Ye Smudge Pot

Citizens, flinch about the weather. Have started to demand: "When will it start to warm up?" It will about the time they demand "When will it start to cool off?"

"WILSONS MARRIED 25 YEARS: ARE SURPRISED"—(Del Norte (Cal). Tripartite headline)—So rolls the world.

Just by way of change in the daily accounts of the world flight of Amelia Earhart, it would be interesting to read some evening the aviatrix had helped wash the supper dishes, while overnight at Abu Haljer.

The private secretary of the Governor is now listed as a possible candidate to oppose Cong. Mott next spring in the primary. Has a Democrat, at least with no desire to be appointed to a federal judgeship, or administrator of Bonneville Dam.

JUST AS TRUE TODAY! (Kansas City Star) "When we read the speeches of certain congressmen we recall the remark of Tom Reed of Maine, a long speaker of the House. 'Every time the gentleman from Texas speaks,' Reed said, 'he subtracts from the sum total of human knowledge.'"

E. Ulrich, the Prospect m.w.m. towned Monday. Mr. Ulrich umpires all baseball games, and is a valuable ex-officio member of the team. Some of his decisions cause him to be cursed, worse than a Portland New Dealer curses Charles Egan Hughes.

An upstate motorcyclist reported a motorist beat him up after a collision, and then went on his way. There are several angles to a case like this, including the one, it is punishment enough to ride a motorcycle.

The polls will be open next Friday from 1 to 8 o'clock at the special p.v.e.m.t. bond election. These are the hours then the fish bite best, and the sun shines just right on the golf links.

A rainbow graced the southern horizon Sunday. It bore a general resemblance to the one Mike Womack, the mining magnate, has been chasing for 40 years.

GRASS (Printed by request of several—including our own) "Next in importance to the divine profusion of water, light, and air, these three physical facts which render existence possible, may be reckoned the universal beneficence of grass. Living in the sunshine among the buttercups and dandelions of May, scarcely higher in intelligence than those minute tenants of that mimic wilderness, our earliest recollections are of grass, and when the fitful fever is ended and the foolish wrangle of the market and the forum is closed, grass heals over the scars which our descent into the bosom of the earth has made, and the carpet of the infant becomes the blanket of the dead."

"Banned from the thoroughfare and fields, it hides its time to return, and when the vigilance is relaxed or the dynasty has perished, it silently resumes the throne from which it has been expelled but which it never abdicates. It bears no blasphemy of bloom to charm the senses with fragrance or splendor, but its homely hue is more enchanting than the lily or the rose. It yields no fruit in earth or air, yet should its harvest fail for a single year famine would depopulate the world."—(John J. Ingalls)

A New Deal in Europe?

TODAY is war-debt non-payment day (that is except for Finland).

The debtors don't know it—yet, but the program from this side of the Atlantic may be a little different from now on. The United States is warming up to a new neighbor in Europe. Our defaulting friends may soon find that this means that we are cooling off toward them.

Officially, it is now being admitted in Washington that the objectives of the so-called "Oslo group"—Belgium, the Netherlands, Luxemburg, Finland, Denmark, Sweden and Norway—"coincide with our own." These nations are banding together to promote prosperity through better trade relations. (Belgium is the only war-debtor in this group. Finland is the only one of all the debtors to have a clear record of payments.)

What isn't admitted around Washington is that there is definite sympathy in the White House and state department for closer ties with the Oslo group. The invitation to Premier Paul Van Zeeland of Belgium, now on the high seas, to call at 1600 Pennsylvania avenue is part of the evidence.

MR VAN Zeeland is coming here to get an honorary degree from Princeton. It isn't expected that there will be an epochal announcement following his "side trip" to Washington. But the visit is enough. The former Princetonian is slated to succeed Dutch Premier Colijn as head of the Oslo powers.

Things have not gone far enough for the United States and its "new neighbor" to enter into formal agreements. But the new relationship is highly important for two main reasons: It gives this country a chance to cooperate in world affairs with an out-and-out neutral group at a time when the feeling for neutrality is strong in America.

It gives us greater diplomatic independence in showing Great Britain and France that we are not compelled to work exclusively with them if we want to avoid the "dictatorships." Closer trade relations with the Oslo group may make the British government more conciliatory toward a reciprocal trade agreement with this country, as some of our friends among the dominions have been telling London it should be.—A. B.

Menace of Dictatorship

RECENT news from abroad underlined in striking fashion one reason why dictatorships are unhealthy. They are secret Governments. They keep the world in a state of turmoil and alarm because they are able to operate without debate and without publicity. Nobody can be sure why they act or what they are going to do next. A dictator may be a statesman, abler than his contemporaries and working for the benefit of his own country; he would still be an international danger. In the past he might have functioned in his own domain without upsetting neighboring nations; today everything he does must be felt everywhere. There can be no two opinions about the peril of having on this small and sensitive planet men with absolute power over millions of people who are capable of moving without warning or explanation.

FROM Moscow comes fresh evidence of the extent of the extraordinary purge of the ruling class of the Soviet Union. What is known of the shake-up and the trials for treason in the upper ranks of the Red Army, the dismissal of directors and officers in the State trusts, the demotion and arrests of responsible officials and party leaders is only what the Government itself publishes. It is impossible to ascertain how much more goes on behind the scenes or what it all means. Do treachery and sabotage honeycomb the system on the scale indicated by this wholesale liquidation? Surmises of a military coup are discounted by foreign observers, but dispatches from London and Paris describe the British and French Governments as baffled. These unexplained and inexplicable developments are more than baffling. Uncertainty as to the true state of great country is definitely disturbing.

