

"Midday Sun", 100 to 7 Choice, Captures Epsom Downs Derby

NINE AMERICANS $150,000 WINNERS IN SWEEPSTAKES

English Royalty On Hand—'Perifox' Only American-Bred Entry Disappoints

LONDON, June 2.—(AP)—Nine Americans who held sweepstakes tickets on Midday Sun, Epsom Downs derby winner, today won $150,000 each.

EPSON DOWNS, June 2.—(AP)—Midday Sun, an outsider, owned by Mrs. G. B. Miller, today won the 138th derby before a crowd of between 250,000 and 300,000, including the king and queen, Mrs. F. Magie's Sandspite was second and the Aga Khan's Le Grand Duc third.

Ridden by Mike Beary, veteran English jockey, Midday Sun finished the one and a half miles in front of Sandspite, a rank outsider. Le Grand Duc was another one and a half lengths back.

William Woodward's Perifox, only American-bred horse in the race and last minute favorite, was fourth in the field of 20.

The American-bred son of Gallant Fox just managed to beat Marcel Boyssac's Goya 2nd out of fourth money.

In winning the purse of about $50,000 Midday Sun ran the distance in the comparatively slow time of 2:37 3-5.

Mrs. Miller was the first woman owner to win the England's most famous flat race. Her colt went to the post at the odds of 100 to 7.

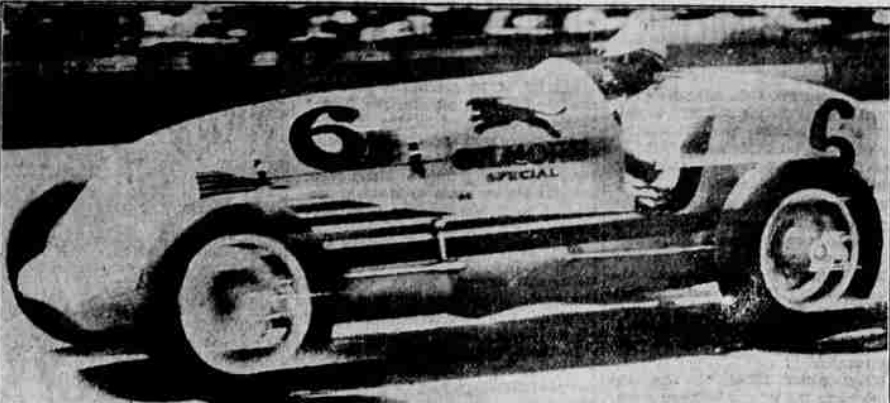

Sandspite, given practically no chance in the wagering, was quoted at the long odds of 100 to 1. Le Grand Duc was held at 100 to 9.

Lord Astor's bad luck in the classic still held as his highly regarded Cash Book finished among the also rans. In contrast the Aga Khan's luck ran true to form. The Indian potentate has won three of the last eight derbies with his Mahmoud and Taj Akbar running one, two last year.

Failure of Perifox came not only as a bitter disappointment to his New York banker owner but to the thousands who wagered their shillings, half-crowns and pounds on the son of the famous colt, which captured the American three-year old championship seven years ago.

He was one of the strongest backed American owned horses ever to race in the historic stake—won only once by an American-bred horse and three other times by foreign horses carrying the aliks of United States sportsmen.

Perifox raced right with the leaders until a quarter of a mile from home. He faded rapidly however, when they hit the last uphill climb 50 yards from the judges. At the same time, Midday Sun pulled away from the pack under Beary's strong handling.

Cash Book, winner of the Newmarket stakes, never figured seriously in the race. He lay fifth coming around Tattenham corner. About a quarter of a mile from the finish he had enough, however, and steadily dropped behind.

Mrs. Miller led Midday Sun into the paddock and waited expectantly for a few minutes, hoping that the king would come down from the royal box and congratulate her. She was disappointed, however, for his majesty chose to save his felicitations until later.

SPITBALL URGED BY DODGER BOSS

NEW YORK, June 2.—(AP)—Burling Grimes is ready to lead a one-man campaign for the return of the spitball.

The fiery manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers thinks the batters now have a big edge on the pitchers and that the return of the spitter would help to even up a bit.

"The spitter should come back to the major and minor leagues," Burling said today, "and I'm going to see what can be done about it. The spitball was ruled out by the big league magnates not because it was considered a dangerous pitch but because some of the club owners classed it as objectionable. The name of the pitch offended sensitive ears."

"The spitball was less dangerous than many of the pitchers that are being made today. I understand some umpires rub the gloss off new balls with emery powder. A ball may come into a game with so much emery powder on it that it kills. The ball that fractured Mickey Cochrane's skull sailed.

"If pitchers were allowed to throw spitballs again they would be better equipped to stand up before the hitters."

Fights Last Night

LOS ANGELES, June 2.—(AP)—Bob Ford, Arizona giant-killer, tackled more than he could handle last night and lost a ten-round decision to Big Boy Bray, Los Angeles negro heavyweight.

