News Behind The News

ers around the senate has come to be known familiarly in the corridors as "the lion-tamers club." The title grows from an obvious but not generally advertised fact. They make no secret in conversation of their displeasure over the general attitude taken by the White House since the last election, on other matters as well as the court.

What brought their resentment out more distinctly was the latest edict of the president against compromise. Since then, they have been talking (in private, of course) about what happened to Mr. Wilson on article X when the war president stood against any senatorial dotting of 'i's' and any extra senatorial crowding of 'T's'.

Their personal viewpoint seems to be that it is up to them not only to defeat the court program on its merits, but (as one of their number described it) to "make the president become a president again."

That is, they believe the old natural constitutional checks and balances prevailing in government prior to the depression may be restored, if the president is just once defeated on an issue.

Not all anti-packers feel that way, but enough of them do to create a very strong personal and somewhat bitter situation.

The circulation of foolish rumors and inflammatory personal stories against Mr. Roosevelt is again causing some inner concern here. One especially fantastic idea was circulated in a confidential letter by a new agency implying that the president collapsed in a coma at his desk before he went south for a rest. There is, of course, not a grain of truth in the suggestion.

All presidents have had to put up with this sort of stuff. The trouble is they cannot deny such rumors without dignifying them, and generally the denial gets wider circulation than the original rumors.

Most presidents have been unable to maintain their patience against irresponsible gossip. The only satisfactory solution seems to be a deep and hearty laugh.

Andrew Mellon has moved menacingly close to the White House. He has bought a building in Jackson place, almost across the street from the executive mansion. He intends to house there the architects working on the art memorial.

However, his relative standing is indicated by the fact that John Lewis has also just bought a much bigger and better place around the corner.
