

CORONER'S PROBE INTO POOL DEATH HELD TOMORROW

Thirteen Witnesses to Testify—Last Rites for Randall Howard Cadwallader Wednesday.

A coroner's inquest into the death of 9-year-old Randall Howard Cadwallader only son of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Cadwallader of 413 Benson street, who drowned in the Natorium swimming pool Saturday afternoon, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock, according to County Coroner Frank Perl.

Witnesses who will testify at the inquest are Mrs. Stella Merrick, owner of the swimming pool; Mrs. Ora L. Fowler, manager; Rodney Stead, 16-year-old junior lifeguard who discovered the youngster at the bottom of the tank and Miss Kathryn Mead 17, and Gerald Fowler, 16, both junior lifeguards. Also Dr. W. G. Bishop who arrived shortly after the body was recovered; Spud Johnson, investigating state police officer, and three CCC enrollees at Camp Prescott who helped administer artificial respiration to no avail—Harold Farmer, G. F. Hancock and Tommy Holt.

Randall was born in Medford December 23, 1927, and was 9 years old. He attended the Warrington grade school, and had just passed into the fourth grade. He was a fine boy, and was very well liked by his many small friends who will be saddened by his death.

He leaves to mourn his departure his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Cadwallader, two sisters, Dorothy and Allene Cadwallader, both of Medford. Also his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Filcroft of Coos county; his great grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Filcroft of Lakeside, Ore.

Funeral services will be held at the Perl funeral home Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, the Rev. E. S. Bartiam officiating. Interment will be in Siskiyou Memorial park.

4 MINOR CRASHES OVER WEEK-END

Four minor auto accidents occurred in Medford and vicinity over the week end, according to city police reports today.

Cars driven by Carl W. Carson of 811 Dakota avenue and Louis E. Serruya, of Klamath Falls, collided at Crater Lake avenue and East Main street Saturday night, with minor damage.

Barney A. McCurry of Gold Hill and W. K. Weber of 232 South Grape street operated machines that side swiped on the Pacific highway four miles north of Medford Saturday night.

A tire blow out caused a car driven by Wiley Davis of Central point to carom across the Pacific highway north of Gold Hill Sunday morning and strike a machine driven by John A. Lyons of route 4. Little damage was done.

Machines operated by Frank Hull of 417 South Grape street and R. L. Fiehl of 410 South Newtown street crashed on Fir street near Main Saturday night. Fiehl was pulling away from the curb when the minor accident occurred, the report stated.

SCIENTISTS EYE ECLIPSE OF SUN

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(AP)—Naval observers and National Geographic Society astronomers stood vigil today over delicate instruments installed on a tiny island in the mid-Pacific for tomorrow's total eclipse of the sun, the longest in 12 centuries. From barren, hitherto uninhabited Canton island, one of the few dots of land in the path of the complete shadow, came wireless reports that the scientists expected unexcelled visibility at the moment the moon obscures the sun at 11:06 a. m., Pacific standard time.

JOKER COSTS RUCH LADY COURT FINE

What was thought to be someone's idea of a little joke led this morning to justice of the peace court and an outlay of $5.50 by Mrs. Beale I. Smith of Ruch.

Mrs. Smith was driving along the Jacksonville highway this morning when a state trooper observed the front license plate on her car was upside down. He stopped her to tell about the plate and as a matter of routine asked to see her operator's license. She had none.

Mrs. Smith pleaded guilty and explained she had simply overlooked getting a driver's license since her return from the east. She was fined $1 and $4.50 costs by Judge William R. Coleman.

It was thought someone had turned the license plate upside down as a joke.

PASS TWINS HELD FOR FISTICUFFS

Ernest Robert McTimmonds, 21, of 910 East J. street, Grants Pass, and his twin brother, Everett Kelly McTimmonds, of 1003 Inham street, Grants Pass, were arrested by state police early Sunday morning at a north Medford beer resort and charged with disorderly conduct. They were slated to appear in justice court here this afternoon.

State police took the twin brothers to the city jail and released them yesterday. They were fighting, police reported.

FARM MEASURING IN COUNTY OPENS

Measurement of Jackson county farms listed for benefits under the soil conservation act was begun this morning with A. C. Jetley, Eugene engineer in charge.

Jetley will be assisted by Rex Denison and Ed Word, student engineers at Oregon State college. Denison started with Jetley this morning and Word is expected to arrive shortly.

Twelve hundred farms owned by about 1100 farmers are to be measured, said Robert G. Fowler, county agent. Acreage must be determined of the farms and the separate fields comprising the farms, he stated.

