SCIENTIFIC PAIR MATCHED MONDAY FOR MAIN EVENT

Grappling fans who insist on their main events featuring two rough-neck alley-brawlers better stay away from Mack Lillard's weekly program at the high school arena next Monday evening. But, those customers who appreciate clean, scientific and sensational mat work may attend with confidence the knowledge that a pair of the flashiest and most orthodox boys in the game will be in there when the top event gets under way.

It will be Marshall Carter versus Toots Estes, and the most spiningling exhibition of the year is expected. Carter, blonde, stocky ex-wrestling instructor of the University of Missouri, made his first appearance in Medford last Monday against Dangerous Danny Savich, and what he didn't teach the hairy bed man has never been written in the better grappling books. Without an exception, Carter is the finest straight wrestler to ever step in a southern Oregon ring. While probably not so flashy as Estes, he is master of every hold and is sure to develop into one of Medford's most popular boys.

By virtue of his great win over Sammy Kohlen in last Monday's main event, Estes made firmer his claim as current number one man of the local circuit. While Carter was giving Savich a grappling lesson in the middle event, Estes was doing the same to the New York City Jew, Promoter Lillard, in matching the two, stated he sincerely believed the squabble would be the ultimate in orthodox action.

Savich, who gets dirtier week-by-week, will take a crack at Bobby Wagner in the middle event. Wagner also made his first appearance last Monday with a victory over Wild Man Zim. Halling from New Hampshire, Bobby is no slouch as a clean worker, himself.

Sailor Dick Trout returns after an absence of some time to test Wild Man Zim in the opener. The wild one has to date failed to hang up a victory and Promoter Lillard has intimated that if he didn't crack through for a win pretty soon, he might as well take his long, and curly blonde hair and screwy tactics to some other part of the country. Sailor Trout will do his best to speed Zim on his way.

Scientific

A clean, scientific grappler of the first water, Bobby Wagner (above) will face Dangerous Danny Savich in the middle event at the weekly program under the stars at the high school stadium next Monday night. Wagner hails from the rolling hills of New Hampshire and will be making his second showing before a local crowd.

and various miscellaneous expenses. A far-from-minor expense was the cost of electricity for the huge gymnasium. Hedrick estimated that the boys playing softball were using up $2.16 worth of power for every hour they performed. Several large globes burned out, also, and it was a $5 pop everytime one of them did just that.

On the other side of the picture were the increasingly large and enthusiastic crowds that wended their way to the stadium four nights a week. For a time, attendance hovered between 300 and 500 fans but, thanks to a ding-dong pennant race and excellent performances of several clubs, turnout skyrocketed until 1000 and more persons were witnessing the games. Final night of the district tournament, nearly 2000 roaring addicts were in the grandstand.

Also listed as assets to the program were Russ Acheson, Medford softball association manager, Jack Cummings, stadium ground-keeper, and Al Webb, ticket seller. All donated their services, were on hand every night, and cut expenses considerably. Hedrick himself, after not admitting it, worked heart and soul every evening. A man hired to do what Hedrick did would have cost plenty.

The city school superintendent particularly expressed his appreciation of the wonderful support and cooperation received from all team sponsors, business men and citizens who purchased season tickets, and fans themselves who, after all's said and done, make or break any athletic program. He stated that never had he witnessed finer and cleaner crowds than attended softball games this summer.

It is no secret that this year's softball season after the installation of an expensive lighting system was the first move in Hedrick's plan to create a complete recreational center at the high school field. With the softball business so apparently a success, he is more enthusiastic than ever. He is talking now of constructing an open-air swimming tank in the near future and has mentioned, among other improvements, lighted tennis courts and (whoopee), lighted night baseball.

There is no reason why those things can't be done. Softball this summer proved that Medfordites will go for athletics and recreation under the stars, and go in a large way. When those lights on the football field are all paid for, Hedrick can really bear down on other angles of the project. And, that will undoubtedly be after 1938.

GOLD BEACH PLANS ANGLING CONTEST HOLIDAY FEATURE

GOLD BEACH, Aug. 27.—(Sp.)—A special prize for the biggest fish that got away during the Labor day weekend fishing contest at Gold Beach was announced this week by the committee in charge of the contest. It was not stated just what conditions would be required in order to win this prize.

And for the fish that do not get away there will be substantial cash and merchandise awards provided. The exact amount of the prize for the largest fish has not yet been determined and probably will not be announced in advance as it will be made up in part from the nominal entrance fees collected from contestants during the two days. It is hoped by the committee that the major prize will be about $25.

