ACHING, SWOLLEN FEET

No sensible person will continue to suffer from those intense agonizing throbbing foot pains when every well stocked drug store has Moone's Emerald Oil and sells it with an absolute guarantee of satisfaction or money back.

Your feet may be so swollen and inflamed that you think you can't go another step. Your shoes may feel as if they are cutting right into the flesh. You feel sick all over with the pain and torture—You'd give anything to get relief, wouldn't you? Then try this:

Two or three applications of Moone's Emerald Oil and in fifteen minutes the pain and soreness disappears. A few more applications at regular intervals and the swelling reduces.

And best of all any offensive odor is gone for good.

Jarmin's, Inc., and every good druggist guarantees Moone's Emerald Oil to end your foot troubles or money back.

BOOKKEEPER WILL FACE GRAND JURY

Robert E. O'Brien, transient, charged with uttering bogus checks upon checks stolen from the Medford Concrete Construction company last Saturday, waived preliminary hearing in justice court yesterday, and was ordered held to await action of the next grand jury.

O'Brien, hired by the concern as a bookkeeper, through a local relief agency, allegedly signed the name of H. H. Pringle to one of the stolen checks for $25 and cashed the paper last Saturday. He had worked most of the week for the concrete company. Following the cashing of the spurious check, he allegedly fled to Ashland by taxi where he was arrested by the city police.

William H. Beckelmyer of the upper Applegate, charged with the taking of two cabins on Beaver Creek, valued at $50, in a complaint signed by W. S. McDonald, was released on his own recognizance, to await a hearing. McDonald claims ownership of the cabins. Beckelmyer assertedly tore down the cabins, for the lumber.

Glen A. Howard, charged with overloading of a truck, was assessed $15 and costs.

WORDS FROM APOSTLE ARE TAKEN FOR TEXT BY NAZARENE PASTOR

Speaking from the Church of the Nazarene pulpit Sunday morning, Fred M. Weatherford, pastor-evangelist, used as his topic "Vision in Action." He drew his text from II. Co. 5:14, "• • • The love of Christ constraineth us • • •" A summary of his discourse follows:

"The words of the text are taken from the inspired Apostle Paul. Perhaps his life and work is one of the best examples of vision in action to be found in the scriptural records. He proved himself one of the most tireless workers in the interest of evangelism that has ever been produced. He had a vision for gospelizing the world, and spared himself at no point in the interest of that accomplishment.

"Whether he was addressing himself to one individual, such as Felix the governor, or to Onesimus, the runway slave, or to a group composed of royalty, or to the common people, his message was to accept Christ, the deliverer from sin.

"Christ came to give His life as ransom for all. With this statement we conclude the possible redemptability of everyone. For this reason the Apostle Paul felt himself debtor to all men.

"One canot love Christ without having a devotion for the accomplishment of his vision. Paul had a love commensurate with that vision when he said 'the love of Christ constraineth us.' That word 'constrain' describes an active, and not a passive attitude. It implies an impelling urge in the interest of a forward program."

Here Wednesday

What the balmy breath of Spring's first day does to slumbering hearts is the theme of a delightful comedy, "Call It a Day," coming tomorrow only at the New Craterian theatre, with Olivia deHaviland heading a large cast of screen favorites.

Things start happening at the first break of day. The husband and father, Ian Hunter, falls in love—or thinks he does—with an actress client. The wife, Frieda Inescort, gets "propositioned" by Roland Young, who is introduced by her best friend, Alice Brady.

Olivia conceives an infatuation for a painter, Walter Woolf King, who's doing her portrait. Her brother discovers charms in the girl next door, Anita Louise.

All in all they fall in love and out again. Bedtime finds them all the same old family—a little more experienced, a lot wiser, while the audience gets the benefit of all the fun.

In Rialto Roles

Karloff—hitherto linked with monster and thriller pictures—now comes to the Rialto theatre for tomorrow and Thursday only in a new type of role. Karloff plays the amazingly difficult lead in "Night Key," a dramatic film built around the burglar alarm systems which protect thousands of banks and business houses.

