CHINESE ADVANCE ON BOTH FLANKS OF NIPPON FORCE

Guns Roar at Woussing Opposing land forces hemming the international area seemed content to hold their lines while Japan's big guns, planes and landing parties roared in offensive tempo to the north about Woussing, at the conference of the Whangpoo, Shanghai's harbor, and the Yangtze.

I saw two Japanese airplane carriers anchored near Saddle Islands at the mouth of the Yangtze catapult planes after plane into the air to bomb Chinese machinegun positions near the Woussing shore.

In the midst of exploding bombs and artillery shells 212 Americans were evacuated aboard the liner President Pierce for Manila.

The battle raged down the Whangpoo and along the Yangtze. Japanese landed thousands of reinforcements. They were led by suicide detachments of the "white band of death."

The Japanese were driving in from the north to assault the Chinese left flank. Japanese army spokesmen declared reinforcements they landed in the Woussing area yesterday and today already had advanced at different points from one to two miles.

General Iwane Matsu, former commanding general on the island of Formosa, and a former member of the supreme war council, came out of retirement to take command of all Japanese forces in the Shanghai area.

Against the clear sky, Japanese sea and land planes emblazoned with the rising sun insignia darted over Chinese positions, dropping bombs and swooping down to blast machine gun bullets into the Chinese lines.

Lewis An Organizer Lewis Hillman and George L. Berry, president of the International Printing Pressmen's union, were the organizers. They were motivated by the A. F. of L.'s traditional refusal to endorse either the Republican or Democratic nominee.

The federation's political policy is to "support labor's friends and defeat its enemies" by sending to all local candidates' labor records.

Last year, the A. F. of L. did not even do that in the presidential campaign until a few weeks before the election.

The league was inactive for months after the election. It came to life a few weeks ago, after Lewis obtained Berry's resignation as president, and started a campaign for enactment of the Black-Connerly wage and hour bill.
