

MIDDLE WEST IS HARDEST HIT BY PARALYSIS WAVE

No Cause for Alarm Seen in Nationwide Survey—Number of Cases This Year Well Below Average

(By the Associated Press)
Infantile paralysis outbreaks this year, centering in the middle west, have resulted in closing of many schools and other places where children congregate, but in general have shown no cause for alarm, it was disclosed today in a nation-wide survey by the Associated Press.

The disease, nearly always most serious in the late summer and early fall, appeared to be most prevalent in Illinois, Wisconsin, Mississippi and Nebraska.

Below Average
In most sections reporting increases over last year, it was pointed out, 1936 was a year unusually free of the disease, and the number of this year's cases were shown to be well below five-year averages.

Chicago closed her public schools indefinitely after reporting 109 cases in August as compared with a previous August high of 99 and a 1936 figure of 23, which was about average. Theatres barred children under 16, and playgrounds and wading pools were closed.

Mississippi reported 285 cases since January 1, with 29 deaths, compared with a normal of 20 cases and four or five deaths a year.

There were 25 cases in greater Milwaukee, as compared with a normal of four or five. Health department ruled kindergarten and primary grades would delay opening until September 20. Milwaukee had 85 cases in 1918 and 60 each in 1930 and 1931.

Omaha Schools Wait
The scheduled September 7 opening of schools in Omaha, Neb., was delayed at least a week as a precautionary measure to prevent spread of the disease, but officials remained unperturbed. There have been 84 cases in Omaha since May 1.

Fort Collins, Colo., apparent center of an outbreak, postponed opening of schools affecting about 2500 children. Thirty cases have been reported in the area.

INVADERS VOICE OMINOUS WARNING AFTER HOT FIGHT

thorities told both Chinese and Japanese high commands that they expected hostilities to be "withheld" during the voyage.

Yesterday the United States supply ship Gold Star ran the Whangpoo gauntlet to evacuate about 100 wives and children of American marines.

Japs Retire Strategy
Last night's Chinese counter attack forced a revision of Japanese strategy.

Chinese big guns and machine gun nests sprayed shells and bullets on Japanese warships and troop transports. Eight Japanese transports fled downstream.

Shells crashed into the international settlement and the French concession. Shrapnel burst over the foreign communities.

One projectile struck the roof of the second United States marine battalion barracks, but failed to explode. Marine officers said it was an anti-aircraft projectile.

A heavy artillery shell burst at the junction of Peking road and Shanghai's Bund in the international settlement. Shrapnel burst about the U. S. cruiser Augusta.

Even greater danger loomed for the Augusta and other foreign warships. A Japanese naval spokesman announced Japanese ships would fire across the foreign naval contingent lying in the Whangpoo in punitive bombardment of Chinese artillery positions.

Chinese Fire Improves
Chinese gunners showed surprising improvement in marksmanship. They scored three direct hits on the Japanese consulate, seriously wounding three Japanese consular police and one Japanese newspaperman.

Many Japanese bluejackets on shore and on ship board were killed or wounded.

The Chinese artillery and machine gun fire rained on Japanese transport, supply ships and the Japanese Hongkew district from emplacements in Pootung, across the Whangpoo from international Shanghai.

American and foreign vessels were anchored between Japanese warships and Pootung, preventing Japanese from returning fire and inspiring the Japanese announcement that "hereafter we will use our full power regardless of the presence of foreign warcraft."

Consulate Dangered
Some Chinese shells overshoot their marks, falling in parts of the international settlement and the French concession. One struck near the Italian consulate, another near the Associated Press office.

Two Japanese destroyers took positions tonight directly behind the Japanese flagship Idzumo, not far from Augusta.

Chinese machine gun nests at Pootung, across the Whangpoo from Shanghai, peppered the decks of Japanese warships.

The Japanese were unable to reply effectively because the Augusta and other craft were in their range of fire.

By dusk, six Japanese naval vessels had steamed upstream from Woosung to reinforce the harried Idzumo.

SOVIET DEFENSE LOAN IS OVER-SUBSCRIBED
MOSCOW, Sept. 2.—Over-subscription of the Soviet's 4,000,000,000 ruble ($800,000,000) defense loan was reported today with the announcement that the lists have been closed. Officials said subscriptions totaled 4,950,807,000 rubles.

The government unexpectedly floated the loan last July 1, paying 4 percent interest. Its announced purpose was "consolidation of national defense."
