the contest shall be selected from the list of plays prepared by the Oregon State College Extension service. The entries in the contest must be made by November 15, and the plays must be presented for a preliminary judging in their respective communities between the dates of January 20 and February 1. The presentation of the three highest scoring plays selected in the preliminaries will be judged in the finals which will be held approximately February 4.

The highest scoring play in the county will be awarded a trip to Oregon State college, with expenses paid, where the play will be presented in the state-wide dramatics festival during the Annual Home Interests conference Feb. 9-12, 1937.

BOY SCOUT TROOP GETS NEW CHARTER

Medford post No. 15 of the American Legion has just been presented with a new charter for Troop 7 of the Boy Scouts, the Legion sponsored troop which made such an excellent showing during the past year. The presentation was made at last week's Legion meeting by Scout Executive Irving Beesley, who gave the most interesting address in which he explained the many points of scouting to the large group of veterans present. Troop 7 made an outstanding record during the last season, according to the executive, who complimented highly the efforts of Scoutmaster R. J. Bills and Assistant Scoutmaster Robert Gale and the boys of the troop as well as the personnel of the Legion committee who have displayed such keen interest in the welfare of the troop. Among the accomplishments of Troop 7 during the year was recorded the fact that three patrols entered in the 1936 Scout Jamboree, two patrols made such a fine record that they were sent to the state camp at Salem, where they appeared with 100 per cent attendance. At the recent summer camp at Lake of the Woods, Troop 7 had the best attendance of any troop in the Crater Lake council. Another item of interest given by Mr. Beesley stated that in re-registering for the coming year, the boys signed up again 100 per cent.

In conclusion, Scout Executive Beesley presented membership cards for the following members of the Legion Boy Scout committee: Cole Holmes, chairman; Earl Foy, A. P. Butler, Captain Oliver Overmyer and O. B. Morrow, Scoutmaster; R. J. Bills was also called upon and told of the fine co-operation he had received from members of the Legion committee in making the troop a success. Post Commander Fieleg thanked Scoutmaster Bills and the members of the committee for their effort and assured them all possible help and co-operation from Medford post in the ensuing year.

WILD SHOTS HIT WEST SIDE HOME

State police yesterday were investigating promiscuous shooting on the west side of town. It was thought that possibly a boy had been doing some wild shooting without realizing the danger.

Police action was prompted by a report from Mrs. J. D. Bowdish, of 1260 Sunset avenue, who stated that Friday morning a bullet crashed through an upstairs bedroom of her home. The bullet cracked the window and struck a bureau.

Mrs. Bowdish's daughter, Miss Alice Ward, high school senior, was in the room at the time but was not struck. Police said the bullet was fired from a .22 calibre rifle.

Mrs. Clarence Hunt, who resides across the street, said that about a week ago while she was out in the yard a bullet whizzed through the air and nosed into the ground close to where she was standing.

Junior high students are urged to attend. The carnival will open with a stage program including acrobatic dancing and short numbers. Following this the concessions will be opened with many games, hot dogs, candy and other stands for the pleasure of those attending.
