

SOCIETY and CLUBS

By Janet Wray Smith

Business Women Will Be Guests

Klamath Falls will be hostess to Business and Professional Women's clubs of southern Oregon for a district conference this week-end and a large number are expected to attend from the numerous clubs in the section.

Between fifteen and twenty members of the Medford group are planning to attend. The majority will go over Saturday afternoon in order to be present for the evening entertainment.

Sunday's program includes a conference breakfast and dinner at noon, with numerous features being arranged for the day's program. Mrs. Mabel Mack, local president, urges that as many members as can attend as important business will come before the group and a varied entertainment program is to be presented by the hostess group.

Winter Season to Continue Active

A winter social season that made an auspicious start gives indications of continuing along active lines as hostesses plan varied entertainments for the coming week.

The Armistice holiday affairs, preceding and following, make this week a busy one with not much time between activities. Large affairs were few but well attended and many smaller ones were arranged.

Thanking provides an imminent excuse for more entertaining, with a slight lull expected before the always-busy Christmas holidays.

Several Expected Home from East

A number of Medford people traveling in the east are expected to arrive home sometime this month, most of them in time for the Thanksgiving holidays.

ADMIRAL HAMLET WITHDRAWS FROM MARITIME PROBE

Negotiations for Peace in West Coast Strike Remain Indecisive — New Parley Called in San Francisco

(By the Associated Press) Withdrawal of Rear Admiral Harry G. Hamlet as head of a fact-finding commission of the maritime commission was announced at Washington today while negotiations on the Pacific coast for settlement of the 14-day maritime strike remained indecisive.

Rear Admiral H. A. Wiley, chairman of the maritime commission, said his organization would expand its investigation of west coast labor conditions, to include the east and Gulf coasts. Admiral Hamlet will leave San Francisco Sunday to discuss with the committee chairman the possibility of coordinating inquiries into ship labor conditions into one board investigation.

Federal participation in strike negotiations at San Francisco will be left, meanwhile, in the hands of labor department representatives, headed by Edward F. McGrady, assistant labor secretary.

McGrady called a meeting today with the coast committee for shipowners of the bay city. He said he would attempt at the meeting to set the time and place for resumption of negotiations between the shipowners and the union.

McGrady maintained confidence the strike could be settled "quickly" despite temporary failure of efforts to bring employers and union leaders together in a resumption of negotiations on fundamental issues of the dispute.

Seattle and Olympia waterfronts were active today under a 48-hour truce called to permit teamsters to remove "fair" cargo unloaded before the strike was called. The truce ends at 8 a. m. tomorrow.

Figures for measurements of recruits in Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Holland, Switzerland and Italy over a period of years all show an increase in weight also.

Even in Japan measurements on students record increases of growth, while it is recalled that in the United States there has been a slight increase in growth during the last 80 years.

"In general, however," it is stated, "the bodily build of both sexes has tended to become slimmer, especially for women in the region of the hips, an observation also made in Germany."

This change is attributed primarily to environmental influences, including general improvements in hygiene.

RACES OF WORLD GROWING TALLER, STUDY DISCLOSES

LONDON—(UP)—The human race is growing taller.

That conclusion has been reached after a study of human growth over a number of years, details of which are given in the "British Medical Journal."

Children of today, according to the experience of many countries, it is said, compare favorably with children the same ages before the war; and a tendency to increase of growth long has been observed.

BARE BACKS, LEGS EVIL TEMPTATION WARNS GUARDIAN

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 12.—(UP)—Mrs. Ruth May Fox at the threshold of 83 says she's no prude—but she can't abide bare backs and bare legs for girls.

As "guardian" of nearly 70,000 young women, she said, she considers such immodesty "one of the greatest temptations for evil."

Mrs. Fox, who crossed the plains by ox team when she was 12, is president of the Young Women's Mutual Improvement association, a Latter Day Saints church group of 69,000 members. She will celebrate her eighty-third birthday Monday.

"I do not think the young men care to see girls wearing backless dresses either," asserted the gray-haired mother of 12 children, 10 of whom are still living.

"And, though I don't want to seem prudish, I think girls should refrain also from beer-drinking and smoking."

"Smoking particularly is a filthy habit. If it were just a passing fancy . . . but once young women indulge themselves they become addicted to the habit."

Mrs. Fox admitted that girls today are stronger-willed than they used to be—"when they want something they want it." But she quickly denied she believed the younger generation as going to the dogs.

"I think we have the finest lot of young people today the world ever knew," she insisted.

COUNCIL TREES IN INDIAN LORE URGED AS PARK

CHARLEVOIX, Mich.—(AP)—Charlevoix county has appointed five of its citizens to investigate ways and means of obtaining a 30-acre plot of ground near Greenvy hill where an Indian mission and a circle of council trees are located.

The ground believed to be one of the most historical spots in the state, will be used for a park, providing efforts of the county and its five-man committee are successful. Such a park, committee members say, will provide one of the most interesting spots the state will be able to offer to its tourist trade.

The mission was completed by the Indians in 1861. It was constructed from pine cut from the fields near Northport. Its windows and doors were transported from Traverse City. Indians from all over the Grand Traverse Region, used the mission, where at the time Peter Greensky, a Methodist minister, preached.

Just how old the council trees are, records of Charlevoix county fail to show, but popular belief is that they were planted as an agreement of peace between two tribes of Indians.
