Ye Smudge Pot: The state liquor control board has ordered the elimination of dancing.

Social welfare workers allege "the young people of today are not as quiet as the young people of olden days used to be."

The Safety League of America protests autists "placfully pretending to run over a peddler on a sidewalk."

UNCLES COURAGEOUS: (Sommes Bar (Calif.) Items) "Charley Talcot, that good old gray patriarch of Cecilville, came out to Elma Tuesday and had all his back teeth pulled."

Buttermilk is being swigged extensively as a summer drink. It is also mixed with honey, to keep the sunburned feminine nose from peeling.

G. Fabrick, whose laundry burned down, is rapidly ironing out the problems of getting started again.

The countryside swarms with juvenile hunters. As yet no reports have been recorded describing the shooting of a police dog for a wolf.

Luck smiled on a townswan last evening. He hit a pinball jack-pot for $750—and, not a creditor in sight.

The upstate press recounts how a gent with $230 bought a drink for a lady, and both the lady and his $230 are now elsewhere. This somewhat sad incident brought forth editorial comment about the quick disappearance of a fool and his money.

There is no change in the Ashland earwig situation. Give an earwig an inch and he'll take a yard.

The Oregon Democracy continues to battle fluently among themselves over nothing in particular, and everything in general. It should cease, say the Republican patriots who have registered Democratic to vote for Governor Martin in the 1938 primary, because of their former political inactivity.

During the lull between the cherry and the apricot canning, a number of the Older Girls have started hem-stitching things for Christmas.

Mermaids are now flocking to the swimming holes. It is thought they could wash more supper dishes. If the springboard was attached to the kitchen sink.

"Let's start talking about something else—something like 'Oregon's unmatched native beauty' as it once existed and how speedily our highway system permits one to dash through the wreckage." (Bend Bulletin)—Tut! Tut! You've said something!

The Jap-Chinese imbroglio is listed as "a threat to world peace" and Great Britain announces its intention to prevent the "spread of the Spanish war" by fleet mobilization.

"In the Midst of Life"

DEATH struck heavily night before last. Ex-Governor Meier passed away in Portland. In Washington, D. C., Senator Joe Robinson, Democratic leader, was found dead at his home.

To those familiar with the facts, Governor Meier's death was not unexpected. Toward the last of his term as governor he was a very sick man. He had never fully recovered, and for several weeks his condition had been growing steadily worse.

The death of Senator Robinson on the other hand, struck the country like a bolt from the blue. As far as was generally known, he had been enjoying his usual good health.

Both deaths can be added to the steadily soaring totals that place heart trouble, at the head of this country's mortality list. Both testify to the truth of the Prayer Book adjuration:

"In the midst of life we are in death."

EX-GOVERNOR MEIER will be sincerely mourned in Medford and Jackson county. He was a loyal friend and a tower of strength, during one of the most serious crises, this section of the state ever faced.

But beneath an exterior accepted as typical of the big business man, and a manner that even suggested a cold and calculating ruthlessness, ex-Governor Meier, was at heart, both a sentimentalist and a square shooter.

JULIUS MEIER was very human, and like most humans he made mistakes. Practically all of them could be ascribed to the conflicting elements in his character.

The present writer had several experiences in this direction, some of them pleasant and satisfactory, others the reverse. But we can say THIS: when Governor Meier thoroughly understood any situation,—had ALL the facts,—he never to our knowledge did the wrong thing,—he always did what was right and in the public interest.

SENATOR JOE ROBINSON just missed true greatness. He had a good mind, the fighting heart of a lion, and a loyalty that was as strong as it was unselfish.

That intense loyalty hastened, if it did not directly cause, his sudden death. It was no secret that the senator's heart was not in the Supreme Court fight.

One can only wish such self-sacrificing ardor, might have been devoted to a better cause. But that would not have been "Fighting Joe of Arkansas", the faithful, stalwart, somewhat unimaginative, veteran of the Democratic general staff.

THE very quality that he lacked however, was responsible for the high esteem in which he was held, by friend and foe alike. There wasn't a harder fighter in the upper house, a more uncompromising foe when his party was concerned, but no member was more highly respected, nor more universally beloved.

NOT a great man, but an able, and a good one. He will be mourned, by all the country, by political friend and foe alike, and in his death President Roosevelt lost a loyal and devoted friend, his party a self sacrificing and courageous supporter, whose place,—for the time being at least,—will be impossible to fill.

Personal Health Service

By William Brady, M. D.

Signed letters pertaining to personal health and hygiene not to disease diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Letters should be brief and written in ink.

DIETETICS IS STILL A GOOD LINE: At the dawn of the twentieth century the practice of dietetics consisted of tearing off printed lists of foods the patient could or could not eat.

Each revision gave the chronic something to talk about at the supper party or the sewing circle, something less blessed dyspeptic had not yet learned. Consequently the less blessed ones quietly resolved to visit the doctor and brush up a bit so they should not be so dumb next time anyone sounded off on the subject of diet.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS: Is it precipitated chalk the same as the calcium carbonate you recommend in place of sodium bicarbonate for relief of acidity of stomach? Druggist sold it to us in powder form, but only directions say it is for removing spots from delicate fabrics.

My husband has implicit faith in whatever you say... our baby boy circumcised. (Mrs. M. A.) Answer—I should advise circumcision only when it is necessary for cleanliness or to relieve obstruction.

Most folk around Grand Central know "Ear Drop" Carrie, who until now has been a professional beggar operating in the neighborhood. She had perfect control of her tacts and her speciality was moving through the depot, a forlorn, bedraggled, hooded Nobe, weeping as though all hope had been abandoned.

NEW YORK Daily by Day: NEW YORK, July 15.—Every large metropolitan hotel must deal with what are known as "H. G.'s"—hysteria guests.

There are also several who insist there shall be no other passengers on elevators in which they ride. And there are still others who will not ride in an elevator under any circumstances and refuse to live above the first floor. Thus they may walk. Also people who must be screened off, dining in public.

Topsy Turvy world: Kathleen Norcia, who is not at all a royalist, attended the London coronation, while two of her nephews were fighting in Spain for the royalists.

Incidentally, choice quartette material has been salvaged among depot red caps. They have much leisure to practice on the platforms, away from the crowds between trains thundering in. Five crack quartettes of the radio and two of Hollywood cabarets had the genesis in the big terminals. The red cap in the metropolis is a gentleman of importance among his folk. Socially he is elevated to the "dickies." Next to Pullman portering, it is considered the very top calling. Bert Williams used to loaf among the red caps and found much material in their constant banter.

Among male writers who know how to wield a wicked skillet are Robert H. Davis, Ford Madox Ford, S. S. Van Dine, Edison Marshall and, of course, Montagu Glass. Another who could don a chef's cap and perform the role successfully is Ted Saucier, the Waldorf press agent. Walter Chrysler, Jr., has also been known to flop up a tasty spread for visitors at his bachelor apartment.
