

M'KINNEY HOOKS MESS OF TROUT ON OPENING DAY

J. McKinney, one of Medford's ace anglers, today is lord of all he surveys. With first day of Oregon's open trout season history, and hundreds of local members of the Isaac Walton league talking to themselves and figuring up the most logical alibi under the circumstances, McKinney can grin broadly and point with pride to his fine catch, so far as can be learned, the only one made by a Medford angler.

Butte creek near the old Kelo place was the scene of McKinney's success. He took 17 beautiful trout from eight inches to one foot long. Because of the high and muddy condition of the creek, he used a single egg, and each of the fish was taken with that bait. McKinney said that he saw many fishermen along Butte creek, but all were having no luck. The only other catch of any kind reported today was that made by Louie Thanos, high school athlete, in Rogue river at high banks. Thanos took a cutthroat about 18 inches long.

State police reported that many fishermen were out, but that many one had made a catch. The report was the same in all the fishing headquarters in Medford, with disgruntled but not disheartened anglers staring the streams and creeks were far too high and roily for even bait fishing, let alone fly casting.

Future prospects, for a week at least, look none too bright. Until the snow lying in the low foothills is melted and delivered out of the district via the various streams and creeks, fishing will remain poor, experienced anglers report.

BASEBALL 'FIND' AWAITS BEST BID

MASSILLON, O., April 16.—(AP)—From an easy chair, Tommy Henrich coolly conducted an auction with anxious major league clubs today to determine which will bid the most for a young outfielder named Tommy Henrich. "The best offer wins," he remarked—and Manager Bill Terry of the New York Giants has said he'd pay $20,000 for Henrich's contract. "Money isn't everything," interposed his gray-haired mother, Mrs. Edward Henrich. "Well, it helps a lot," observed Tommy's 17-year-old brother Charles, who has dreams of following in his brother's footsteps. And Tommy Henrich, the 21-year-old Massillon marvel who "got a break" when Commissioner Keene-saw Mountain Landis declared him a free agent, merely flashed a big

M-M Buying Trip Most Successful Is Word Of Adair

"The most successful buying trip I ever made to San Francisco," was the word of Charles Adair, co-owner of the M. M. department store, who with his partner, Barney H. Williams, and Mrs. Pansy Calder, dry goods buyer, returned to Medford yesterday morning from the California city. The local store officials were in San Francisco three days for the express purpose of purchasing needed spring merchandise. According to Mr. Adair, many really outstanding values were bought, and which will soon be on display at the local store. Although the trip was highly successful, Mr. Adair said he was glad to get back to Medford so he could get some rest. He stated that the three of them went from early morning until night in their visits to wholesalers and manufacturers, and were dead tired upon arrival home.

HAWES PURCHASES FLETCHER HOME

J. Farrell Hawes, Safeway manager here, has purchased the J. H. Fletcher residence at 1315 East Main street and has sold his present home at 1506 West Main street. The transaction was consummated yesterday and announced today. Mr. Hawes will become owner of the Fletcher property on May 1 but will not take occupancy until June 1, he stated. One of the reasons for the purchase, he related, was to be near a school so that Mr. and Mrs. Hawes' little son of school age will not have far to go. The property is near the Roosevelt school. The dwelling is a modern, one-story, six-room home of Spanish type. It has a basement, central heating plant and a double garage. Mr. Hawes came to Medford three years ago the coming September, having been transferred by Safeway Stores, Inc., from Tacoma, Wash.