Prizes announced, in addition to the largest fish and the largest fish that gets away, will include the largest fish caught by a woman, largest steelhead, largest total catch by one person in one day, largest total catch for two days, largest catch in one boat with not more than three lines. The fish must be caught lawfully on sporting tackle after the contestant has paid a nominal entrance fee. Satisfactory evidence of the catch must be given the committee. The contest is open to everyone.

Weighing stations will be provided at convenient locations so the winners will have no difficulty in entering their catches for the prizes.

There are plenty of boats on the Rogue to take care of a large crowd of contestants, but it will not be necessary to fish from a boat. There is plenty of room this year for casting from the bank at the mouth of the river and some fine large fish have been taken in that manner.

The contest will be held Sunday and Monday, September 5 and 6. During the evenings there will be dancing and gold rush games at the community hall.

SERAPHS AND SEALS AGAIN IN DEAD HEAT FOR THIRD POSITION

(By The Associated Press)

Los Angeles was tied again with the San Francisco Seals for third place in the Pacific Coast baseball league today as the circuit leadership remained status quo.

The Angels, with the aid of Steve Mesner who had a perfect night at bat, getting five for five, including a brace of two-baggers, gave the Oakland Aacorns their second straight licking 6 to 2, as Seattle broke into the win column for the first time in its series with the Seals to take a 3 to 2 decision.

Behind the two-hit pitching of Manuel Salvo, the San Diego Padres defeated Portland 1 to 0. It was their first win of the current series. The Beavers made both hits in the eighth inning.

Until their victory last night, the Padres had lost five in a row. They scored their lone and winning run in the second inning when George Detore singled, Ted Williams walked and both runners advanced as Cedric Durst grounded out at first. George McDonald was walked and the bases were loaded. Detore scored

WOMEN GOLFERS IN SEMI-FINALS

ST. PAUL, Aug. 27.—(P)—A new champion is in order for the 35th annual women's western golf tournament which reached the semi-final round today—although champions will be very much in evidence.

All remaining four players are champions in their own right, holding titles of other important events. Meeting in the upper bracket of the championship division today were Marion Miley of Cincinnati, winner recently for the third straight time of the women's western derby, and Marian McDougall of Portland, Ore., Pacific northwest titlist.

Pushed out of the competition yesterday in a tight battle by Miss Betty Jameson, San Antonio, Texas, was Dorothy Traung of San Francisco, who won the tournament a year ago by defeating Miss Beatrice Barrett of Minneapolis, 6 and 5, in the 36-hole final at South Bend, Ind. Miss Jameson dropped in a 12-foot putt for a birdie on the 18th hole to win, one up.

Miss McDougall also had a hard time gaining a decision by a similar margin over Patty Berg, the young Minneapolis red-head.

Billy Hulien Says:

Field Light Cost Half Paid in First Season of Usage

Medford's first season of softball under the lights at the high school stadium is history. Financially speaking, which is by far the most important language the program did right well by itself. Considerably better than a lot of citizens expected, in fact.

Because of excellent cooperation from the city and from the California Oregon Power company a $3000 lighting system was installed at a cost around $2300. Revenue gained from the sale of season tickets to 45 nights of the pastime, carrying admissions to all games at 10 cents per throw, rentals received from Mack Lillard for his weekly wrestling cards, and entry fees of $15 a team for 16 outfits totaled $1,677. Expenses will run in the neighborhood of $450. Simple subtraction, therefore, reveals that at least one-half the cost of the glimmers was cleared up the first year, which is nice going in anybody's league.

Authority for the above figures is E. H. Hedrick, city school superintendent and the man who hammered the program through to completion. He wears a broad grin these days, the result of this very satisfactory ending to Medford's initial summer of night softball. And, he doesn't doubt in the least that next year will see the complete payment of every dime still owing against the lighting system. When that is done, it will be clear sailing from then on, with the lights easily supporting themselves and much financial burden being removed from various persons' shoulders.

That total revenue figure of $1,677 is absolutely accurate, and includes the cash taken in during the two-day district tournament, which drew $132.30. Expenses for the tourney amounted to $89, and that is included in the total estimated expenses for operation of the program. A complete checkup hasn't been made. Hedrick stated, but the total liabilities for the year will be between $400 and $500, cost of equipment, supplies, ticket takers' mileage, allowance to teams in the district tourney.