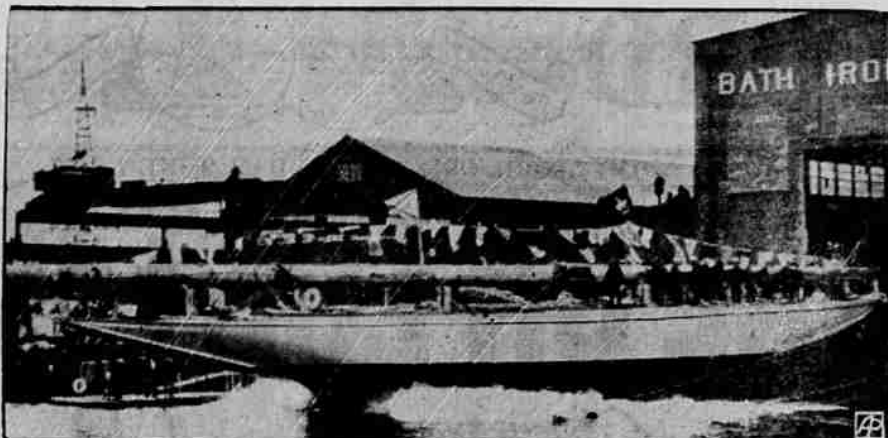

60 Enrolled For Opening Session

Close to 60 young people were enrolled for this morning's opening session of the three-weeks vacation church school at the First Christian church. Further registration will be completed at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning, Rev. James Hamilton, pastor, announced.

Vanderbilt Launches Another Defender

Her 165-foot mast lashed to her deck, the $300,000 America's cup contender, "Ranger," built by Harold Vanderbilt, is launched into the Kennebec river, at Bath, Me., after being built at the Bath Iron Works. It is Vanderbilt's third aspirant for defense of the cup. Vanderbilt and the designer are on board the trim craft.

FARLEY AND FIRST LADY LAUD SKILL REV. CORA K. SMITH

Bearing letters from such notables as James Farley and Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt attesting to the soundness of her predictions plus scores of newspaper clippings, the Rev. Cora Kincannon Smith, spiritualist pastor and medium, recently arrived in Medford on a lecture tour.

She will give a free lecture tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the K. P. hall, her appearance to include the answering of important questions and personal queries from the audience, she states.

Rev. Smith states that she has read for innumerable political figures and has been consulted repeatedly by government officials over a period of years. She lists as among her successful predictions the election and death of President Woodrow Wilson, within the hour of his demise, as well as both Franklin Roosevelt elections, including a forecast of the 1936 landslide made in Montana in August of that year.

The medium asserts that her predictions are always true and have included deaths, elections, oil discoveries and a variety of other events. She also claims to have had an indirect message from A. Conan Doyle, author and spiritualist, soon after his death in England.

Rev. Smith resided in Spokane, Wn., for a number of years and has traveled and lectured extensively in the west.

SKIPWORTH SAYS TREND OF TIMES BACKS JOB LAWS

"The trend of the modern authority is to sustain unemployment insurance statutes," it is stated in a supplemental opinion handed down by Circuit Judge G. F. Skipworth in the case of the Pinnacle Packing company and others against the state unemployment compensation commission.

In his supplemental opinion, on file in the Jackson county clerk's office today, the Eugene jurist cites the case of Associated Industries against the New York state department of labor in which the court of appeals upheld the constitutionality of the statute.

"As stated in the New York case, whether the state in passing such a statute is acting under the police power of the state or under the taxing power of the state makes little difference," Judge Skipworth says. "The legislature has constitutional power to provide for those out of employment. There is as much authority for unemployment insurance as there is for caring for the unfortunate in the various state institutions. The trend of the modern authority is to sustain unemployment insurance statutes. In my opinion there can be little sound argument sustaining the position that such a statute is unconstitutional."

The Pinnacle Packing company and other Rogue valley packing and grower interests attacked the Oregon law on two grounds: Constitutionality and applicability. The plaintiffs contending they were not subject to payment because they were engaged in agriculture and therefore exempt. Judge Skipworth first upheld the constitutionality of the law last week. Previously he had ruled the plaintiffs were not exempt because they were engaged in a packing industry.

Press, Mayor Carson Rapped. Oregon was pictured as a "power-ridden state" and the restriction of public ownership of power was blamed upon "reactionary newspapers and public officials," two of whom were identified as Governor Martin and Mayor Joseph Carson, Portland.

"They have done nothing to stimulate the organization of power districts," Gill said. Claiming that the state department of agriculture "has not rendered as much service to the farmer as we have a right to expect," Gill recommended that the director be elected by the people because "under the present 'set-up' the governor has entirely too much to say relative to the department policies."

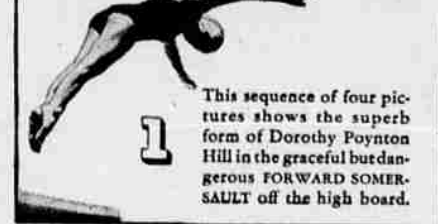

The entrance of corporate interests into farming was viewed as a threat to the existence of the small-size farm and the way to dictatorship and communism. A check upon it, said Gill, would be a classified program of taxation in accordance with the size of farms.

Asserting that even the government is permitting the sale of beer in CCC camps, Gill called for a campaign in schools against liquor evils. Opposition was registered against tax exemption of homes, Gill claiming that an investigation he made indicated such action would add 15 per
