Wall St. Report

New York, June 28.—(AP)—A further decline in rails found the stock market vulnerable today and losses of fractions to 2 or more points followed an early rally.

Disappointment in some financial circles over carrier earnings trends paved the way for selling in rails. Meanwhile, despite the back-to-work movement at strike-affected steel mills, Wall Street said continued disputes between workers and employers cast a shadow over the industrial profit outlook. Weakness in bonds also discouraged traders, it was said.

Transactions approximated 650,000 shares.

TRIAL OF CANNON OPENS WEDNESDAY

Nelson Cannon, charged with involuntary manslaughter, in an accident in which Francis Lee Heryford, 16, sustained fatal injuries, when the bicycle on which he was riding was struck by a car driven by Cannon, is scheduled to start in circuit court Wednesday. The accident occurred last April on Riverside avenue, about 11 o'clock at night.

No date has been set for the retrial of Eldon Miller, Klamath tribe member, charged with contributing to the delinquency of a 16-year-old Ashland girl. The court last Friday night declared a mis-trial, when neither the defendant nor his counsel appeared, until more than an hour after the jury was ready to report. The court rebuked one of Miller's counsel, and ordered Miller held in the county jail without trusty privileges, pending new trial. Miller was arrested by Sheriff Syd I. Brown, as he was entering the courtroom. He had been auto riding with friends.

WILL START USE OF STORED WATER

Use of irrigation storage water in the Rogue River valley will start this week according to Olen Arnspiger, general irrigation manager for the Medford and Talent districts. Warm weather of the past two days has brought this about, and the creek flow is now running in the irrigation ditches. Arnspiger said the storage supply was normal. He predicted an "irrigation year."

Irrigation is now underway in some orchards and truck gardens and where the first cutting of hay has been made.

The warm weather was welcomed as a deterrent for blight, ripening of cherries and hay curing.

Charles Boyer and Jean Arthur Score Hit At Craterian

Charles Boyer and Jean Arthur, a fascinating new pair of screen lovers, tripped into town last night in a film romance as fresh and smart and charming as the Paris in which it blooms.

The occasion was "History is Made at Night," now at the New Craterian, and this story fairly sparkles with bright, gay, flippant dialogue that we wager you'll be quoting for weeks.

The handsome Boyer has never been seen to better advantage than as Paul Dumond, Paris man about town and glorified head waiter, and lovely Jean Arthur is also at her charming best as Irene Vail, the New York mannequin who yearns to break the bonds of her unhappy marriage to the jealous, domineering shipping magnate, played by Colin Clive.

The story opens on a novel note, with Paul, the handsome and mysterious stranger, playing knight errant to Irene when her husband sends his chauffeur (Ivan Lebedeff) to her hotel suite to compromise her so she'll be compelled to drop her divorce proceedings. Paul floors the chauffeur, carries off Irene and a glorious romance is begun as these two fascinating and fascinated strangers dine and tango 'til dawn in the smart Paris cafe where Paul is, unknown to Irene, head waiter. The ever-reliable Leo Carrillo provides another grand portrayal as Cesare, the temperamental chef of the cafe.

A tragic note is introduced when Irene arrives home and finds that Paul's blow has killed the chauffeur. Now Vail feels he can force her to drop her divorce proceedings to save the handsome stranger.

She returns to New York with him, but finds she cannot remain with Vail, and takes a job as a mannequin.

Paul, meanwhile, has pursued her to New York, where he and Cesare take over a fashionable cafe, Victor's Irene, learning she is wanted in Paris in regard to the murder, offers to return with Vail to help save Paul. But when he takes her to Victor's for dinner and she sees that Paul is free, the lovers are reunited and plan to return to Paris together aboard Vail's new crack luxury liner and save the prisoner who is being unjustly held there.

One of the most unexpected and amazing climaxes in screen history follows—one that it would be unfair to reveal here—and the story ends on a happy note.

Jane Withers Now On Rialto Scren

The Rialto theatre fairly rocked with laughter yesterday. The occasion? The all-comedy twin bill that has little Miss Dynamite, otherwise known as Jane Withers, in what is unquestionably her funniest picture, "Angel's Holiday". And, as if that weren't enough, "Hotel Haywire", playing as the added feature, takes up where Jane leaves off.

With a gleam in her eye, "Ginger" Jane takes a day off, teaching the neighbors how to put the "holler" into holiday and routing a riot squad with its own tear gas in a grand free-for-Jane hilarity spree which, despite its torrent of mischief, works out well for the young lovers involved, Robert Kent and Sally Blane. Joan Davis, in one of the chief supporting roles, adds no little to the fun with his sarcastic wise-cracks.

With nine comedians turned loose in one picture, such as happens in Hotel Haywire", something should happen—and plenty does. This hilarious mixture of slapstick and sophisticated comedy is the story of an astrologer, played to the hilt by Leo Carrillo, who breaks up happy homes so that his detective bureau might flourish.

Some of the better known players in the cast include Lynne Overman and Spring Byington as husband and wife, Benny Baker as a detective, Mary Carlisle and John Patterson as the young romancers, George Barbier, Porter Hall, Chester Conklin and Teddy Hart.

Much of the shrimp gathered in the United States is sent to Japan for army rations as a preventive against diseases.
