

Budge Rallies To Defeat German - U.S. Wins Right To Play Britain

VON CRAMM WINS FIRST TWO SETS IN HECTIC DUEL

Bitsy Grant Falls Victim to Stroking of Henkel - Victory for Budge Gives U. S. 3 Matches to 2

WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 20.—(AP)—In one of the most dramatic matches in Davis Cup history, Don Budge, the California red-head, spotted Baron Gottfried von Cramm two sets and then beat him today, 6-3, 6-7, 6-4, 6-2, 6-6, in the fifth and deciding match of the inter-zone finale between the United States and Germany.

Budge's victory sent the United States into the challenge round against Great Britain.

Teuton in Form. Budge, heavily favored over von Cramm whom he beat in straight sets in the all-England finals recently, found the titled Teuton at the height of his game and had to play the tennis of his life to emerge with the victory.

Victorious over the Germans, three matches to two, the American team will face Great Britain in the challenge round starting Saturday.

The Americans will be heavily favored for the British will be without the services of Fred Perry, now a professional, and George Patrick Hughes, who is ill.

Best Chance for U. S. The Americans thus are confronted with their best chance in years of regaining the coveted international trophy lost to the French at Germantown, Pa., in 1927.

Budge's triumph over the graceful, handsome von Cramm came after Henrich Henkel, second-string Teuton singles player, had crushed Bryan M. (Bitsy) Grant, tiny Atlanta, 7-5, 2-6, 6-3, 6-4, in the first of the closing day's matches and brought Germany up on even terms with the Americans at two victories-all.

It was Grant's second setback of the series—the bowed to von Cramm in Saturday's opening match, 6-3, 6-4, 6-2.

Budge won both his singles starts, beating Henkel on Saturday, 6-2, 6-1, 6-3, and teaming up with Gene Mako of Los Angeles to annex the vital point in doubles with a 4-6, 7-5, 8-6, 6-4 victory yesterday.

33 CCC MEMBERS PASS RED CROSS LIFE-SAVING TEST

Thirty-three CCC members of the Medford district qualified as senior life-savers in the Red Cross life-saving and first aid school held at Medford and Ashland last week.

The school was climaxed Saturday night by a water carnival and first aid demonstration and at that time the men were awarded their Red Cross life-savers' insignia.

Seth M. Bullis, chairman for first aid instruction for the American Red Cross in Jackson county, addressed the group at the formal ceremonies Saturday evening and impressed on the men the value of their life-saving studies. The men will return to their camps and conduct similar schools.

Maj. George R. Owens, commander of the Medford district, assisted by his daughter, Dawn, presented the men with their life-savers' insignia. Capt. William C. Ryan, district athletic officer, was in charge of the carnival. Lieut. Henry H. Marsden, Jr., and Lieut. Marcus H. Muller conducted the school. Both hold Red Cross life-saving certificates.

Robert J. Singleton of Camp Silver Lake was rated first in the district school with a percentage of 98.5.

UNVEILED DRAGON LOSES MATCH BY PERSISTENT FOULS

Frankie Stojack was really no match for the powerful and unmasked Black Dragon last night at the high school stadium, but because the latter was even more villainous, than ever before, the ex-Washington State college football star was awarded the verdict in two straight falls.

Twice, in that tough main event, the Black Dragon clamped down with his devastating Boston crab hold and twice Referee Sam Kohlen handed the fall to Stojack when the mischievous fighter refused to break the hold when told.

Both tumbles came after extremely dirty work on the part of the Dragon and heroic defensive maneuvers on the part of Stojack. Outweighed by nearly 20 pounds, Stojack put up a great fight against his superior opponent, but finally foiled before a vicious onslaught of punches, eye-gouging, hair-pulling, finger-twisting and painful hammerlocks. The first fall came after 11 minutes, with the Dragon roughing Stojack into the Boston crab and bouncing long after Kohlen had signified the tumble. When the Dragon refused to break, the ref awarded the fall to Stojack, which was right up the huge crowd's alley. The second and final fall was a duplication of the first, with Kohlen again holding Stojack's mitt when the Dragon insisted on trying to break Frankie's back.

Jack LaRue, the Frenchman from Kansas City, Kas., fell before the sensational "Indian paralyser" of Frankie Clemens after he had taken one fall in the third round with a hammerlock. Clemens, in the fourth frame, sonenberged back through the ropes, knocked LaRue flat to the carpet, and clamped on the payer-off.

After a couple of minutes of having his neck squeezed by Clemens' feet, LaRue was through for the evening. He was unable to continue and Clemens was awarded the fall, and match.

Even in defeat, LaRue looked like one of the best boys to appear here in a long time. He was extremely dirty, but he mixed it up with plenty of scientific grappling, his single and double hammerlocks being beautiful to behold. Until Clemens wound up the proceedings with his pet maneuver, LaRue was way out in front in points—if there is such a thing.

Carlos Rodriguez, the "hot tamale" from Mexico City, made his north-west debut in the opening event against Dale Haddock and beat him in two out of three falls, taking the first and third with clever step-over toe holds. Short and stocky and apparently knowing most of the answers, the Mexican took Haddock's dirt just so long, and then opened up himself. He proved he could lay it out, too. Haddock grabbed the second fall in the third round with a body press after foul punches.

Sammy Kohlen, the New York City Jew who wrestled last week, was third man in the ring last night, and turned out to be the most colorful referee ever seen locally. He kept things moving at a fast pace, and was extremely popular with the audience.

City police, during the middle event between LaRue and Clemens, hunted Harvey Earl Snider, 25, a taxicab driver, off to the city bastille after he had allegedly heaved an empty pint whiskey flask into the ringside seats from the grandstand. The bottle hit three persons.

402 ARE ENTERED IN CHICAGO OPEN

CHICAGO, July 20.—(AP)—A field of 402 players—218 professionals and 184 amateurs—was entered today in the $10,000 Chicago open golf tournament to be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the Medinah Country club.

Entries were closed last night, technically, but tourney officials indicated that a few additional shot-makers might be given permission to compete before teeing-off time.

Two courses will be used. Eighteen holes will be played Friday and another 18 Saturday for qualifying. The 50 low scores and ties among professionals and the 25 low scores and ties among amateurs will qualify for the 36-hole final Sunday over the difficult No. 3 layout.

Harry Cooper of Chicago, enjoying his most profitable season, is favored to win, but betting has been light in view of the numerous top-notch money-trail stars entered, including Horton Smith, Sam Snead, Jimmy Thompson, Open Champion Ralph Guldahl, F. G. A. Champion Denny Shute, Ky Laffoon, Henry Picard and scores of other luminaries.

McKenzie Pass Open. SALEM, July 20.—(AP)—The summit of McKenzie Pass, closed several days for oiling, was opened at noon today, the highway department said.
