

WASHINGTON ADDS 2 TO 1 MARGIN TO ROOSEVELT SWEEP

Solid Democratic Delegation
Named for Congress —
All New Issues Submitted to Voters Snowed Under

SEATTLE, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Repeating the landslide of 1932, Washington, once a solidly Republican state, gave President Roosevelt a plurality of more than two to one over Gov. Alf M. Landon, reelected all Democratic state officials and apparently had returned a solid Democratic delegation to congress. Minor parties polled only a negligible number of votes.

In addition, the voters showed conservative tendencies by rejecting all departures from established policy by defeating new issues submitted to them in the form of initiatives, referendums and amendments to the state constitution.

The only direct legislation passed was the re-enactment of the 40-mill limit tax bill, which restricts tax levies for state, county and city purposes. Re-enactment of the measure, already on the statute books, prevents amendment by the state legislature for two years.

Propositions rejected by the voters included a proposed state civil service law, a production for use measure, a substitute old age pension law and a state income tax amendment.

In the bitterly contested gubernatorial race, Gov. Clarence D. Martin, Democratic incumbent, defeated former Governor Roland H. Hartley more than two to one in returns from nearly half the state's 2881 precincts.

For the six congressional seats, the race was close only in the fourth district, and there the Democratic incumbent, Knute Hill, was leading former Congressman John W. Summers, Republican.

DRAMATIC SCHOOL FOR RECREATION LEADERS TONIGHT

The county dramatics training school for recreation and dramatics leaders of Jackson county will be held this evening in the courthouse auditorium in Medford commencing at 7:00 p. m. Mrs. Mabel C. Mack, home demonstration agent, announced today.

The instruction for this school is given by Mrs. Hazel Neen Loomis of Portland who is assisting the extension specialist in the dramatics project. The purpose of this school is to give assistance to community leaders, play directors, and actors in the various phases of play production. Mrs. Loomis is conducting these dramatic institutes in a number of counties in the state who are co-operating with the extension service in the dramatics project.

The institute was held on Monday and Tuesday evenings at the Central Point grange hall and will continue for Wednesday and Thursday evenings, November 4 and 5, at the courthouse auditorium.

At 7:00 o'clock this evening a demonstration on stage make-up will be given by Mrs. Loomis featuring old age make-up. This will be followed by a stage rehearsal of a one-act play, including blocking out action, reading of lines, and voice training. The program for the school also includes selections of plays and making of screenlets. Any organization desiring assistance in planning stage scenery is asked to call the home demonstration agent's office for appointment with Mrs. Loomis.

Fifteen communities have been represented in the attendance at the first two sessions of the school. Any community interested in producing plays during the year or in entering the county-wide dramatics contest, which will start this month, is urged to send representatives to this school.

After hearing of Williams S.L.K. Formula I decided to try it, and after taking only one bottle I can truthfully say that I have never felt better in my life. I now eat anything I want without fear of distress, go to bed at night knowing that my rest will not be broken fit for a good day's work. My complexion has cleared up also. I can certainly recommend Williams S.L.K. to anyone suffering as I was."

MAINE, VERMONT REFUSE TO JOIN BOURBON MARCH

Senator McNary of Oregon, the Republican leader, was having a fight, and the veterans Hastings of Delaware and Metcalf of Rhode Island were beaten.

More Democratic members instead of fewer seemed in prospect. In many states the issue was in doubt, however. The veteran representative, Florence P. Kahn of California was beaten.

Of the governorships at stake, the Democrats had captured 12 were leading for 14 others; the Republicans took two, were leading for three more.

Landon Congratulates. While the president, smiling happily, received the plaudits of supporters at Hyde Park, a telegram sped to him from the defeated governor of Kansas:

"The nation has spoken," Landon wired from Topeka. "Every American will accept the verdict, and work for the common cause of the good of our country. That is the spirit of democracy. You have my sincere congratulations."

After spending seven hours in receiving election returns—interrupted once to tell celebrating neighbors that it looked like "one of the largest sweeps" in history, Mr. Roosevelt received the Landon message and replied that "all of us Americans will now work together for the common good."

The returns sank the Landon campaign in an ocean of ballots and sent the Kansan's fortunes spinning down to the lowest depths reached by any major party in long generations.

Lemke Vote Tiny. The third party threat of Rep. William Lemke, Union party standard bearer, faded completely out of the picture from the time the earliest returns trickled in. His vote proved comparatively negligible and he fell leagues short of carrying any state.

Lemke, backed by Dr. F. E. Townsend and others, had predicted in advance that the election would be thrown into the house of representatives because he would garner enough electoral votes to prevent either of the major party nominees from collecting a majority.

The arduous fight which such anti-New Deal Democrats as Alfred E. Smith, John W. Davis, James A. Reed and Bainbridge Colby put up against the Roosevelt tide proved unavailing. Nor did the efforts of Charles E.

Coughlin, one of the most vehement critics of New Deal policy, stay the victory march.

Greeted by Neighbors.

Happy scenes were enacted at Hyde Park, N. Y., where President Roosevelt sat at an oval table in the old manor and checked the returns with a pencil. Around 11 o'clock last night, a jubilant procession of torch-bearing neighbors with a band playing "Happy Days Are Here Again," called him out on the front porch.

Smiling, he said he couldn't make any "official remarks" but that it looked to him like "one of the largest sweeps ever heard of in the history of the United States."

Clad in a blue pin stripe suit he stood in the flickering glare and told the cheering group:

"I hope, in the next four years, with the worst part of the emergency over, I'll be able to spend a little more time in Hyde Park."

Though Mr. Roosevelt was slow to comment officially, cries of jubilation were heard from other party leaders, from cabinet officials and from such strong New Deal supporters as John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers.

Vote Pleases Farley. Democratic Chairman James A. Farley early pointed to the mounting Roosevelt lead as "an overwhelming vote of confidence." He said it was "not a partisan triumph" and that "nobody on our side of the fence has any thought of reprisal or repression."

"The president, Farley said, feels no 'bitterness,' even toward those 'who so grossly assailed him.'"

If the returns felt like a solar plexus blow to Governor Landon, he took it with a grin. Joking, he was host to friends at a coffee and doughnut supper in Topeka. Previously he had taken a brief nap before the flood tide of the ballots began.

When reporters gathered round him, he glibly at them for "fattening up on our good Kansas ration," during the months that Topeka has been a center of news activity.

Victory Cake Uncut. Photographers asked him to pose against a huge sunflower. Merrily he called to his wife: "Then, better have our picture taken while we've got a chance."

A "Landon victory cake" with red, white and blue frosting stood uncut on the Landon sideboard.

Landon's running mate, Col. Frank Knox, whose 24,000-mile tour and countless speeches constituted one of
