WILSON STRAIGHTENS HISTORY ON COUNCIL

R. B. Wilson, son of J. R. Wilson who built the old opera house that used to stand at the present location of the Lewis super service station, calls attention to the fact that a town meeting in 1891, as recalled in the April 1 issue of the Mail Tribune, was held in the old opera house in the Fluhrer building and not in the opera house built by his father.

That opera house, Mr. Wilson states, was built 10 years after the meeting was held.

Andy Devine, film comedian in costume for his role, is shown as he passed through the picket line at his studio in the strike of the Federated Motion Picture Crafts' unions in Hollywood. It will be conducted by the Rev. E. S. Bartlam. These services are always impressive. The public is invited and all veterans of all wars and members of patriotic societies are urged to be present.
