

"Cafe Metropole" With Loretta Young and Tyrone Power at Craterian

ADOLPHE MENJOU IN BRILLIANT SUPPORT ROMANTIC PICTURE

A gay and lighthearted Continental romance, luxuriant as orchids on ermine, smart as the Rue de la Paix, merry as the third glass of champagne, romantic as moonlight on the Seine, "Cafe Metropole" opens a three-day run today at the New Craterian theater with Loretta Young, Tyrone Power and Adolphe Menjou in the starring roles.

"Cafe Metropole" gets off to a lively start in the smart Parisian spot of that name, where, presiding suavely over his restaurant, Adolphe Menjou seems untroubled by the possibility that auditors will arrive in a few days and discover that the cafe accounts are short the 480,000 francs which he has borrowed.

More interesting, to him, is the fact that a rich American patron, Charles Winninger, is arriving with his sister, Helen Westley, and his daughter, Loretta Young, and wishes a table reserved for every night. Thus, when Menjou wins enough at baccarat to cover his borrowings, and finds that his slim, handsome young opponent, Tyrone Power, has not the money to cover his losses, he can force Tyrone, upon threat of exposure to the police, to masquerade as his Highness, Prince Alexis Panatoff, in a scheme to win the affections of the lovely Loretta and a marriage settlement from her father.

To tell more of the plot would be to ruin the climax for ambitious movie-goers, but the fact leaks through that Tyrone and Loretta are united together after many hectic incidents, etc.

Vice Expose Film With Bette Davis On Rialto Screen

Following on the heels of recent sensational headlines which ripped the lid off one of the most amazing vice syndicates in this country, comes now a modern Hollywood motion picture that dares to tell the truth and reveals with astounding frankness the vicious working of the giant octopus that destroys the happiness of many an American woman and home. A very unusual and decidedly different picture is "Marked Woman," which opens a three-day run at the Rialto theater today with Bette Davis in the starring role.

Packing a terrific dramatic wallop, "Marked Woman" is entertainment of the highest calibre. The plot of the film concerns the millions of innocent women who are subjected each year to the torcherous orgies and seduced to the vice rackets. In this picture, Bette Davis plays one of the countless women who are swept up each year to serve in vice headquarters and "clip joints." Eduardo Ciannelli, the smooth villain in pictures, takes over the night club where Miss Davis is hostess and turns it into a closed door "clip joint," and forces her to help, with her hostesses, rob the patrons by luring them into the gambling and vice rooms.

When a patron of the night club is killed by one of Ciannelli's "henchmen," a city-wide protest against the racketeers gathers force. Humphrey Bogart, as the young attorney, arrests and prosecutes the gang. Aided by Bette, who turns against Ciannelli's gang when her sister is murdered, he is able to break up the racketeering mob and set free the imprisoned hostesses.

As the hard and cynical hostess whose vulnerable point is her devotion to her sister, Bette Davis turns in a performance that is due to top even her "Dangerous," for which she won the award. Besides Miss Davis, Bogart and Ciannelli, the cast also includes Isabel Jewell, Allen Jenkins, Lola Lane, Raymond Hatton and

"Captain's Courageous" Coming to Craterian

Of the masterpieces written by the great English writer, Rudyard Kipling, "Captains Courageous" the stirring tale of the Gloucester fishermen who pick up a boy who has fallen from an ocean liner and change the course of his whole life, is conceded to be the most widely known and the greatest. The producers have given their entire resources to the ambitious filmization of the Kipling epic and bring it to the screen with an all-star cast headed by Spencer Tracy, Freddie Bartholomew, Lionel Barrymore, Melvyn Douglas and Mickey Rooney. The film, previously filling roadshow engagements throughout the country, will start a three-day run at the New Craterian theater Thursday at regular prices.

Henry O'Neill. It is an amazingly told story, full of heart throbs and intense dramatic situations.

"The Wildcatter," a daring story laid in the oil fields, plays as the added feature with "Marked Woman." Scott Colton and Jean Rogers co-star.

Johnson Receiving Cherries Tomorrow

Edgar Johnson announced Saturday that he will start receiving cherries tomorrow at the Peeries Market. Johnson says he has made arrangements with one of the largest houses in California, with branches in several states, to take all of the local cherries available.

They are especially anxious to get all of the Bing and Lambert possible. These cherries, due to the fact that very few are used in canning, often become a drug on the local market, according to Johnson.

Wards Plan Parade For Bicycle Riders As Saturday Event

I love a parade! Who doesn't? Everybody does. What parade? In this case the Montgomery Ward, Medford, bicycle parade with the bikes all dressed up and the riders, too.

That's really the idea of the parade, in fact—to dress up both yourself and your bike, and go wheeling down the street with several hundred other riders, and perhaps win a prize of $5, $3 or $2 in Montgomery Ward merchandise for the first, second or third best decorated bike.

The parade takes place next Saturday June 26. It starts a 10 a.m. from 8th and Central, then travels along the following route, South Central to Sixth street, left to Ivy, left to Main and right to South Central.

The only requirement for entering the parade is to register at the Ward store, 117 South Central. Any kind of bicycle can be ridden. Any kind of decoration can be employed. Ingenuity as well as beauty will be considered in awarding the prizes. Last year "flics" ranged from quaint Colonial ladies to "ocean going" vessels. The judges will be warned beforehand that the imagination of the paraders will probably run wild.

Age is no bar to entering the parade and the contest for best decorated bikes. Prize winners in similar Montgomery Ward parades in other cities have been of all ages—one of them was five years old. Another gave her age as 110 and carried off first honors. It is expected that the majority of paraders will be boys and girls, but the parade and contest are not limited to them. Bicycling itself is becoming increasingly popular with adults, and plans for the parade have taken that into consideration.

Judges who will award the prizes will be announced later.

Here Wednesday

Between Lee Tracy, the star, and Diana Gibson, the comely newly-promoted leading lady who is featured opposite him, a romance runs the length of their gay, high-pressure picture, "Behind the Headlines," but its flavor is more often acrimonious than sweet, until it ends on a final tender note. Tracy is a radio news reporter, and Diana Gibson is a girl newspaper reporter who is his chief rival. The screen-drama is packed with highly exciting incidents and tense action.

"Behind the Headlines" plays at the Rialto theater Wednesday and Thursday with "League of Frightened Men," featuring Walter Connolly and Lionel Stander as the added feature. "The League of Frightened Men" is a new Nero Wolfe detective mystery.

Craterian Drama

Victor Moore and Beulah Bondi are granddaddy and grandma in "Make Way for Tomorrow," a timely story of American family life which comes to the New Craterian theater for Wednesday only. The story deals with the "revolt of the younger generation," as typified by Barbara Read, and the clash in ideas between Barbara's bridge-playing mother and the generation presented by her parents. There are many heart-throbs in the picture which includes in its cast such prominent players as Fay Bainter, Louise Beavers, Porter Hall, Gene Lockhart, Thomas Mitchell and a supporting cast of over fifty names. The story was written by Vina Delmar, sensational author of "Bad Girl."

RUSSIAN HERESY HUNT DENOUNCED

MOSCOW, June 19.—(AP)—Demonstrations poured into Moscow without sign of a let-up today in the vast heresy hunt that has racked more than 100 convicted wanderers before firing squads and many thousands in jails and labor camps.

The latest indications of executions were from Middle Asia where seven persons were reported condemned for alleged wrecking of locomotives in the shops of the Middle Asian railway. The reports indicated an undisclosed number of others also might have been condemned.

Accusations and reports of speedy convictions and executions have been disclosed in Moscow almost daily since the secret court martial and death last week of eight cashiered generals of the red army.
