DRUM CORP FUND TO EUGENE SHORT

The fund that is being raised to send the Medford high school girls' drum, rifle and bugle corps, and the school band, to Eugene for the Thanksgiving Day football game between Medford and Eugene, high schools is still short, about $75, it was announced yesterday and there was some fear that the smartly-deploying bugle corps might not get to attend. Funds already collected practically assured the trip for the band.

School officials, football fans and businessmen seemed agreed that the girls' drum corps is one of the smartest, best trained and most colorful organizations that Medford has produced in years, and a concerted effort will be made to raise the necessary funds. Contributions may be left at the chamber of commerce and any amount will be appreciated, those in charge of the money raising campaign stated.

Supt. E. H. Hedrick said yesterday that he believed the corps was one of the smartest and smartest looking girls' organizations in the state, and expressed the hope that it would be able to go to Eugene. The presence of the unit would add much to the pageantry of the game, and establish Medford as a progressive high school, he said.

The corps was organized last spring, and has spent much time in drilling for this year's program. At each game the girls have lived the holiday atmosphere by putting on well executed drills on the field before the game, and have participated in all noise parades, school rallies and in the Armistice Day parade held through the downtown sector.

SOUTHERN OREGON EXHIBIT CLOSSES

The fourth art exhibit sponsored by the S. O. A. closed last evening and was voted to be the best exhibit the society has shown here. The entries of the students of the S. O. A. school and the works of local artists were highly appreciated by visitors. Much interest was shown in the imported etchings, particularly by those who are familiar with the American artists represented in the group of American etchings.

Nearly all visitors spent much time in the corner occupied by the works sent from Portland by the Society of Oregon Artists, many people returning several times to see them again. The S. O. A. wishes to thank the people of Medford and vicinity for their interest in this exhibit and for their many kind words of praise for the work of the organization. Several people have expressed the desire to become members at this time to further the cause of art and have a part in bringing exhibits of prominent artists to Medford. It is hoped that many more will place their membership immediately and be charter members of the new southern Oregon chapter of the National Federation of American Arts being formed by the S. O. A.

JEROME EXHIBITS NEW GOLF STYLE IN P.T.A. TOURNNEY

For years E. O. "Jerry" Jerome has played only mediocre golf. He has, in the past, crippled along with fairly good high-ninety playing, occasionally breaking into the low nineties and on rarer occasions into the high eighties, but those were balanced by his over-a-hundred cards.

His handicap is 24, a handicap that was given him after a careful study of his past record. A handicap of 24, of course, means that to get a par of 70 in his game he has to turn in a 94, unusual for him. That handicap will be revised.

For, entered in the P.A.T. annual fall tournament at the Rogue Valley course now under way, Jerome blazed around the fairways with soaring drives, deft approach shots, and deadly putting to turn in a gross 84 on his first round. On the next 18, played later in the week, he almost repeated the performance, making impossible chip and approach shots, and came proudly back to the club house with a gross 85 card.

Not satisfied with that he went out on his third round and again played unbelievable golf to card a gross 88, and last Sunday he electrified the handicap committee, the others in the tournament, and himself by shooting another 88, for a total of 345 gross. With his 24 handicap that gave him a net 249, or 31 under par, which is 280!

Jerome never played golf like that before in his life. But he played it on those four rounds and it looks as though he has the tournament in the bag, with most of the participants still having their second, third and fourth rounds to play. Many of them are casting dirty looks at the members of the handicap committee this week.

Scores turned in for the tournament so far are given. The number is the gross score, with their handicaps to be deducted:

W. F. Biddle, 91, 96, 90; E. G. Bardwell, 103, 98; C. S. Newhall, 92, 90, 91; Gain Robinson, 107, 107, 100; Tod Porter, 76; H. L. Hathaway, 77, 77; Harold Ravizza, 78, 79; Harold Johnson, 77, 77; Harry McMahon, 87, 87; A. E. Orr, 83; Gene Orr, 82; H. B. Kalum, 87, 82; Arthur Laing, 95, 100, 97; Hobart Price, 88.

MAYOR AND HIS GRANDSON ENJOY JAUNT IN PLANE

Medford's air-minded Mayor George W. Porter was more air-minded than ever yesterday following his first trip aloft in the sky lanes. Flying, the mayor declared, is a "wonderful way to travel."

Mayor Porter was taken up for his initial jaunt Friday afternoon by Col. Earl Popp, regional director of the bureau of air commerce in charge of airports in the northwest. The hop, which took the mayor over the city and Rogue valley, was made in a department of commerce Stinson four-place cabin plane.

"It was all very thrilling and I never had a moment of uneasiness," Mayor Porter commented. "It's a great way to travel, and I'm all for it."

In fact Mayor Porter was so favorably impressed that Col. Popp took him up again yesterday morning. With him went his son Jack and the latter's five-year-old son George.

"It was George's first time up and he was thrilled," Mayor Porter exclaimed. "He'll be the cock of the walk around his neighborhood for some time to come."

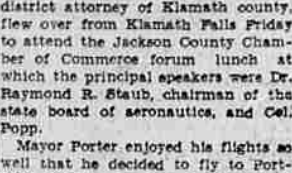

Others taken for hops over the valley by Col. Popp included Fred Heath, Jr., A. H. Banwell, E. C. Jerome and Lieut. H. A. Stanley.

Several in the group were also flown over the valley by William Crandall who was at municipal airport in Dr. Paul Sharp's Waco plane. Dr. Sharp, member of the state board of aeronautics, and Hardin Blackmer, district attorney of Klamath county, flew over from Klamath Falls Friday to attend the Jackson County Chamber of Commerce forum lunch at which the principal speakers were Dr. Raymond E. Staub, chairman of the state board of aeronautics, and Col. Popp.

Mayor Porter enjoyed his flights so well that he decided to fly to Portland for the two-day conference of the Northwest Aviation Planning council December 4 and 6. He booked passage on a United airliner.
