

HARPO MARX SECRETLY WED

Harpo Marx, the silent member of that mad Marx brothers team of the screen, and Susan Fleming, film actress, smilingly announced at Hollywood that they had been secretly married two months ago. But Harpo said he couldn't recall just where it was the ceremony took place. (Associated Press Photo)

SHIPPING OFFICIALS DOCK BOAT IN STRIKE

With shoreside workers on strike in the Pacific Coast marine walkout, Capt. William E. Carley (left) and W. Harold Hoskier, coast and Los Angeles managers, respectively, for the Panama-Pacific line, had to go to work to raise the gangway to the liner California when it docked at Los Angeles with 266 passengers aboard. They also helped moor the ship. (Associated Press Photo)

Wins Zioncheck Seat

Warren G. Magnuson, Seattle county prosecutor, was swept by the tide of Democratic votes into the congressional seat held by his friend, the late Marion A. Zioncheck, whose fatal leap ended his turbulent political career. Magnuson is pictured with a broad smile after learning of his election. (Associated Press Photo)

'SLAYING VICTIM' FOUND ALIVE

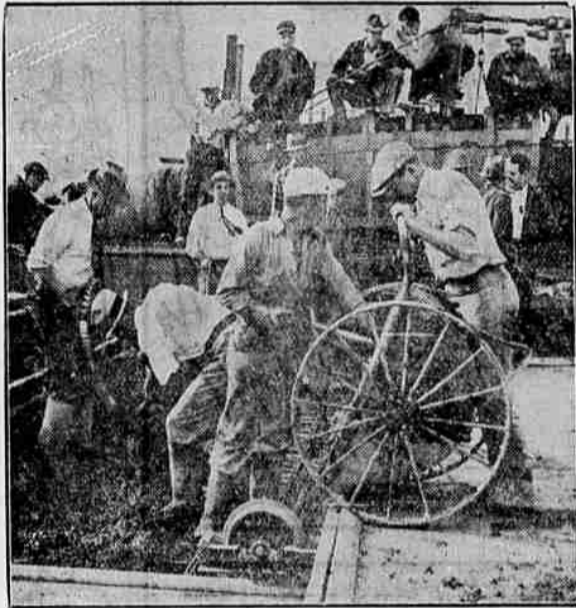

A veteran's bonus application brought back Jesse Owen Gifford from five years of official death. Gifford, 41, disappeared from his home in Tennessee eight years ago, and three years later a former friend was tried but acquitted of his slaying after a body found in the Tennessee river had been identified as Gifford's. Gifford, who had resided in Susanville, Calif., for some time under an assumed name, is pictured here as he waited at Reno for a brother from Tennessee. (Associated Press Photo)

