

LOS ANGELES RESUMES TRANSIENTS' BLOCKADE

The Los Angeles police department established its blockade against unemployed transients for another season. Here are Sergeant Earl F. Heintzelman of the Los Angeles police and Chief J. A. Miller of Colton police checking the destinations of young travelers at Colton, Calif., 50 miles from Los Angeles. (Associated Press Photo)

WASHINGTON ATHLETIC STARS WED

Olive McKean, member of the American Olympic swimmer's team, and Charles Mucha, former All-Coast guard on the University of Washington eleven, were married at Seattle. They are shown here after the ceremony. (Associated Press Photo)

AMELIA EARHART VISITS RECUPERATING HOWARDS

Amelia Earhart Putnam (left) famed woman flier, paid a visit to Mr. and Mrs. Ben Howard at the Chicago hospital where they were recuperating from critical injuries suffered when their plane crashed in the transcontinental Bendix trophy race. (Associated Press Photo)

NEW HAIR STYLES FEATURE CURLS

The dictators of hair styles for millady have decreed curls—the more the merrier—for the coming season, and here are New York mannequins showing some of the uses to which curls have been put. The coiffures shown at left feature "banks" of curls. Upper right, a modern version of the empress pompadour effect. Lower right, one version of the new "coronation" hairdress. (Associated Press Photos)

'If You Whip Men, Whip Women, Too'

Miss Reah M. Whitehead (above), Seattle justice of the peace, advocated whipping posts for women, too, with women whip wielders if the Washington state legislature approves a state bar committee recommendation for whipping posts for male offenders. "I'm against any whipping," she said, "but women's skins are no tenderer than men's." (Associated Press Photo)

Making his first airplane flight, Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli, papal secretary of state, is pictured just before leaving New York on a tour of five American cities. Kneeling to kiss his ring is Mrs. Nicholas Brady, papal duchess. (Associated Press Photo)

Kidnaped By Slayer

J. Levon Neil (above), 26-year-old Ogden, Utah, taxi driver, told officials he had been forced to drive Luther Jones, ex-convict, from Utah to Carlin, Nev., shortly before the holdup killing of four men at Elko, Nev., which was assertedly confessed by Jones. (Associated Press Photo)

F. D. R. OPENS RED CROSS DRIVE

The annual Red Cross roll call was started for 1936 at the White House when Miss Hebe Reynolds enrolled President Roosevelt as the first member. Admiral Cary T. Brayson (left), chairman of the Red Cross, looks on. (Associated Press Photo)

HOLD SPOTLIGHT IN CRISIS

King Leopold (left) of Belgium and Lord Plymouth (right) of England took prominent roles as Europe's affairs reached a new crisis. Lord Plymouth, chairman of the committee to control non-intervention in the Spanish Civil War, was handed strongly worded Russian demands for a virtual blockade of Portuguese ports. King Leopold announced reversal to Belgium's pre-war policy of isolation and neutrality. (Associated Press Photos)

This picture of Mrs. Wallis Simpson, friend of King Edward VIII of England, showing her in a sports costume of the day, was made in 1927 at Coronado, Calif., while she was married to her first husband, Commander E. W. Spencer of the U. S. navy. (Associated Press Photo)

SPRINT CHAMPION A FATHER

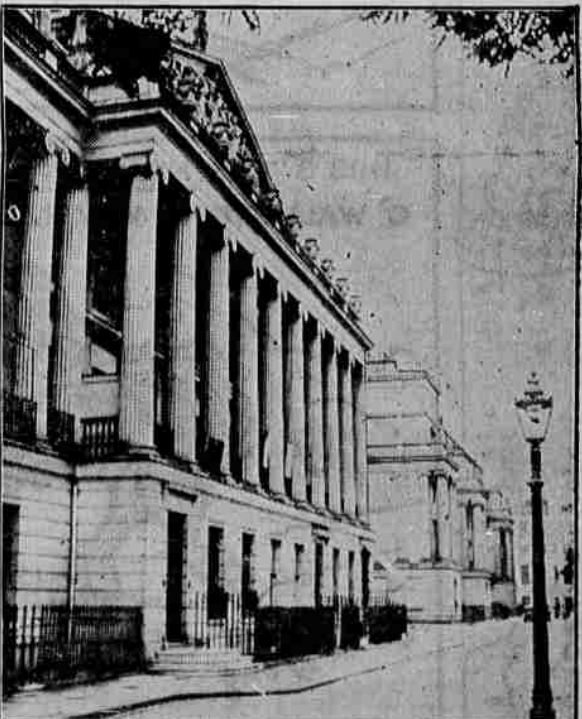

Frank Wykoff, three times a member of the American Olympic team as a sprinter, is shown as he got his first look at his daughter, Marjorie Louise, born to his wife at Los Angeles. The nurse holding the infant up for his inspection is Miss Florence Young. Wykoff now is head of a grammar school at Carpinteria, Calif. (Associated Press Photo)

Linked With Envoy

Published reports at Washington said Mrs. Frances W. Bunker (above), prominent in Denver and Washington society, might wed Augusto Rosso, former Italian ambassador to the United States who is now Italian representative at Moscow. Mrs. Bunker termed the report an "unconfirmed rumor." They were frequently together in Colorado during the summer. (Associated Press Photo)

NEW HOME OF KING'S FRIEND

Here is the new home of Mrs. Wallis Simpson, vivacious American-born friend of King Edward of England, at No. 16 Cumberland Terrace, London, within a ten-minute drive of Buckingham Palace. She moved into her new flat while her husband, whom she sued for divorce, took up residence at the exclusive Guards Club. (Associated Press Photo)

MOLLISON WINGS HIS WAY TOWARD EUROPE

Here is the low-wing, single-cockpit plane of Capt. James Mollison as it left New York on a one-stop flight to London. The plane has a sliding hood to convert it into a closed type. Mollison intended to navigate only with a gyroscope compass and artificial horizon. (Associated Press Photos)

CELEBRATE FIRST ANNIVERSARY

Though they wouldn't disclose the date, Joan Crawford and Franchot Tone of the movies, shown here dining together at their Hollywood home, have celebrated the first anniversary of their marriage. "We ate a wedding cake, ran a picture in our projection room and sat there holding hands," said Miss Crawford. (Associated Press Photo)

Denies Beating

Mrs. Charles Poole, shown as she appeared at the commencement of the trial at Detroit of 12 Black Legion members for shooting her husband to death May 13, said she would refute the "ridiculous lie" that Poole was killed for beating her. (Associated Press Photo)

MOVING DAY FOR MRS. SIMPSON

Movers are shown in this radiophoto from London removing the furniture of Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson, friend of King Edward VIII, from her apartment in Bryanston Court to her new residence on Cumberland Terrace. She has separated from her husband and filed a suit for divorce. (Associated Press Photo)