

COUNTY PROJECTS IN DEVELOPMENT LIST SUBMITTED

National Resources Committee Favors Future Funding of Canal Lining, Diversion Dam, Sewer System

WASHINGTON, April 13.—(AP)—The national resources committee, recommending orderly plan of investigation and construction, placed a $50,000,000 Pacific northwest development program before President Roosevelt today.

The suggestions included 190 general and local projects over a long-term period. There was no recommendation of a particular rate of public expenditure.

Emphasizing that the listing of projects having local interests does not mean that federal funds should be used for their construction, Chairman Abel W. Mann of the investigation committee said: "The listing means only that the project is believed to fit into an integrated drainage basin program."

The committee approved 113 projects in Oregon, Washington and Idaho requiring $18,984,000 to construct or complete. The projects should be immediately investigated or undertaken, it said.

The Oregon coast project list included:

For immediate investigation or construction—irrigation survey, $25,000; river utilization survey, $50,000; municipal water supply investigations, $80,000; stream pollution surveys, $10,000; fisheries survey of spawning areas, $30,000; classification of irrigable lands, $13,000; establishment of sill gaging stations, $169,000; Roseburg, Ore., sewage treatment plant and sewer, $86,000; Talent, Ore., line irrigation water tunnel, $10,000; Medford, Ore., Rogue River valley diversion dam, $25,000; Reedsport, Ore., extension south jetty on Umpqua river, $600,000.

Deferred construction—Jackson county, Ore., line cascade canal, Talent irrigation district and main canal, $125,000; Jacksonville, Ore., sewer system, $25,000; Port Orford, Ore., water supply system, $26,000; Coquille, Ore., water mains, $35,000; Bay City, Ore., water supply system, $40,000; Beaver Creek, Ore., irrigation dam, $425,000.

Construction time indeterminate—Medford, Ore., Little Butte Creek flood control and irrigation dam, $400,000; Grants Pass, Ore., irrigation canal improvement, $300,000; Gold Beach, Ore., water supply main between dam and reservoir, $12,000.

Klamath, Ore., project list:

For immediate investigation or construction—Tule lake drainage, flood control and irrigation, $120,000; Klamath Indian reservation irrigation improvements, $20,000; Klamath Falls, Malin, Ore., sewer system extensions, $103,000; range water development and conservation, $19,000.

Deferred construction—Merrill, Ore., water system improvements, $30,000.

CAVE CITY TO HAVE WEEKLY NEWSPAPER HUSSEY ANNOUNCES

Plans for the establishment of a weekly newspaper at Cave City were announced yesterday by Elwood Hussey, secretary of the Cave City Chamber of Commerce. The paper, Hussey said, would be operated by the Achey Bros. Publishing company of Portland and would probably be called the Illinois Valley Tribune.

Hussey, who was in Medford yesterday to purchase materials for a new 32 by 40 foot stucco building to be erected there to house the state liquor store and automobile registration office, said that Achey Bros. had sold their Portland interests and would start the new newspaper in two or three weeks.

PIONEER GRAVES AT JACKSONVILLE GIVEN ATTENTION

Dense Growth Removed From Tombstones in Old Cemetery—Donation of Plants, Bulbs Requested

JACKSONVILLE, April 13.—(Sp)—Uncovering of old graves and tombstones in the historic Jacksonville cemetery which have been hidden for years under dense growth of vines and foliage has brought to light many facts concerning early southern Oregon residents and almost forgotten incidents.

Through efforts of Ike Coffman, new cemetery caretaker, general cleaning of the older sections of the graveyard and beautification of those long neglected graves. He points out that in order to carry out the program of beautification, more suitable plants and bulbs are needed and that any donations for this purpose will be greatly appreciated. Coffman states that he hopes to complete the work by Decoration day.

Starting in the I.O.O.F. section of the yard, Coffman has cleaned, reshaped and set out plants on long-neglected graves. He points out that in order to carry out the program of beautification, more suitable plants and bulbs are needed and that any donations for this purpose will be greatly appreciated. Coffman states that he hopes to complete the work by Decoration day.

