

SAIDEE O. DUNBAR HEADS NOMINEES AT CLUB COUNCIL

Portland Woman Candidate to Succeed President Campbell of General Federation of Women's Clubs

TULSA, Okla., April 28.—(AP)—Mrs. Saidee Orr Dunbar, Portland, Ore., candidate for president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs to succeed Mrs. Roberta Campbell Lawson, Tulsa, headed a list of nominees for office made known unofficially today at the yearly council meeting.

Further nominations may be made from the floor at the triennial general convention at Kansas City in 1938 when the election will be held. Nominations will be presented to the delegates Thursday night.

"We seek to learn to live well, to promote peace, justice and relief for the oppressed," said Mrs. Lawson in opening the meeting.

Would Protect Homes. "We must teach the sanctity of the American home until the words of the marriage ceremony will mean truthfully 'until death us do part, not until the judge us do part,'" said Mrs. Norman Hastings, Rosindale, Mass., chairman of the home committee.

"What America needs is more harmonious homes. We've all been shocked by reports of child marriages. The federation is working for better marriage laws. America needs better home life."

The federation's interest in legislation was described by Mrs. W. D. Sporborg, Port Chester, N. Y., who declared, "Our present session of congress is costing us $21,000,000 and we intend to have a say in what it does."

Mrs. Lawson keynoted the conference with her theme of the need for education in living. "It is a need for the sort of education that will direct our living into the realm of calm and quiet-analysis of our personal fitness in community life and checkup on the influence we radiate to those about us, especially the youth of the land."

Will Vote on Court Issue. The national president used that theme to direct the delegates' attention to a resolution taking a stand on President Roosevelt's plan for reorganization of the federal judiciary. She made it clear she did not seek to influence them on either side of the matter.

"Education for living" would be a sham without real knowledge of the framework of our government," she said, "and the president's recommendation for reorganization of the supreme court has sharpened the eyes of the people and brought our lethargic minds into activity."

"This question is not a partisan matter, neither is it political unless individuals make it so. It is further reaching than any one political party because any constitutional matter belongs to the people as a whole."

HIGHER WAGE LEVELS FOR CANNERY CREWS DUE COMING SEASON

The Bagley Canning company in Ashland will be one of many Oregon canneries increasing wage levels for the 1937 season. Ralph E. Koozer, manager, announced last week.

Ralph Boutelle, manager of the Rogue River Valley Canning company in Medford, is out of town and could not be reached for a statement. He is expected back the latter part of the week.

The new policy was announced for the canning industry by Charles H. Gram, state labor commissioner, after canneries officials agreed on the wage boost at a meeting in Salem recently.

A minimum hourly wage of 35 cents was fixed for women, and 45 cents for men. Gram said the commission considered the increase warranted because of the advancing living costs.

Statistics placed before the commission indicated that Oregon canneries, previous to the increase, already were operating under the highest fixed minimum wage schedule of any state in the union with the exception of California. The new minimum rate is nearly 30 per cent higher than any previous schedule for the Oregon canning industry, including the 1935 boom days, Gram stated.

CREDIT FOR BUILDING LIGHT PLANE CLAIMED BY TALENT AERONAUT

Exception was taken today by Cecil Hartley of Talent to a published statement that Albert V. Forman, Medford youth now employed at the Grand Central terminal in Glendale, Calif., constructed the light airplane which is the subject of an article in the current Popular Aviation.

The airplane in question, pictured in the magazine, was built about 1930 by Mr. Hartley, he informed the Mail Tribune. He asserted that he sold the plane to Mr. Forman in 1936.

Mr. Hartley has been interested in aeronautics for some time and prior to the construction of the small plane in 1930 he built a glider, he related.

Mr. Hartley stated that he flew his home-built plane in test hops after receiving only 30 minutes of instruction. He has flown considerably but has been unable to procure a department of commerce license because he is partially color blind, he related.

Friends of Mr. Forman explained that after he purchased the plane from Mr. Hartley he had to rebuild the machine so that it could be licensed. As originally built, the friends stated, it could not meet the requirements of the Oregon state laws which had been adopted after Mr. Hartley had originally constructed the ship.

GEMS, MINERALS OF ALL STATES TO BE EXHIBITED

A gem or mineral specimen from every state in the union will form a novel nucleus of a permanent exhibit to be arranged in the front and adjoining show windows on the west side of the Jackson County Chamber of Commerce, the Mail Tribune learned today.

The idea was suggested at last week's meeting of the Southern Oregon Gem and Mineral society by E. R. Santo, president, and the chamber of commerce management today took steps to bring the suggestion to materialization.

The chamber will send a letter to every governor in the country asking that a sample gem or mineral characteristic of the state be sent here for the exhibit. Specimens will be limited to a half pound in weight. The chamber management believes that the entire exhibit, and particularly the state display, will prove an attraction for not only residents here but tourists also. It is thought too that the general display will create a new and more widespread interest in the mineral resources of Jackson county.

After the state display has been completed, an effort, it was indicated, might be made to enlarge the exhibit to include a gem or mineral specimen from every country in the world. It is believed such a display would be unique and a valuable asset for Medford and the county.