Bray, 204, had a 24-pound weight advantage, using it to wear down his hard-punching foe. A left hook split Ford for a no-count in the first round, but thereafter he was in no danger.

Billy Hulen Says:

Medford Returns To Own Balliwick.

Southpaw Catcher

Manager Mike Bakovic and his Medford Craters, nomads of the Southern Oregon league, will be homeless no more after Sunday. Forced to their weekly ball playing on the road while the newly-planted turf at the high school field was growing to man-sized status, the Craters finally returned to their own balliwick next Sunday to face the second-place Roseburg Pirates, and loud will be the cheers of the huge skipper and his teammates when they step out before a home-town gathering of John Q. Fans for the first time this season.

They can't be blamed for those offerings of thankfulness, either. It's been plenty tough for the locals, and make no mistake about it. They have not only had to play their league encounters in the enemy's backyard, but have been forced to hike out to the fairgrounds for practice.

So far as batting drill goes, the fairgrounds is as good as any. But for infield workouts, the club might as well line up on a rock pile.

Although sunk in the cellar four straight losses and no wins, Medford hasn't played bad ball. Far from it. Last Sunday at Crescent City, for instance, the Craters gave the undefeated Chinooks their toughest battle of the year, and lost only in the last half of the ninth inning when Oville fragmented, a hell-on-wheels, stole home off the delivery of Larry Pepper.

The young Medford right-hander shouldn't let that worry him, if it does. Mark it down to inexperience. Many major league ball players have pulled worse stunts than that, and after long years of big time baseball, too. Although Pepper naturally will feel badly about the business, he shouldn't let it take away his starch. Things like that happen in the best regulated ball families to-wit, Dizzy Dean's balk in the New York-St. Louis game the other day.

When Roseburg and Medford start proceedings next Sunday after league officials and local citizens have tossed the first ball, attempted to hit and catch it and so on, the two Southern Oregon league clubs will be playing on the finest high school baseball diamond in Oregon, but none. It will be the only turf field in the state outside the Vaughn street park, home of the Portland Beavers, and the University of Oregon field.

Thanks to the progressive efforts of E. H. Dietrich, city school superintendent, the field was planted to turf this spring and will be used by the Craters and the summer baseball season from now on.

It's just another step, in fact, toward the development of the finest high school athletic plant in the state, which Medford already has, we believe, or certainly will have when the lights are installed on the turf football field. That turf pigskin park, dedicated last fall, not only beat any other high school in the state to the punch, but the colleges as well. Oregon and Oregon State will play on grass this year, but it remained for Medford high school to show the way.

Scarcer than the dodo bird are left-handed catchers in organized baseball. There just aren't any, for that matter, in the majors or large minors. But regardless, a young fellow named Lou Hanelo, captain of the baseball team of the College of the City of New York, is just about now trying out with the Boston Bees of the National league. And, as a southpaw catcher, at that.

Hanelo, a good all-around ball player, was shifted behind the plate two years ago when every post on the C. C. N. Y. team was well taken care of but the catching department. He made good from the start, so good that the Boston club became interested this year and offered him a chance to break into the big time.

With more and more batters swinging from the left side of the plate because of that extra step they gain on the way to first base, there really isn't much sense for the taboo on portable receivers. In the past, a left-handed throwing catcher was at a distinct disadvantage with a right-handed hitter in front of him. He was handicapped in throwing to second and almost nullified on a heave to third, with the batter completely blocking the path of the throw.

But now, with southpaw batters almost as numerous as the orthodox hitters, and threatening to actually displace them, a left-handed catcher should be just as welcome in the big leagues or any other circuit as his starboard brother.

The baseball tryouts held by the Cincinnati Reds in Medford last fall produced one prospect who is making good in organized baseball. He is Paul Gehrmann, young right-hander who attended the one-week season, coming from Bend where he had worked on the mound for the Bend Elks in the State league.

Gehrmann was snapped up by the Reds and farmed to Durham in the Piedmont league this spring. Latest pitching percentages show the youngster winning four and losing one game, close to the top. He has taken part in eight games and has pitched 43 innings.

BRADDOCK, LEWIS RENEW SPARRING

CHICAGO, June 2.—(AP)—James J. Braddock, heavyweight champion of the world, and his challenger, Joe Louis, went back to socking sparring partners today.

Each warrior took time out from boxing yesterday in preparation for their 15-round battle at Comiskey Park June 22.

The Brown Bomber's schedule called for six rounds of work on his suffering sparring partners, and eight rounds of bag punching, shadow boxing and rope skipping.

Braddock fared four miles of road work four, or possibly six rounds, of boxing.

DIETRICH, CHI SOX HURLER, ACHIEVES NO HIT-RUN FAME

(Associated Press)

The Chicago White Sox haven't won a pennant since 1919 their third place in the American league was their high water mark since 1929, when they finished second.

