

G. O. P. DIVIDED ON HOOVER PROPOSAL FOR CONVENTION

Idea Stimulates Discussions of Party Policies and Strategists — Landon Is Silent — Survey Made

By L. A. Brophy
NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Herbert Hoover's suggestion for a "mid-term" convention of the Republican party has caused a sharp division of opinion among leaders over the nation, many favoring it and others definitely in opposition.

The Hoover thought, tossed into the middle of eddying discussions over party policies and strategy, has stimulated discussions over party leadership and "whether are we drifting" among the Republican executives, the national committeemen and women, and the state and county chairmen.

Survey Made
A country-wide survey by the Associated Press today brought expressions from leaders of the party in 25 states. The Hoover proposal seemed to find favor with state and county chairmen; at least 15 well known members of the national committee said they approved it. Other committee members were warily lukewarm, many wheel-horses refused to comment.

All Landon, titular head of the party, had no comment, but opposition came from Frank Todd, Kansas Republican state chairman. Mr. Todd said he did not favor a national "grass roots" convention. He believes organization by precincts superior.

Resent Hoover Lead
It was apparent from some replies that a feeling exists in some quarters that the holding of such a gathering in the Hoover way might project the former president into actual party leadership.

Said Henry S. Caulfield, of St. Louis, last Republican governor of Missouri: "I do not think it is advisable for him (Hoover) to take the leadership in calling any party meeting. He is a very fine man, but I don't think at this time he has the confidence of the public."

Believing, evidently, that the democratic fireworks in the last congress were symptomatic of an incurable split, many Republican prominent advanced cold water on the suggestion in some G.O.P. quarters that anti-Roosevelt Democrats should be invited into the party fold.

Let Democrats Alone
Keep the party, they said, on the bed-rock of its fundamental principles, let the Democrats alone and stay away from movements to change the name or principles of the grand old party.

Perry H. Howard, national committeeman from Mississippi, said, "I am opposed to the pre-convention. I am opposed to any reorganization of its name or change of its name of any consequence with any group that will in any way affect its fundamental principles."

National committeemen and women who said they agreed with the Hoover notion, at least in principle, included Ned Creighton and Mrs. Wilma Royal of Arizona; Harrison E. Spangler of Iowa; Hugh Butler of Nebraska; Harvey C. Jewett, Jr., of South Dakota; J. Will Taylor of Tennessee; and George W. Snyder of Utah.

Like Mr. Howard, W. David Tilghman, Jr., of Maryland, chairman of the Republican state central committee, used no diplomatic language in expressing opposition.

Said Mr. Tilghman: "I don't look with favor on the proposal for a national meeting, as I feel it would be of no real value to the party at present. I think that Chairman Hamilton is proceeding in the right manner in having groups of leaders for conferences."

Maternal Instinct Strong In Monkey

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Jocko the monkey, 13-year old resident of C. H. Mabry's trailer home, has a new foster child, a six-week old alley cat. She gives the kitten her undivided attention, even keeping one arm around it when she eats.

She had grieved since someone poisoned a baby wild boar brought from Mexico for her by John (Pep) Martin, St. Louis Cardinal baseball star. Previously she had mothered cats, dogs, a duck and two timber wolves.

Jocko has never had a baby monkey of her own.

Recover Diary Of Swedish Explorer

TROMSOE, Norway, Sept. 3.—(AP)—The Norwegian ice ship Gudrun returned today from the Arctic with a tiny receptacle in which, the captain said, was a "diary" of the Swedish explorer Salomon August Andree, who was lost on an attempt to reach the north pole by balloon 40 years ago.

The copper and cork container was found on a small island near Spitzbergen by a fisherman. The Gudrun's master declined to disclose what the contents stated, but he said the "diary" was in good condition.

ENROLLEE HANDBOOK IS PUBLISHED HERE FOR CCC RECRUITS

An "Enrollee's Handbook," designed to familiarize recruits with the customs and regulations of the CCC, will be issued to every rookie who arrives in the Medford district during the next enrollment period.

The handbook is mimeographed with printed cover, and is a pocket-size volume easily carried. It contains 107 pages of information which will help the newcomer adjust himself to camp life.

Capt. William C. Ryan, district welfare officer, assembled the material and prepared the volume. Maj. G. R. Owens, district commander, wrote the "foreword" which appears over his signature.

The handbook is similar in form and content to the soldier's handbook issued to enlisted men in the army, but is designed for CCC members and their problems.

Following is a list of section and paragraph titles: Oath of Enrollment; Duties of Citizenship; Camp Calls; Care of Property; Passes, Discipline, Courtesy and Punishments; Ratings; Enrollment and Reenrollment; Transfers; Leave; Discharge; Fire Hazards; Safety; Welfare, Athletics, Education, Library and Religion; Fire Duty; Writing Home; Change of Address of Allottees; Troop Trains, Complaints, Side Camps; Conservation Work; Subversive Propaganda; Use of the Compass; Map Reading; Personal Hygiene and First Aid.

The handbooks will be issued to the camps within a few days and will be available for distribution to new enrollees.

Lot To Be Honored

ROCHFORD, France (UP)—A monument to Julien Viane, who is known throughout the world by his pen-name Pierre Loti, is planned by citizens of Rochefort where he was born in 1850. A French naval officer as well as author of the famous "Fishesman of Iceland," Loti's friends, neighbors and colleagues expect the monument to be completed within a year.

