

McNARY VICTORY BOLSTERS HOPES OF OREGON G.O.P.

Both Parties Find Cause for Comfort in Tuesday Ballot — Priaulx Bemoans Defeat of Cong. Ekwall

PORTLAND, Nov. 4.—(AP)—There was reason for jubilation today for both Republicans and Democrats as political leaders of Oregon surveyed the results of the general election.

Happiest, perhaps, were the Democrats who witnessed Oregon's march to the Roosevelt landslide. Republicans, however, found encouragement in Senator Charles L. McNary's victory over Democratic Willis Mahoney and the success of other candidates on the state ticket.

Senator McNary, Republican floor leader, listened to the returns in downtown Salem and then left for his nearby ranch home with Mrs. McNary. He said he had no statement to make.

"No matter how the election turns out, you will find me working among the trees on my ranch," he said.

Mrs. Honeyman, Oregon's first woman congressman, Mrs. Nan Wood Honeyman, Democrat who defeated Congressman William A. Ekwall, Rep., said "I am proud to have been elected your congressman and that is what I intend to be—your congressman."

Governor Charles Martin at Salem said he was not surprised at the Roosevelt victory but added: "The state is actually unprepared for the landslide which sent President Roosevelt back to the White House. So far as Oregon is concerned, I was never in doubt. That is all I can say."

"We Democrats are very grateful to the members of our own party and to the Republicans who joined with us in returning President Roosevelt to the White House by such a tremendous margin," said C. McCulloch of Klamath Falls, state Democratic chairman.

Monsie Ekwall Defeat
Arthur Priaulx of Clatsop county, state Republican chairman, expressed pleasure over the retention of Republicans in major state offices. This, he said, was an expression of "faith and confidence in our party."

"A landslide such as this carries some penalties, one is loss of a capable lawmaker such as Representative Ekwall. It appears as though Attorney General Van Winkle, State Treasurer Rufus Holman and Representative James W. Mott came safely through the withering barrage of votes which claimed many Republican state and county candidates."

Unwilling to admit defeat as Mrs. Nan Wood Honeyman, the first woman to represent Oregon in the national house of representatives, pled up an early lead, Congressman William A. Ekwall, Rep., third district, finally conceded his reversal as late returns became conclusive.

Accepts Decision
He said: "Heretofore the voters of Portland and Multnomah county have been generous to me, possibly far beyond what I may have deserved, and I accept their decision now in the same spirit that I have received those of the past where I have been victorious."

Ekwall, former circuit judge, said he would return to the status of a private citizen, and would assist Mrs. Honeyman "in every way possible."

Howard Latourette, Democratic national committeeman for Oregon, issued a statement thanking the voters of Oregon for supporting the president.

"The voters will find they have chosen well," he said.

In the Modern Manner

This house was built in the District of Columbia for $6,600. The lot cost $1,400, bringing the total cost to $8,000. The property was financed with a mortgage for $6,000 insured by the Federal Housing Administration. Monthly payments amount to $45.16.

A modern design is achieved by corner windows, severe roof line, and plain wall surfaces. The rooms are arranged in logical relationship, and thought has been given to the best location for each.

The well-proportioned living room opens on a screened porch and is entered from the stair hall, which leads from the front door to the kitchen. The corner windows of the dining room offer a continuous view of woods or garden. The laundry is intelligently located in relation to the kitchen and provides service access from outside. The garage is sensibly and economically included in the body of the house.

On the second floor there are two good bedrooms, each with two exposures, and easy access to a large open deck. A storeroom provides the always-needed space for trunks and other necessary encumbrances.

Women Who Hold Their Men Never Let Them Know

NO matter how much your back aches and your nerves scream, your husband, because he is only a man, can never understand why you are so hard to live with one week in every month. Too often the honeymoon euphoria is wrecked by the nagging concern of a three-quarter wife. The wise woman never lets her husband know by outward sign that she is a victim of periodic pain. For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three crises of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age." Don't be a three-quarter wife, take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and go "smiling through."