But the Windy City team today has at least one claim to distinction—on its roster are three of the four active American league pitchers credited with no-hit, no-run games. They are 38-year-old Ted Lyons, who turned the trick in 1926; Vernon Kennedy, who crashed the huriling hall of fame two seasons ago; and Bill Dietrich who joined the lineup yesterday.

Dietrich, a Philadelphia and Washington cast-off claimed in mid-season last year by Dykes, shut out the Browns without a hit in one of yesterday's three big league games, 8-0. He gave two bases on balls and another man reached first on an error.

The victory was the fourth straight for the Sox and lifted them into third place past the idle Red Sox and the Detroit Tigers, who lost to Cleveland 4-3.

The roster of pitchers who have chalked up no-hit shutouts is studded with names of many of the most celebrated hurlers in the game—Chief Bender, Paul Dean, Wes Ferrell, Ed Walsh, "Smoky Joe" Wood, Christy Mathewson, Cy Young, Carl Hubbell, Hod Eller, Howard Ehmke, Amos Rusie and Charles "Hoss" Radbourne, among others.

The list has been increased by men who gained only a temporary ranking with the mighty. Some of them, now almost forgotten, are Bob Groom and Ernest Koob, both of the 1917 St. Louis Browns; Bob Burke of the 1931 Senators, and, believe it or not, Bill Terry, who just to make the story odder, pitched two no-hitters for Brooklyn back in 1886 and 1888.

In contrast, some of the best pitchers, past and present, have failed to scale this peak.

Dietrich's effort missed being a perfect game—but then, there hasn't been one since C. C. Robertson, also of the White Sox, fanned the Tigers 2-0, on April 30, 1922. In all major league history there have been only six games in which not a batter reached first.

SNEAD, HARRISON LEAD QUALIFIERS IN U. S. OPEN MEET

NEW YORK, June 2.—(AP)—Old Man Par took one of the worst beatings in his career, but he managed to whittle an entry list of 1404 golfers—an all time record for the United States open championship—down to a field of 170 which will start play a week from tomorrow at the Oakland Hills club, Birmingham, Mich.

Toppling the par-shattering yesterday in 30 district qualifying tests were 36-hole counts of 136 registered by Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., and E. J. (Dutch) Harrison of Stuttgart, Ark. A single round of 64 by Orville White, champion Tony Manero's successor as pro at the Sedgwick club, Greensboro, N. C. also stood out.

Snead, heading five aspirants for places on the Ryder cup team, carded a sensational round of 65 after an opening 71, while Harrison shot 69-67 to share the qualifying lead. White, with 74-64 was close behind. Three of the Ryder cup candidates had 140's for their 36-hole tests. Craig Wood at New York and Bryan Nelson and Ed Dudley at Philadelphia, while Jimmy Hines shot 146.

Two former open champions, Sam Parks, Jr., and Willie MacFarlane, passed the tests while the veterans, Chick Evans, and Freddie McLeod, 1908 winner, failed. Parks shot 147 while MacFarlane had 149. Evans wound up with 155 and McLeod with 162.

Other prominent players who failed to qualify included Leo Diegel, Sammy Byrd, the former ball player, Reynolds Smith, Al and Abe Espinosa, Johnny Lehman, Gene Kunes, Charley Yates, Roland Mackenzie, Sam Perry, Lester Bolstad, Joe Turnesa and Mike Bray.

Toppling the amateur qualifiers was Crawford Rainwater, 21-year-old Emory university star, who put together a pair of 70's to cop the one place available at Atlanta.

BOXING CARD IN ARMORY FRIDAY TO HANDLE CROWD

Because of the heavy advance ticket sale for the boxing card being staged by the Catholic Men's club next Friday night, the scene of battle has been transferred from the St. Mary's high school gym to the Medford armory, it was announced today. Officials of the club arranged with the Medford Boxing commission and wrestling promoter Mack Lillard for the use of the ring and equipment, and assurance is given that the expected huge crowd will find sufficient accommodations.

The fight program features Bill Ausland and Bob Kelly in the main event. Ausland is former middleweight champion of Oregon State college, and Kelly held the same crown at the University of San Francisco. Both have grown to light heavyweight status now, and one of the best fights ever seen in Medford is expected.

In the semi-windup, Sam Watson, 155, will tangle with John Conner, 150. Watson was runner-up for the middle weight title at University of Oregon and Conner was a member of the West Point boxing squad.

All bouts will staged under the intercollegiate boxing rules consisting of three two-minute rounds.

Joe Natume, matchmaker, is arranging for preliminary bouts, and will announce the complete card probably tomorrow.

Larry Woodall Leads Coast League Hitters

LOS ANGELES, June 2.—(AP)—Adding 21 points to his already high average, Larry Woodall of the San Francisco Seals remained at the head of Coast league hitters in games played through Monday.

League statistician Leo Moriarty in figures released today, gave Woodall a .402 average, with Art Garibaldi, Sacramento infielder, leaping from 22nd place in one week to .372.
