

CCC EXTENSION FOR TWO YEARS VOTED BY HOUSE

Youths with dependent families would be required to send home a major part of their pay. With an outburst of hooting, the house agreed yesterday to cut the salary of the CCC director from $12,000 to $10,000 a year. Instead of requiring that enrollees come only from families on relief, the measure provides that youths 17 to 23 years old who are unemployed and in needy circumstances may enlist. Shortly after the house voted the two-year extension, the senate labor committee recommended to the senate that the CCC be extended permanently. There was no indication when the senate would take up the bill.

HALLIBURTON PENS FOUR STORIES OF WORLD WANDERING

Richard Halliburton, world traveler and lecturer, who will speak at the senior high school tomorrow night, was born at Brownsville, Tennessee, January 9, 1900. He was educated at Lawrenceville Preparatory school and at Princeton University, graduating from the latter in 1921.

Several times around the world, that resulted in his first book, young Halliburton had been taken aboard by his parents, traveling in January. But immediately upon graduating he took himself off without benefit of money, made his way to Europe on a cattle boat and went completely on his own, an incurable romanticist.

In that first year of his wanderings he climbed the Matterhorn, was a prisoner at Gibraltar, lived the beach-comber's life in the East Indies, had an encounter with Chinese pirates and on his twenty-third birthday amazed Japan by doing the impossible, scaling Fujiyama in mid-winter.

He returned from that first vagabond journey and wrote the phenomenal best-seller. At twenty-four he began to lecture. After a year on the platform, he was off again, this time to the Isles of Greece, reliving the Odyssey. Then he came back home and wrote his second book.

In 1924 he departed for Central and South America, adventuring along the historic trails of Balboa and Pizarro. His third book tells the fascinating story of the above mentioned trip. In 1932 his fourth book was published. It took its name from the airplane in which Halliburton and his pilot-companion, Moya Stephens, Jr., followed a royal road to romance in the air.
