POSSIBILITY SHIP LOST UTAH WILDS NEVER BE FOUND

SALT LAKE CITY, May 15.—(AP)—The possibility was discussed today that an airplane which vanished six months ago with seven persons may never be found, though thousands searched.

"The wreckage may lie in some hidden arroyo in Utah's mountain wilds under 5 feet of snow," said an air veteran who preferred to remain anonymous.

The comment, echoed by some others, came as plans went forward for a renewed hunt for the Western Air Express transport and the five men and two women who went down with it last December 15.

"In a few weeks," the veteran added, "snow will melt rapidly, canyons will fill with rushing streams and debris may be swept down, scattered for miles and finally buried under rock and silt."

Still, hundreds of candidates for a $100,000 reward posted by Western Air are resuming the search largely suspended amid late December snowstorms. Moreover, an organized hunt will be taken up anew soon.

The big transport, out of Los Angeles and Salt Lake bound, last reported over Millford, in southern Utah, at 3:27 a. m. five months ago.

MAYORS SEEK BIG FUND PWA JOBS

LOS ANGELES, May 15.—(AP)—Congress must appropriate $1,500,000,000 or more this session if able men and women are to be retained on employment rolls of public works projects, urged the conference of the U. S. conference of mayors was told today.

Mayors Frank L. Shaw, of Los Angeles; Frederick W. Mansfield of Boston; and Florentino H. LaGuardia of New York gave this message to the mayors, urging the conference to take a firm stand in asking congress for adequate federal funds for continuing public works projects.

Taxation, unemployment, federal relief appropriations, the debt, slum clearance and a federal low cost housing plan were subjects on the program.

Approximately 70 chief executives of cities ranging in size from a few thousand inhabitants to New York's 7,000,000 are in attendance.

There was no loss of life attributed to the flood.

Private construction firms estimated the damage to dwellings, buildings and other property would total between $100,000 and $200,000. They placed similar damage estimates on roads and bridges leading into Fairbanks. No official estimates were made.
