mans can be established. It was learned they will be punishable under a German law which classifies as treason the circulation of "false reports" likely to do damage to the fatherland. The penalty for treason is the headman's ax.

What is regarded as even more probable is that the state will move against organizations, rather than individuals, if it can establish what it deems to be culpability. Many religious orders own property which might be confiscated. "It probably never occurred to him he was uncovering a case of treason" involving the transmission of "false information about important decisions of the state," the newspaper Nachtausgabe commented on intimations of how the cardinal obtained his information.

Representatives of lay orders who sent the false information to the United States," it said, "know full well the extent of sex crimes among the Franciscans."

Press Renews Attack
"They know also that sentences were inflicted only on the grounds of confessions by guilty lay brothers. They, therefore, have deliberately transmitted false reports to foreign countries for purposes of damaging the German Reich."

The controlled Nazi press renewed its broadsides against American Jews and Catholics and demanded that the Vatican "call to order" Cardinal Mundelein for attack on Adolf Hitler.

Under the caption of "hair-raising immorality in New York High Schools," the official news agency distributed an item through Germany describing an investigation into charges that there had been wholesale "boogying" of contraceptives among students of Brooklyn high schools.

"This action by the board of education," the dispatch said, "is further evidence of what unheard of things are possible in this city under the eyes of the Jew LaGuardia."

VICTORY TERMED CLEAR WARNING TO INDEPENDENTS

After the Jones and Laughlin election result was announced, Philip Murray, C. I. O. chieftain, commented:

Seen As Warning
"It should be a warning to other independent steel producers that the wave of favorable sentiment for the C. I. O. and organization of the workers cannot be thwarted by opponents of true collective bargaining."

While ballots were being counted in Pittsburgh, approximately 300 miners entrenched themselves 360 feet underground at Gillespie, Ill., in a dramatic bid for concessions from the Superior Coal company. The strikers sought a stagger system of work that would permit employment of 300 fellow workers made idle by the closing of another pit for repairs.

Sympathizers and strikers' families brought food, clothing and reading material to the entombed men. An official of the progressive miners of America said the men would "stick it out to the last."