One headboard discovered by Coffman stands above the grave of R. A. Tibbets, who died July 6, 1864, at the age of 32. A check of cemetery records showed that Tibbets was the first grandmaster of the I.O.O.F. lodge in California and was a member of lodge number one at Yreka, Cal. Records further showed that the first local lodge meetings were held on Jackson creek with music provided by an organ which had been shipped from California to Crescent City and transported from there by mule-back. The organ may still be seen in the attic of the Jacksonville lodge hall.

Another ancient tombstone held the photograph, under glass, of Mrs. John Hockenjos, interred there. Mrs. Hockenjos had come to southern Oregon from Baden, Germany, and passed away in 1872.

A more dismal history surrounds the grave of George Funk, who died in 1889 at the age of 41 of black small pox. It is related that as his body was carried to the cemetery, the cortege was enveloped in thick black smoke from tar which was burned continuously throughout the journey and up to the moment his body was interred, "at the stroke of midnight."

ASK COOPERATION IN HUMANE WEEK

This is National Humane Week—a week set aside for the purpose of directing the thought and attention of the people to care and kindness to dumb beasts.

The humane society for its objective not only protection and care of unfortunate animals, but its main excuse for existence is its effort to instill into children of the country lessons of kindness, compassion and consideration for others. The child taught to be kind to pets will be compassionate and considerate of others.

As good citizens, interested in the progress and development of this city, in the enforcement of law and the abolition of crime, in the building of character and citizenship will you not speak a good word for the society and its noble objectives whenever you have the opportunity?

INSURANCE AGENTS IN COUNTY MEET

Thirty-two Jackson county insurance agents and company representatives from Portland and San Francisco gathered at Valentine's Cafe Monday night for a dinner and educational program under the auspices of the Oregon Special Agents' association.

Following the informal dinner papers dealing with important phases of fire and casualty insurance were read by Ira P. E. Reynolds Thomas B. Thompson, M. K. Sprott, James C. Hitt, John E. Meeker, O. E. Bogley and George Bottoms, company men from Portland. Earl S. Tully acted as chairman for the local agents and L. N. Brainard for the special agents.

A series of such meetings is being held throughout the state in the interests of stock fire and casualty insurance companies.

G. PASS FISH DEALER CITED TO COURT HERE

Charged with dealing in fish without a license, state police chief Will Scoville, 72, of 1008 North Fifth street, Grants Pass, to appear in justice court here next Saturday morning at nine o'clock.

A fish dealer, Scoville had his license cancelled by the state fish commission the first of the month, state police said, but disregarded the fact and continued to sell the sea food.

STATE MINING BOARD TO START OPERATION BY MIDYEAR—BURCH

GRANTS PASS, April 13.—(AP)—Problems facing the newly-created state board of geology and mineral industries will delay its operation until about mid-year. Albert Burch of Medford, one of the three members, said here last night.

Selection of a director is difficult, he said, because a man of the high qualifications required by law is hard to find. He explained that county courts must first approve applications for the $50 grubstakes, and revealed probability that free assay offices will be set up in the state's two great mining districts, eastern and southwestern Oregon, if building space is provided.

Baker has offered rent-free quarters, Burch said, and Grants Pass is the logical place for the southwestern Oregon office.

In referring to a bill defeated in the state senate, which would have defined mine-muddied waters of the Rogue river as polluted water, he said, "an organization is now starting or attempting to start legislation which would kill all mining in the state." He urged a statewide miners' association to combat proposals considered injurious.

VAN DYKE TO ADDRESS POLICEMEN IN SCHOOL

Frank Van Dyke, city attorney of Ashland, will join the faculty of Oregon police training school for the next class session to be held in Medford, Wednesday, April 21. It was announced here today by Chief Claitor McCredie, local chairman.

"Local Ordinances and Relation of City Police to Other City Departments," will be the topic to be discussed by Attorney Van Dyke.

Various phases of ordinances and police relations will be outlined by Mr. Van Dyke and will then be discussed by members of the class.