THE DAY AFTER THE BLIZZARD OF VOTES

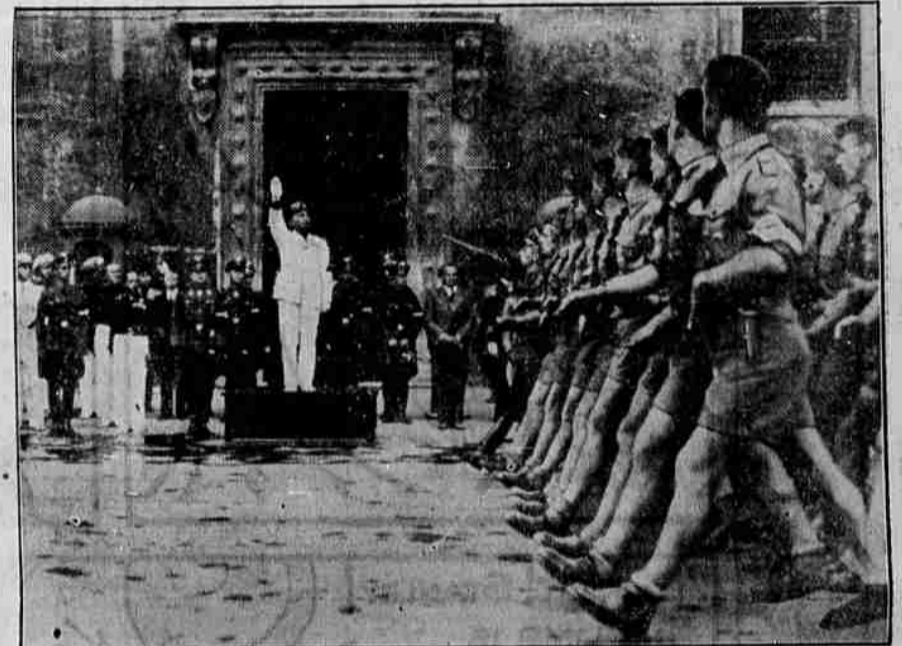

These two pictures of President Roosevelt were made at his Hyde Park, N. Y., home the day following his record-breaking landslide to re-election. Left: A laughing Roosevelt with his newest granddaughter, Kate Roosevelt, 8-months-old daughter of James Roosevelt, whose christening that day made her the most important member of the household. Right: A pause for refreshment—a glass of milk—between reading congratulatory messages and meeting with newsmen. (Associated Press Photos)

BAY BRIDGE PAVING COMPLETED

This picture shows the pouring of the last concrete for the paving of the $77,000,000 San Francisco-Oakland bay bridge, which will be opened to automobile traffic November 12. With this concrete the great, over-water link between the two California cities, was complete. (Associated Press Photo)

ITALY'S MUSSOLINI REVIEWS NAZI YOUTHS

Clad in white, Premier Mussolini of Italy lifts his hand in the Fascist salute as he reviews a group of German Nazi youths who visited Rome. (Associated Press Photo)

Smallest Baby Grows

Called "the world's smallest baby" at birth Jan. 14, Jacqueline Benson, shown with her mother, Mrs. Lester Benson, of Chicago, now weighs 12 pounds, 2 ounces. At birth she weighed only 12 ounces. (Associated Press Photo)

STRIKERS 'CAPTURE' UNION OFFICE

When officers of the International Seamen's Union in New York opened an office to "take recruits" to help thwart the strike of the seamen's defense committee in sympathy with the Pacific Coast waterfront walkout, these strikers balked the move by "capturing" the office and filling it so no applicants could squeeze in. (Associated Press Photo)

OREGON CHOOSES A WOMAN

Mrs. Nanny Wood Honeyman of Portland was chosen the first woman congressional representative from Oregon when she defeated the Republican incumbent, William Ekwall. With Mrs. Honeyman here in the drawing room of her home after her election is her youngest daughter, Judith, 20, a college student, who will accompany her mother to the national capital. (Associated Press Photo)

WORLD SERIES HERO TURNS TO GOLF

Golf is the leading item on the program of Tony Lazzeri, one of the New York Yankees' biggest World Series heroes, since he returned to his Millbrae, Calif., home after the baseball wars. Instead of hitting a homer with the bases loaded to tie a series record, it's a question of sinking that crucial putt. And here's Tony getting the right line. (Associated Press Photo)

POLICE BUILD SHELTER FOR HARBOR STRIKE DUTY

Los Angeles police on duty in the Pacific Coast maritime strike are shown by a shelter built between railroad and interurban lines running to Terminal Island at the harbor at Wilmington, Calif. Some 400 policemen were assigned to port service during the emergency. (Associated Press Photo)

HUSKY CREW COACH WEDS

Tom Bolles, freshman crew coach at the University of Washington, and Miss Catherine Hope of New York were married at Washington, D. C. Bolles refused comment at the time on a report he had been selected head crew coach at Harvard. (Associated Press Photo)

HOMELESS CHILDREN BROUGHT TO MADRID

Too tiny to realize what it is all about, these children were brought to Madrid by their mothers from nearby territory since occupied by Fascist troops in their drive upon the Spanish capital. A difficult problem of providing food and shelter for thousands of refugees faced the government. (Associated Press Photo)