Karloff, as a sympathetic human character, plays the role of an inventor who defies both police and gangsters to retain a valuable invention of which he has been robbed. The romantic leads are played by Jean Rogers and Warren Hull with Hobart Cavanaugh and Alan Baxter heading the supporting cast.

"That I May Live," a thrilling and timely story of young love featuring Rochelle Hudson, Robert Kent and J. Edward Bromberg, plays as the added feature with "Night Key."

Margaret Lindsay In Roxy's Thriller

Margaret Lindsay and Glenda Farrell portray the women players who protect their city's most vicious gang of criminals in the first Medford showing of "The Law In Her Hands," at the Roxy theatre for today and tomorrow only.

Lyle Talbot, Warren Hull, Eddie Acuff and an all star cast support the two stars.

R. U. X. COMPOUND RELIEVES MAN SUFFERING 15 YEARS WITH PAINS OF RHEUMATISM

According to Stephen A. Philpott, 821 P Street, Sacramento, Calif., Williams R.U.X. Compound gave him relief after suffering for the past fifteen years.

Mr. Philpott writes a letter which you can read here. It's an interesting letter because it reveals an amazing truth, and here is what he writes:

"I have been troubled with an unusual form of rheumatism pain for the past fifteen years. It starts in the back and at first I thought it was due to a strain, but it continued to get worse and extended down my right leg as a sciatica. At times I was forced to go to bed with the extreme pain. It would lay me up for as much as six weeks at a time. A couple of months ago it occurred again and I was about to have to give up work; although I lived only three blocks away, I could hardly proceed to it. I was bent over and could not straighten up. It was necessary to stop and rest on the way. I had tried many treatments and medicine and I had spent much money.

"But relief is what was necessary, and when I saw Williams R.U.X. Compound advertised in the newspaper, I purchased a bottle. I got relief from the pain in the first few doses, and now I am on my second bottle and my pains are practically gone. I am working every day. I can recommend this compound without hesitation. I only hope that those who suffer as I have will read this letter and give it a try."

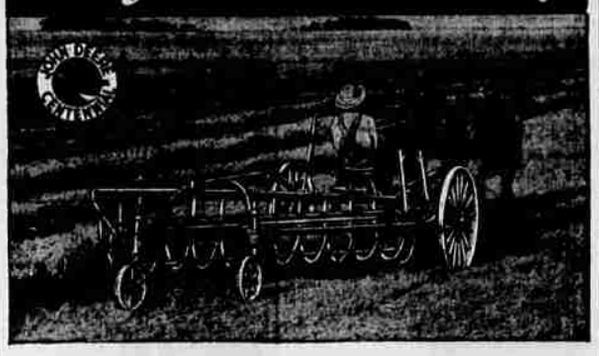
The Secret of R.U.X.

Doctors have found that it does no good simply to cover up your symptoms. You must get the cause of your pain! Williams R.U.X. Compound acts directly from the inside—through the blood stream by a combination of ingredients universally recognized as most effective for relieving these pains.

Money Back

We don't expect you to risk your money. We know what Williams R.U.X. Compound should do for you, therefore, we make this guarantee. Get a bottle today from the Heath Drug Store and if you are not completely—utterly satisfied after taking your first bottle, your money will be cheerfully refunded. Adv.

Better Hay
the John Deere way



JOHN DEERE SIDE-DELIVERY RAKE

If you haven't seen the new, light-running John Deere Side-Delivery Rake, be sure to come in —haying time will soon be here.

This better rake brings you all of the exclusive John Deere features that mean top-grade hay and a cleaner job of raking.

Why the John Deere Makes Better Hay

With its floating cylinder, universal joint drive, and curved teeth, the John Deere "floats" the hay into loose, fluffy windrows, with the tender leaves inside. Air circulating through the windrows reduces the moisture quickly. The hay is cured uniformly. The leaves hang on and stay green.

The floating cylinder is an exclusive patented feature. Makes for a lighter-running rake that follows the lay of the land and rakes cleaner. Be sure to see it.