Students Doubt Miracles

BELOIT, Wis. (UP)—A majority of students at Beloit college go to church, but they do not believe that God worked miracles, a survey revealed. Out of 412 students who turned in answers, 278 reported they believed the creation of the earth was a geological process while 58 were "content to let it remain a mystery."

Chipmunk Too Crafty

THREE RIVERS, Cal. (UP)—To make sure he would not lose his automobile key while on a fishing trip, J. Leever conceived the unhappy idea of burying it near the parked automobile. When he returned in the evening, he found that a chipmunk had scented the leather key case, dug it up and departed with the entire booty.

STATES WILL RECEIVE SUBSTANTIAL AMOUNTS IN GAME RESTORATION

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—(AP)—The wildlife restoration act, signed Thursday by President Roosevelt, authorizes annual distribution of some $2,700,000 to the states that agree to cooperate.

Each state is required to adopt assenting legislation, but any governor, until after adjournment of the next regular legislative session, may give his state's assent by executive order.

The measure does not levy new taxes, but provides for distribution of existing taxes on sportsmen's equipment to the various states on the basis of area and number of hunting licenses sold. States and the federal government, through the secretary of agriculture, are to cooperate in using the money for wildlife conservation projects.

No state may receive more than $150,000 a year under the act, and a minimum of $15,000 is provided for any state that will set aside $5,000 for the work. The states are to set aside with these maximum and minimum exceptions, one-third as much in state funds as they receive from the federal government.

Estimated federal contributions to the various states, before applying the maximum and minimum rules, figured on the basis of $3,000,000 taxes with an 8 percent deduction for administration, were reported as follows: Idaho, $52,105; Montana, $91,285; Oregon, $59,159; Washington, $68,500.

Daylight Tests Made
LONDON (UP)—Four girl clerks in the National Physical Laboratorie worked for weeks not knowing that they were being used in a test to find the amount of daylight they needed. None of them knew that each time she turned on her desk lamp, the current automatically worked a cinematograph camera which took photos of the scale on a micro-ammeter.

JAPANESE FACING FINANCIAL SMASH IN WAR ON CHINA

Economic Experts Tell Washington, London That Nippon Will Be Bled White by Outlay in Far East

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—(AP)—On the basis that it's an ill wind which blows nobody good out of the disturbing Sino-Japanese hostilities, economic experts are trying to solve Washington and London with the prediction that the Nipponese are headed for a financial disaster which will render them impotent for many years.

It certainly would take a load off many American and British minds if the Japanese were compelled to go and sit down in a corner for a while and stop throwing tear-gas bombs into the camp of the western world.

Many Blessings.
Among other things, Uncle Sam and John Bull would be more than glad to be able to move about in the Far East with the same freedom as of old, without danger of having their toes stepped on by the smiling but ambitious Japanese. Lovers of peace would like to see a slackening of the Anglo-American Japanese naval competition which Japan is charged with forcing. And money-happy tradesmen would be most happy to get rid of Japan's disastrous competition in cheaply manufactured goods.

The idea, right or wrong, that the west would benefit in considerable measure from the economic weakening of Japan is not new. America and England began to note back at the time of Japan's invasion of Manchuria in 1931, that the more the Japanese poured their gold into the thirsty plains of northern China, the less the west had to fear in every way from the Mikado's domains.

Danger of Clash Fade.
The dangers of a clash between Japan and America or England receded as the cost of Japanese glory in the Far East increased.

Despite the fact that she has been in the throes of a financial crisis, Japan has gone all out in her military expenditures in China. The Chinese estimate that the Tokyo government is spending $5,000,000 a day in the campaign—and the Japanese public long ago began crying out against high taxes and the cost of living.

Thieves Ignore Size.

Boner, Toggler, Twister Listed as Occupations

MILWAUKEE.—(UP)—Clerks in the marriage license bureau are learning that it takes all sorts of persons to make a word.
For instance, among recent license applicants were a twister, a trichologist, a flask man, and a boner.
As a starter, the clerks reported, is only that the clerks have listed their occupations as a topper, a legger, a looper, a paint filler, a salad girl, and an egg-breaker. Those are only a few of the unusual occupations in a metropolitan area that come to light in a marriage bureau, clerks said.

Upon questioning, the bureau found that a twister is a hoister worker performing one specific task. The trichologist explained that he practiced trichology and walked away before a puzzled clerk could question him further. The dictionary revealed that trichology is "the science of treating hair."

What it is that a flask man or a paint-filler does. Toppers, leggers, and loopers are connected with the hosiery business.
Harry Wilcox, a license clerk, said he envies most of all the egg-breaker. She explained that she does nothing but break eggs in a bakery.
A coil cleaner, Wilcox said, keeps the coils clean which connect the beer barrels with the tavern spigots. A coil winder explained that he works in a factory where armatures are made.

Most surprising of all to Wilcox was to find that an enrober has nothing to do with clothing. He works in a candy factory where he enrobes creams with chocolate.
A boner said he was employed in a packing plant, boning meat. The license bureau wasn't real sure about a shovel-engineer, but some of the clerks thought he might be a ditch-digger.

A wire-puller said he worked for the telephone company while a rigger explained that he is one of the men sent out to set up heavy machinery which has been delivered in pieces. In the laundry hand-finishing are important employees. They work at the ironing boards.
Togglers and tackers ply their trade in the tanning industry. The toggler, as you might have suspected, operates a toggle. The toggle separates the hide and the hair. The tackers put the hides on frames to dry.
In applying for his license, a caller explained that he summons employees in a railroad yard.
A boarder does not work in a boarding house nor is he connected with the lumber business, it was explained. He is the man who puts the boards in stockings to form their shape.