THIS international aspect of dictatorship suggests why it is not simply a domestic problem. There are limits to the truth that the form of government one nation chooses is not the business of other nations. Dictatorship, as at present exercised, is not only a method of internal rule but also a method of foreign policy which by its nature prevents normal relations between States and affects the safety and stability of the world.—New York Times the balance wheel, not "conservative" in the sense of old-time Republican conservatism, but by comparison with the left wing advisers of the president, Wallace, Iokos, Hopkins, Cohen, Corcoran and Miss Perkins. In fact, he was just about the only important conservative influence left, as the earlier ones have gone on their "vacations" one by one during the last four years.

While things, after the April 20 message on economy, the legislative leaders were arranging things on that basis, and blocking extra-budgetary expenditures. But since that time, these following extra-budgetary things have occurred:

The navy, stating its approval of P. D. R., has recommended to congress an auxiliary ship and shore station program, to cost about $75,000,000.

The president recommended a $160,000,000 merchant marine program.

The president made no fight to prevent the senate from adding funds to start the $114,000,000 TVA (Gilbertville (Ky.) dam).

More funds for flood control were denied by the White House originally, but Mr. R. finally accepted a compromise to spend $45,000,000 of WPA money on flood control.

Agriculture Secretary Wallace presented a farm program, estimated to cost anywhere from $280,000,000 to $700,000,000, with some estimates running above a billion. (White P. D. R. said he favored some farm legislation, apparently he is not for the whole Wallace program.)

The president has announced himself for small Wagner housing and farm tenancy legislation, neither of which is in the budget.

The fact of this matter seems to be the economy movement was concerted largely for effect on the government bond market, just for the duration of that recent spring unemployment.

BERIBERI IN NORTH AMERICA

Beriberi, endemic polyneuritis or multiple neuritis is a chronic disease prevalent in tropical and subtropical countries, sometimes in this country, altho probably many cases in this country are never recognized.

Her illness was multiple neuritis, alcoholic. She had been living on alcohol—and desiring and taking less food, or perhaps rejecting food when she did take it. All she wanted was another drink, and she could still consume enough alcohol to keep her alive.

What cured the polyneuritis, the beriberi? Vitamin B, of course. The last doctor made the patient take several ounces of wheat germ daily—first steamed or boiled a few minutes into a mush or porridge, later in various breads, biscuits, cakes, and raw mixed with orange or tomato juice or other beverage. Each ounce of wheat germ contains approximately 350 units of vitamin B. Normal daily ration of vitamin B for healthy adult is perhaps 800 to 900 units.

QUESTION AND ANSWERS Adam's Apple What causes so called Adam's Apple? How can it be removed or lessened to some degree? How long will it take? (G.F.)

ANSWER—Prominence of the cricoid cartilage of the larynx or voice-box. It would be less prominent if the posture were corrected by suitable exercise and additional weight were accumulated.

Spinal Curvature G.M. 33, slight congenital lateral curvature. When this was discovered ten years ago was advised not to carry anything heavy. Now wish to work as a canvasser, requiring that I carry case weighing ten pounds or more, several hours a day, from door to door. What would you suggest? (M.M.)

ANSWER—Probably it will not be a strain now. Why not divide the load into two cases, and carry one in each hand? Or at least change every minute or so from one hand to the other.

Flake White Read that flake white, used with glycerin and rose water, as liquid face powder, may cause lead poisoning, rheumatism, etc.? (M.H.)

All she wanted was another drink, and she could still consume enough alcohol to keep her alive. If such existence can be called living—helpless, useless in burden and a shame to her nearest and dearest. I said this was a typical Yankee case.

jeantly out of the mellow old Murray Hill hotel every late afternoon, epic and boutonniere, for his promenade. Once editor of the famous Valentine's Manual, he is an authority on the manners of the gay and golden 90's. There was a day not so many years ago when for him life formed a thick green seam. First page headlines told of the poignant period in relating his transfer to a mental asylum. For three years existence was a blank as the result of a complete nervous breakdown. He tells it all in an autographed copy he has just sent me, titled, "A Mind Mislaid." It was interesting to me that the first time Brown laughed upon being restored to normalcy was upon reading Harry Leon Wilson's Ruggles of Red Gap. He laughed uproariously, and at the same time knew he was again well.

For sleepless stretches there is nice clean fun in making up a few of these: It is never too late to spoil the broth. Money makes the world go round. It's an ill wind that makes the mare go. Necessity is the mother of a rolling stone. Where there's a will, turn the other cheek. All work and no play makes strange bedfellows. After about a dozen of them you drift off into dreamless slumber. Or give up, get dressed and go over to the Stork Club. (Copyright, 1937, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

PUBLICITY URGED FOR TAX EVADERS; DITTO SPENDERS

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(AP)—A policy of disclosing names of alleged tax dodgers received approval today from two leaders of the congressional tax inquiry.

"Why not let the country know?" asked Chairman Harrison (D. Miss.) of the senate finance committee. Chairman Doughton (D. N. C.) of the house ways and means committee expressed agreement. Both had just been to the White House to confer with President Roosevelt.

Secretary Morgenthau probably will be the first witness when testimony starts tomorrow. Informed persons predicted the inquiry will center on the returns of millionaires and near-millionaires, especially those on a secret treasury list of alleged tax dodgers.

Senator Vandenberg (R. Mich.), in a statement, linked the tax inquiry with what he termed federal "waste and extravagance."

"Let's catch the tax dodgers, but let's not let the tax spenders go scot free." He said tax exempt securities provide the biggest tax loophole, and that other tax avoidance by comparison is "picken feed."
