ESTATE LOOTING PARTLY STOPPED CLAIMS HOLMAN

Dissipating of School Funds Gone On for Years, Says State Treasurer — Expenses Often Eat Estate

By PAUL W. HARVEY, Jr. SALEM, July 23. — (AP) — State Treasurer Rufus C. Holman, who has been trying to stop what he termed "looting the school fund," said today he has had considerable success.

He said the "looting" has been going on for years, but that there has been no serious effort to stop it. But the form of "looting" which Holman has been successful in checking is "pillaging of estates" left by persons who die without heirs. He said administrators, lawyers and undertakers have taken excessive fees out of these estates, which go into the common school fund, so that little is left for the state.

One of the most unusual cases occurred this week when the state received $3800 out of the $3000 estate left by a man who died in a state institution. Holman acted as administrator and the attorney general as attorney, both serving without fees.

The only expenses were $3 for publishing a notice to creditors, and $5 for publishing a notice of hearing on the final account.

About $500 went to the general fund for the patient's care at the institution. The rest went to the school fund.

Holman said the case was not typical, because he could not be so successful in the case of a person who did not die in a state institution.

Many times, he said, administrative expenses, attorney's fees, funeral expenses and other expenses eat up the entire estate. In almost all cases, Holman asserted, these fees and expenses are excessive.

LOYALISTS HURL INSURGENTS BACK ON MADRID FRONT

Troops of Both Factions Fighting Stubbornly—Artillery Bombardment Kills 15 Persons in Madrid

MADRID, July 23. — (AP) — Government troops today pushed back counter-attacking insurgents who have tried for six days to recapture the 100 square miles of territory lost on the front of besieged Madrid.

Each day insurgents have pounded at the newly-won government positions, with the heaviest fighting centering about "Hill 650." Government officers said late today the force of the attacks seemed spent.

Troops of both factions, however, were strongly entrenched and fighting stubbornly.

Madrid itself was thrown back abruptly to the grimace of siege when 15 persons were killed and a score were injured by two insurgent artillery bombardments within 24 hours.

Calm shattered.

After two weeks of comparative calm, while a tornado of offensive and counter-offensive raged over the hills and plains some 15 miles to the west, Madrid was jolted into sharp realization that a besieging army still is at her gates.

After a long artillery duel last night, confined to the outskirts of the capital, shells started dropping in Alcala street and Cibeles square.

One projectile killed eight persons. Great splashes of blood were still visible this morning on the pavement near the old ministry of war before workmen started scrubbing the sidewalk and clearing away the debris.

Spotted all over the central part of Madrid were fresh heaps of stones and bricks, and holes gaped in what were solid walls the day before.

The second bombardment, broadening the scenes of death and destruction, came this morning when several hundred shells plowed into the central parts of the capital along Gran Via, Madrid's "Broadway," and in the Chamber section near the United States embassy.

Loyal Guns Reply.

The government guns pumped a thundering reply to the shelling in the early hours. Artillery and aerial bombardments yesterday at Madrid and two small towns in central Spain took more than 60 lives and brought injuries to more than 150 persons.

With today's shelling of the capital, seven more deaths were reported.

Insurgents in the Brunete sector, tip of government Gen. Jose Miaja's salient west of Madrid, still were trying to push back the government

Clair Enos Clifton, accused by his wife and daughter of moral dereliction, and later exonerated by them in signed and sworn statements of repudiation, has returned to his clerical position with a local federal agency after spending ten days in the county jail.

District Attorney F. J. Newman said a motion dismissing the charge would be filed the first of next week.

Clifton, released on his own recognizance, informed the county authorities and his own counsel, George A. Coddling, "I will support my family but will not go near them again."
